SECOND CHANCE AT KELLY PLAN GIVEN TO HOUSE

Will Vote on Senate Bill Wednesday.

Revive Remap Issue

The decision of the state Supreme court knocking out reapportionment of congressional districts puts the inequality of representation in city and downstate districts to the fore as a political issue. Details on page 4.

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 13.—[Special.]—Another chance to pass the Kelly plan bill in the house of representatives was offered Cook county today by downstate leaders. Although the prospects of complete success were slim, the offer was accepted.

It came from supporters of the state income tax bill, who, having battled their way yesterday to a point where their bill was a special order of business for a showdown, this morning changed their minds and asked that final action on the proposed new tax be postponed until next Wednesday. It was charged on the floor that their change of heart was due to a certainty that they faced defeat unless they could round up a few more votes.

Informal negotiations were conducted through a series of huddles around the speaker's rostrum and in the aisles. When it was over there was an agreement that the senate's Kelly plan bill will be called up for passage next Wednesday morning and that passage of the income tax bill will not be asked until the Cook county measure has been acted upon.

Own Bill Is Beaten.

The house's own bill covering the Kelly plan for the reorganization of the taxing machinery of Cook county was administered two severe beatings in the early hours this morning, once with an emergency clause attached which required 102 votes, and then, with the clause stricken, when it would have required only 77 votes for passage.

On the first test it received 80 votes and was declared lost in its form at that time. On the second roll call it received only 53, and further proceedings laid it permanently at rest.

Earlier in the day opponents of the income tax consented to rescinding important amendments to the tax bill, and when the taxation reorganization bill was slaughtered the Chicago members became emphatic in declaring what they would do to the income tax today.

Change of Tactics.

Over night, it was said, the advocates of the income levy checked up on the roll calls of yesterday, and when they found they had no chance of obtaining the six or eight Cook county votes necessary they determined to delay action. Homer J. Tice [Rep., Greenview], sponsor of the tax and leader of the farm bloc, moved for postponement at the first opportunity.

Elmer J. Schnackenberg, Chicago Republican leader, immediately asked why Tice had changed his mind.

"Unless I sense the situation entirely wrong," he said, "this bill will not pass here today. I don't know what the situation will be by Wednesday, but we are here today and ready to vote. We ought to proceed."

Shanahan Suggests.

Tice insisted upon his right as sponsor of the bill to guide its course. Then Speaker Shanahan intervened.

"I have spent an hour," he said, "waiting for an agreement as to this bill and the senate bill on the Kelly plan. It has been suggested that senate bill 14 [Kelly plan] be advanced to third reading next Tuesday and that it be taken up on passage on Wednesday and be followed by the income tax bill."

He said the suggestion had been agreed to by two downstaters, Tice and John P. Devine [Dem., Dixon], and by two Chicago Democrats, Benjamin Adamowski and James P. Boyle.

"This is nothing but a plan to bolster up the chances of the income tax," said Schnackenberg.

"He protested against the postpone-

CANCEL GERMAN DEBT; FORCE U.S. HAND: MUSSOLINI

Says Europe Must Act First.

European Moves

BERLIN.—Youth of Germany acts to re-elect President von Hindenburg.

MILAN, Italy, Jan. 13.—(AP)—Premier Mussolini advised Europe today in an article in his newspaper, Popolo D'Italia, to cancel reparations as the first step to the world's economic recovery.

The article, which was unsigned, but is known to be from Il Duce's pen, said this undoubtedly would force the United States to follow suit by canceling war debts.

It was Mussolini's second pronouncement through his Milan newspaper in three days, of his personal views and therefore of the official policy of Italy.

Would Exert Moral Effect.

The writer pointed out the moral effect that voluntary cancellation of reparations by European states would have on the United States. The American people could not, he said, then insist on the payment of war debts and thus appear in history as a "Shylock" and the only profiteer of the war.

"It would be to the United States' own interest to make this gesture of renunciation," the article said. "Not only will she lose nothing, but she will regain by other routes all she formerly canceled.

"But the first step should be made in Europe. The United States cannot be expected to take the initiative. It is Europe that should place her in the position of facing the completed fact, which she will end by accepting, the more so because she will be unable in any way to revoke it.

"U. S. Needs Europe."

"The economy of the world is solid: whoever in any part of the world damages it damages himself. Customs reprisals call for counter reprisals. A fall in one money places all moneys in immediate danger of ruin.

"The world needs the United States, but the United States needs Europe and the world as never before. The chain of reparations is made of the following links:

"Germany is the debtor of all; Italy and France owe England; Italy, France, and England owe the United States. There is only one state which owes nothing to any one and is the creditor of all—the United States.

"Cancellation Now or Later."

"This situation does not complicate, but simplifies. That, sooner or later, cancellation of German reparations must be arrived at was universally known. The only question was that of procedure.

"The German government has officially made known to the world that Germany is forever unable to pay. This is the new factor. England makes known that she is not adverse to welcoming a radical solution. France finds in the not yet defined attitude of the United States a motive of intransigeance [French intransigeance].

"U. S. Holds Key."

"The key to the solution, therefore, is in the hands of the United States. The time for a force measure of the Ruhr type of occupation is past. Italy would refuse to participate in it in any guise.

"There is only one way out of this stagnant situation—European states must abandon their reciprocal positions as debtors and creditors. This first step completed, a united front of European debtors should be presented to America. By renouncing their credits, European debtors of the United States could, with perfectly clear consciences, ask annulment of their debts by the government of the United States.

"Face to face with the act of a Europe which had demonstrated its overcoming of the sense of distinction between victor and vanquished, and created a new atmosphere propitious for later, wider and more fruitful agreements, the United States would not have the courage to insist on payment of her credits."

Seize Suspect in Rich Widow, Maid Slayings

BULLETIN.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 14 (Thursday).—(AP)—Police early today arrested in connection with the Middleburg, Va., murder of Mrs. Agnes Boeing Ilsley, a Negro who gave the name of Melvin Crawford, 28, and who answered the general description of the suspected slayer. He was picked up at a mission home.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 13.—[Special.]—Washington police tonight were hot on the trail of the murderer who beat to death Mrs. Spencer Ilsley, wealthy widow of a Milwaukee banker, and her maid last night on the Ilsley estate near Middleburg, Va.

The clew that definitely placed the slayer in the District of Columbia area was the finding tonight of an automobile stolen from the Ilsley garage after the double slaying, parked at the south end of the Potomac bridge here, on the direct road from Middleburg to Washington. In the car was a drivers' license issued to Mrs. Ilsley and a pair of shoes believed to have been hers. Police learned that the parked car had been standing at the bridge head since noon today.

Further evidence found in the car was withheld, but it was announced that an arrest was imminent. The police theory is that the murders were committed by George Crawford, a Negro servant whom Mrs. Ilsley had discharged recently.

Widow in Fear of Him.

Authorities of London county, Va., where the Ilsley estate lies, said Mrs. Ilsley had received threats from Crawford and swore out a warrant for him a week ago, upon which the Negro went into hiding. The Middleburg police advanced the theory tonight that the slayer had an accomplice. Birdie Neal, a Negress friendly with Crawford, was arrested and questioned for hours.

The bodies of Mrs. Ilsley and Mrs. Mina Buckner, the maid, were found in night attire in adjoining rooms in a cottage on the Middleburg estate. Their skulls had been crushed and their bodies beaten. A heavy boot jack found near one of the bodies apparently the weapon used by the murderer. The house was in wild disorder but nothing of value appeared to be missing.

The bodies were discovered this morning by Paul Boeing, Mrs. Ilsley's brother, who has been occupying the mansion house on the estate. The mansion house was occupied for a time this winter by Katrina McCormick, daughter of the former congresswoman from Illinois, Ruth Hanna McCormick.

Mrs. Ilsley was a member of the exclusive Middleburg Hunt club, and was well known in Washington and New York society.

Well Known in Milwaukee.

Milwaukee, Wis., Jan. 13.—[Special.]—Mrs. Agnes Ilsley, widow of the late Spencer Ilsley, former Milwaukee banker, was Agnes Boeing of New York. She was married to Mr. Ilsley, a widower, in New York in 1927. He died in 1931.

Mrs. Ilsley was born June 14, 1891, in Minto, N. D., and from there her parents moved to Fargo, N. D. She attended the University of Wisconsin and was graduated in 1915.

FATHER IS LOSER IN SUIT BECAUSE HE IGNORES BABY

Nathan Brin, 1822 South Avers avenue, a salesman, appeared before Circuit Judge Daniel P. Trude yesterday on a petition to reduce the $12 weekly child support money he has been paying to his former wife, Mrs. Idelle Brin, 1510 South Ridgeway avenue, for their infant son, Roslyn, 1 year old, since their divorce last July.

"I wouldn't mind the reduction so much, judge," Mrs. Brin said, "but I do resent the fact that he has not once inquired as to the baby's health or visited him."

"This is an example of many cases," Judge Trude replied. "So many men don't realize that their children remain their own even after divorce. They consider the alimony order much the same as they do a bank loan or a bill.

"Such a father," he added, "is not entitled to have his payments reduced and I'll refuse to do so until I find that he has shown some interest in his son."

Mercury Due for Fall After Freak Warmth

The abnormally mild weather of yesterday will yield to winter's chill by tonight, C. A. Donnel, government forecaster, predicted last night. Brisk northwest winds will bring moderately cold weather. The temperature may fall to 20 degrees above zero and some light snow may also be expected, Forecaster Donnel said.

"Nature was kidding the public today," the forecaster said last night. "But she is about through joking. Cold weather is on the way."

Freak Weather Over U. S.

Freakish weather abounded all over the United States yesterday. There was snow in southern California and balmy spring weather in Chicago, New York, and many other middle western and eastern localities. The temperature in Chicago reached 58 degrees at 2 p. m. In Washington the temperature yesterday was 76; in Philadelphia, 70; in New York, 68.

The daily temperature average for January thus far has been eleven degrees above normal, the records show. The record for high temperatures in January has not been reached this month, however. The all time high mark of 65 degrees above was reached in January, 1876, and January, 1909.

The white breasted nuthatch, the goldfinch and other birds which normally go south for the winter have elected to stay in Chicago's forest preserves this winter, according to an investigation conducted by the Illinois Audubon society and the Chicago Ornithological society. About 400 birds of the 24 species have given up the usual southern trip in favor of a winter in the preserves, the report showed.

Snow and Hail in California.

Snow, sleet, hail, rain, high winds and lower temperatures struck Los Angeles and other Southern California cities yesterday and kept the inhabitants wearing overcoats. In Pomona, a valley city in the orange belt, east of Los Angeles, the first snow fall in 30 years was reported. The city of Riverside saw its first snow in 40 years. The hills back of Pasadena were under an inch of snow and sleet fell in San Pedro and Long Beach. Near the head of California's Imperial valley, normally one of the warmest spots in the country, snow covered the ground.

Bury G.O.P. Veteran as Union Dictates

James J. McComb, a well known figure in Chicago Republican politics for 40 years, went to his grave yesterday followed by only two cars of mourners, one containing members of his family, the other the pallbearers. Not that Mr. McComb didn't have many friends. A thousand or more were at the church services, including a number of leading officials. As the hearse pulled away a mourner was heard to remark:

"It's an outrage that Jim's friends can't follow his body to the grave."

The Rev. William J. Ohan, pastor of Bethany Presbyterian church, 1847 Humboldt boulevard, who preached a sermon over McComb's body, took steps to avert trouble in the journey to the grave.

Plea of the Pastor.

"Friends," he said to those assembled in the church, "don't try to join the funeral procession. The livery car chauffeurs' union has promulgated a rule that you may not do so in your own cars. This rule is unfair to the dead as well as to the living. It's an unreasonable and foolish rule. It's an affront to our citizenship. But we want no trouble, so please go to Rosehill cemetery in your own cars, ahead of the hearse."

Mr. McComb, who died on Monday at the age of 74, was secretary and paymaster of the west parks board. He lived at 1542 North Kedzie avenue. During his political career he had been committeeman of the old 35th ward, member of the state board of agriculture, a member of the old state board of equalization, and city harbormaster.

Leaders at the Services.

Following his body as it was carried out of the church were State's Attorney Swanson; Fred Lundin, former Republican boss; Anthony Czarnecki, United States collector of customs; George Hitzman, state grain inspector; George Self, clerk of the Criminal court; numerous ward committeemen, park commissioners, and Thomas J. Houston, imperial potentate of the Shrine. The Masonic order was conducting the funeral.

"What are your orders about private cars?" a west park police sergeant asked one of the union drivers.

"If any private cars attempt to join the procession we are to stop at once and refuse to proceed, even if they have to take the casket back into the church," the driver replied.

Orders from Union Boss.

"Who issued those orders?" asked the sergeant.

"Scarface Reilly," answered the driver.

"Who's he?"

"Union boss."

"Is he here?"

"No."

The casket was placed in the hearse and the hearse was driven two blocks up the street, stopping at Armitage avenue. Two automobiles filled with flowers left the church. Then two other union funeral cars were filled and they sped up behind the hearse. None of the private cars followed.

The hearse, followed by the two cars of mourners, started off again and the livery drivers' branch of the teamsters' union had scored a victory.

The Same at Other Funerals.

So it was at several other funerals yesterday. The union had said the public must ride to funerals in union driven cars or keep out of the cortéges. An injunction has been issued restraining the unionists from interfering with funerals, but, the Rev. Mr. Ohan explained, no bereaved family wants trouble.

"There were nearly seventy-five private cars at the cemetery when Mr. McComb's casket was placed in the grave," said the minister. "Every one was complaining. The public is opposed to such tactics by any union and the new rule will not gain the union any sympathy."

END BORROWING TO SAVE CREDIT, MELLON URGES

Treasury Program Is Given Congress.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 13.—[Special.]—The federal government must stop the "cowardly policy" of borrowing and adopt tax increases sufficient to balance the budget by the end of 1933 if the credit of the United States government is to be restored, Undersecretary of the Treasury Ogden L. Mills today told the members of the house ways and means committee.

Secretary of the Treasury Mellon puffed jerkily at the stump of a cigar and gravely nodded confirmation as his assistant and the man credited with being the real fiscal power in the administration heatedly harangued the congressmen whose duty it will be to draw up the new revenue measure.

"To continue to borrow without any tax increase," shouted Mr. Mills, "would be seriously to threaten the credit of the United States; to create a loss of confidence in the securities of the government, and so in all securities.

Live Within Income.

"The courageous and right thing to do is to stop borrowing, balance the budget, and live within our income."

On that last point—for the government to live within its income—he was emphatic. Congress, he warned, must practice not merely self-restraint but self-sacrifice.

"There have been mighty economic forces which have tended to produce the present depression," Mr. Mills went on. As he talked—stocky, ruddy of face—he paced up and down in front of the carved walnut dais where the favored members of this most powerful house committee are accustomed to sit in all the grandeur of a Supreme court.

"But in the later phases of the depression," he went on, "fear and loss of confidence have played a greater part than economic factors. We must banish this psychology."

Must Build Credit Structure.

He lauded the two billion dollar reconstruction finance corporation bill which has passed the senate and was at that moment under debate in the house as an instrument calculated to help in the restoration of confidence.

"We must build up our credit structure around the solid pillar of the credit of the United States government," he maintained. "We must put a stop to this cowardly practice of borrowing. Nations that have followed that easy way have all been engulfed.

"The best security in the world is an obligation of the United States, yet United States government bonds have depreciated eighteen points within the last ninety days. Could you have a more depressing psychological factor?

"Why did government securities decline? Because of fear. Because instead of meeting our expenses through legitimate and sound means of taxation, there has been talk of increasing the national debt by issuing billions in new obligations."

Bond Issues Losing Favor.

The last two government bond issues, he admitted, had not been "enthusiastically" subscribed for.

"You had to use a little persuasion?" suggested Representative Crisp [Dem., Ga.].

"Yes, we did," replied Mr. Mills.

Thus the under-secretary, with Secretary Mellon looking on but not testifying, built up the background for the treasury's proposed program of tax increases which, if adopted, are expected to bring into the federal treasury an additional 390 millions in the fiscal year 1932 and 920 millions in the fiscal year, 1933.

Treasury Program.

Predicated on the assumption that the increases in income taxes will apply to 1931 incomes, the treasury estimates of additional revenues and their sources are as follows:

[Estimated additional revenue in millions of dollars]:

	Fiscal year 1932.	1933.
Corporation income	27	60
Individual income	83	185
Estates supertax	..	11
Tobacco manufactures	29	58
Conveyances of realty	6	15
Capital stock sales or transfers	5	15
Automobiles and accessories	40	121
Admissions	56	135
Radio and phonograph, equipment and accessories	7	20
Telephone and telegraph messages	25	55
Checks and drafts	37	96
Total taxes	315	770
Increased postal revenue	75	150
Total additional revenue	390	920

To cover the running expenses of the government for the balance of the fiscal year 1932, Mr. Mills explained, will probably require the issuance of a billion and a half dollars' worth of additional bonds. This sum would be cut down in accordance with any additional revenues derived from tax increases.

But when the present fiscal year comes to an end on June 30 next, borrowing must cease, he insisted.

Secretary Mellon let Mr. Mills do the reading of a detailed statement to the committee. Said the statement:

"We are fully justified in calling on the people to make further sacrifice in order to supply their government with adequate revenue, but we are only justified in making this call if at the same time we eliminate every unnecessary expenditure and see to it that, just as enforced rigid economy prevails in every home in the land, so must it be observed in every operation of the federal government."

The tax base must be broadened, the secretary insisted, by lowering the present exemptions of $1,500 and $3,500 to $1,000 and $2,500 for a single taxpayer and a married taxpayer respectively.

Rejects Sales Tax.

The treasury has laid aside all thought of a general sales or turnover tax, said the statement; nor was it thought that the Canadian manufacturers' sales tax system would work here.

As already presented to congress, the treasury plan in brief is: Normal rates to be 2, 4, and 6 per cent; surtax rates beginning with 1 per cent and incomes of $10,000, graduated up to 37 per cent on incomes between $100,000 and $200,000, and reaching 40 per cent on incomes over $500,000.

The corporation income tax to be increased from 12 to 12½ per cent and the $3,000 exemption for domestic corporations with net incomes of $25,000 or less to be eliminated.

Miscellaneous taxes: An increase of one-sixth in the taxes on tobacco manufactures, except cigars; an increase of one cent in the existing stamp tax on transfers of stock; reduction of the exemption on admissions taxes to 10 cents; a tax on manufacturers' sales of automobiles, trucks, and accessories of 5, 3, 2½ per cent respectively; a stamp tax of 50 cents on each $500 of value in excess of $100 on conveyances of realty; a 5 per cent tax on manufacturers' sales of radio and phonograph equipment; a stamp tax of 2 cents on all checks and drafts; a tax on telephone, telegraph, cable, and radio messages of 5 cents for charges from 14 to 50 cents, and ten cents for charges of more than 50 cents.

Surtax on Estates.

Estate taxes to begin at $50,000, with a 1 per cent tax graduated up to 25 per cent on estates of more than $10,000,000.

Postal revenues to be increased to cover the estimated net deficit for 1932 of $150,000,000; the exact method of increase to be decided by the postmaster general.

Then Mr. Mills set about the business of explanation. He was asked about the past excess payments into the sinking fund. He answered by recalling the reducion of the foreign debt payments.

"So that we are not ahead of our schedule," he maintained. "It is doubtful if we are up with the schedule contemplated. We have seen the public debt increase $4,100,000,000 in 24 months and the four billion dollars so-called reserve set up through payments into the sinking fund wiped out.

"Prosperity is not to be restored by sitting back supinely."

"Velvet" Wiped Out.

"In other words," said Representative Crisp, "our velvet's wiped out."

"It's gone," Mills replied. "The treasury department considers it essential to bring this borrowing process to a halt by June 30 next."

Chairman Collier [Dem., Miss.] asked where the line between surtax increase and surtax productivity lay.

"In normal times," Mills answered, "we should raise more at 20 per cent. But in an emergency such as this, and if the taxpayers will coöperate patriotically and cheerfully and not indulge in those practices with which we are familiar, we can get more at 40 per cent."

Mr. Mills was asked how much less the treasury believed the automobile tax would bring in than it did in 1924. At his answer the committee members smiled cheerfully for the first time.

"Of course," he declared, "we make a basic assumption that the turn will come in 1932 and there will be an upward trend in business."

As an indication of its faith in the upturn, the treasury estimated that automobile production in 1932 would be 2,163,000 cars and in 1933, 3,467,000 cars.

"It is not unfair," said Mr. Mills, "to assume that the automobile industry will come back fairly quickly. None of us want to draw up a budget on the theory that prosperity is not coming back."

Includes Foreign Debts.

"You have included in your computations payments by foreign debtors next year?" Representative Hawley, former chairman, asked.

"We have," said Mr. Mills.

Asked by Mr. Hawley why the treasury did not recommend a gift tax, Mr. Mills replied:

"It has proved unsatisfactory. Its primary purpose is not to raise revenue, but to prevent the avoidance of estate and income taxes."

The treasury estimates that the increased rates will bring in an additional $17,000,000 from present taxpayers with incomes of $5,000 or under, and that the 1,700,000 new taxpayers brought in by the lowered exemptions wil contribute $22,000,000.

Representative Treadway said a paper manufacturer had objected, saying a stamp tax on checks would hurt his industry.

"That is just the beginning of the songs you are going to hear," remarked Mills. "I have seen the legions gathering."

Still answering Mr. Treadway, Mr. Mills said that the British surtax was considerably higher than ours, and that "that is one of their troubles; they have used up part of their working capital for the current expenses of the government."

He gave the following comparative table:

Income married man, 1 dependent.	Proposed U. S. tax.	British tax.
$5,000	$ 31.50	$ 650.00
$10,000	153.00	1,800.00
$100,000	22,000.00	48,000.00
Exemptions—
Single man	$ 1,000.00	$ 485.00
Married man	2,500.00	730.00
Dependents	400.00	*245.00
Dependents		†195.00

*For first. †For others

Why didn't the treasury include a gas tax, Representative Bacharach [Rep., N. J.] asked.

"The only reason we did not was because of a feeling that the states look on the gas tax as belonging to them; they rely on it," Mr. Mills answered.

"But if the states continue to trespass on what has always been a field for federal taxation and continue to impose tobacco taxes, then we are certainly justified in trespassing into the field heretofore considered the states'."

Gas Tax Tempting.

"A gas tax is simple to collect and it is broadly based. Nor have state gas taxes affected the use of the automobile. A 1 cent federal tax would bring in $150,000,000. It is one of the most tempting taxes there is."

Representaitve McCormick [Dem., Mass.] asked about a liquor tax.

In 1919, said Mr. Mills, the liquor tax brought in $483,000,000. He smiled and added "The only thing that stands in the way of it is the constitution of the United States—and the congress of the United States.

"You think people would be glad to pay it?" inquired Representative Crisp.

"I think it would be popular," Mills replied.

Answering questions by Representative Ragon [Dem., Ark.], Mr. Mills said that on 1931 incomes, the increase on individual income taxes would be fifty-four millions and on corporation incomes 143 millions.

Not Unfair to Corporations.

"It is true," he answered Representative Ragon's objections, "that corporations budget their income, setting aside a reserve for taxes. But the increase in the corporations tax is so small—from 12 to 12½ per cent—that this will not be unfair. As for individuals, very few set up a reserve for taxes; in fact, I believe that most of them pay their 1931 taxes out of 1932 incomes.

"The background of this bill is psychological," Mr. Ragon persisted. "Won't the retroactive feature have a bad phychological effect?"

"The most disturbing element to business," Mills answered, "will be the failure of government to put its house in order."

How Proposed New Income Tax Compares

Washington, D. C., Jan. 13.—[Special.]—Secretary Mellon's tax proposal, offered today, is essentially the same as the 1924 schedule. The table below compares it with the present rate [the 1928 schedule]:

FOUR PAINTINGS, ALL BY FAMOUS ARTISTS, STOLEN

New York, Jan. 13.—[Special.]—Four paintings, all of them by famous artists, were stolen from the home of Floyd B. Odlum at Forest Hills, it was announced today by the police. Their late owner, who is the president of the Atlas Utilities corporation and a director of a number of other companies, differing from published reports of the pictures' value, said they were worth "somewhere in the neighborhood of $20,000."

The four, all of which were taken from the walls of the Odlum library, included a landscape by Gainsborough, a portrait by Sir Thomas Lawrence, a scene by Watteau, and a landscape by Richard Wilson. The Lawrence picture was "The Portrait of Lady Lethbridge," and the Gainsborough was a forest scene.

"Let's show the out of towners just what Chicago is."

DEMAND TO CUT TAXES GROWING AT RAPID PACE

Per Capita Cost in U. S. Is Now Over $100 Year.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 13.—[Special.]—The demand for retrenchment of government costs, for abolition of the public extravagances of the era of easy money, for return to the fundamental principles of the American system, is gathering force.

DR. W. G. MORGAN. [Harris and Ewing.]

Senators and congressmen are hearing from their constituents in no uncertain tone on this subject. The subject is being discussed on thousands of daily and nightly rostrums.

A typical exposition of the subject was that of Dr. William Gerry Morgan, former president of the American Medical association, in an address tonight under the auspicies of the American Tax Payers' league.

All Paid From Taxes.

"The indiscriminate manner in which taxes are levied and passed on to the consumer," he said, "has inflated the cost of living almost beyond the point of endurance. The thought I wish to leave with you this evening, talking as one tax payer to another, is this. Every dollar that goes to make up our twelve billion dollar annual cost of government comes out of your pockets and my pocket, through some form of taxes."

Citing the aggregate cost of federal, state and local governments, which exceeds 12 billions a year, Mr. Morgan said that the borrowings of state and local governments are increasing at the rate of a billion anually, although they exceeded 8 billion last year. This merely deferred taxation.

"The revenues of our 250 largest cities total four billion dollars, as much as the entire cost of federal government; and the 1931 budget for New York City alone reached the staggering total of 620 million dollars, equal to the pre-war cost of the entire United States government," he went on. "The annual per capita taxes in the United States are now in excess of $100, compared with $12 in 1913. Why did this tremendous increase in taxes and expenditures occur; why this mounting cost of government?

Increases Are Cited.

"I am selecting at random a few items from the budget covering the year 1924, for comparison with the estimated budget for 1933. These are not isolated cases, but serve to illustrate how our federal budget has grown in the short span of nine years.

"In 1924, the budget for the bureau of plant industry was $2,426,000, the 1933 estimate is $5,404,000; in 1924, national parks service spent $1,632,000; in 1933, the estimated budget is $9,277,000; in 1924, the bureau of immigration cost $3,000,000; the estimated budget for 1933 is $10,707,000; in 1924, compensation of clerks and employés at first and second class postoffices amounted to $117,300,000; the estimated budget for 1933 is 183 million dollars; in 1924, collecting the customs revenue cost Uncle Sam $11,500,000, and the estimated budget for 1933 is $23,000,000. These instances could be multiplied indefinitely, but the few I have cited demonstrate the tendency along these lines. A similar condition prevails with regard to state and local expenditures.

Attacks Dollar-Matching.

"No principle is more firmly imbedded in our tradition and law than that of local self-government. It is based upon a thousand years of experience among English-speaking people. Citizens who have not learned to govern wisely their local affairs can never hope to guide the destinies of a nation. Yet it has been deemed necessary to urge a policy that, under the temptation of federal aid, would seduce the states into the acceptance of federal direction.

"I refer now to the so-called fifty-fifty or dollar-matching appropriations. No plausible argument for necessity or convenience should be permitted to break down the fundamental distinction between national and local government. It is the bedrock of our structure.

Invasion of States Rights.

"In the fiscal year 1929, the total expenditure for these federal aid projects amounted to $139,620,000. I am not criticizing this expenditure on the part of the federal government on the ground that the funds may not have been wisely and judiciously spent. I am referring to this practice as a steady invasion of and encroachment upon the functions that properly belong to the states. Citizens should realize that the federal contributions are in no sense donations of money, but rather a returning of sums already collected in the form of taxes.

"Five states drew from the federal treasury for federal aid projects almost double the amount they paid in federal taxes; but New York state, which pays approximately one-third of all internal revenue collected by the federal government, received in these projects less than one cent for each dollar contributed."

JURY WEIGHING FATE OF MICHIGAN HEIRESS LOCKED UP FOR NIGHT

Detroit, Mich., Jan. 13.—[Special.]—The jury which in deliberating the fate of Miss Helen Joy Morgan, 27 year old Flint heiress, for the murder of Leslie Casteel, her garage mechanic sweetheart was locked up for the night at 11:15 p. m. Fourteen ballots were taken, but no verdict was reached.

Miss Morgan shot Casteel five times as the two sat together in an automobile at a lonely cemetery road the night of last April 23.

Circuit Judge James S. Parker gave the case to the jury at 7:43 tonight after the jury had listened to the arguments by state and defense attorneys for five hours.

The end of testimony came early today when the defense attorneys surprised everybody by closing their case without placing the accused woman on the stand.

CONGRESS HEARS HAWAII IS LOSING CONTROL OF VICE

Senate Extends Demand for Inquiry.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 13.—[Special.]—A smashing report condemning vice conditions in Hawaii as intolerable was issued by the house naval committee late today following an examination of official records recounting events leading up to the killing of a native Hawaiian charged with the rape of a naval officer's wife.

The committee spoke in scathing terms of local and federal authorities charged with the maintenance of law and order at Honolulu. It charged that the attitude of the authorities there has been such as to encourage the crime of rape. On one occasion, says the report, Gov. Judd pardoned a rapist after he had served but a few months in prison so that the prisoner could go to New York and engage in a prize fight at Madison Square Garden.

In the meantime, indications grew that the senate would order a special inquiry into the whole Hawaiian situation. Senator Kenneth McKellar [Dem., Tenn.] reintroduced in the senate the inquiry resolution he presented last Monday and announced hearings would be held before the audit and control committee tomorrow.

Wants Special Committee.

He now also urges selection of a special committee of three senators by the Vice President and the appropriation of from $1,000 to $2,500 to finance an exhaustice inquiry. Senator McKellar asserted today that he intended to make certain that an impartial investigation was conducted at Honolulu. Any attempt to throttle the inquiry, he said, will be frustrated.

That conditions have changed but little since 1927 when a government intelligence agent reported to Washington that Honolulu is "shot through with all kinds of organized vice, with prostitutes so prosperous they solicit trade in the most expensive limousines" was indicated by the house naval committee report. This document, issued by Chairman Carl Vinson [Dem., Ga.] asserted the laxity of Hawaiian authorities has convinced the lawless elements in Honolulu that the crime of rape can be commited "without serious consequence" to the perpetrators.

Light sentences or acquittals are the rule, says the committee, in rape cases in Honolulu.

Puts Blame on Authorities.

So far as the people in Hawaii are concerned the committee declares that the evidence shows that they are just as "patriotic, self-respecting, and law abiding" as are to be found anywhere in the world. The fault, it is charged, lies largely with the authorities charged with the enforcement of law and order.

The report of the subcommittee reads:

"The island of Hawaii has a population of 370,000—eighty-five per cent of which being of mixed races other than Caucasians—that out of this number approximately 225,000 are males and 145,000 are females; that in the past there have been frequent occurrences of the crime of rape, resulting in the majority of cases in light sentence or acquittal. The committee further finds that the officials charged with the responsibility of enforcing the law having in the past nolle prossed a case in which an enlisted man in the United States navy was murdered.

Pardoned to Enter Match.

"We respectfully call attention to the case in which one Ahakeulo pleaded guilty to the crime of assault and attempt to ravish and was sentenced to an indeterminate term of four months to fifteen years. Later he was given a pardon by the governor of the island upon the theory that his services were needed as an amateur boxer at Madison Square Garden in New York City, representing the territory of Hawaii. It may be here stated that this same person is one of the five who were charged with the atrocious crime committed against the wife of an officer in the United States navy."

Recommendations of the subcommittee were:

"First—That the judge advocate general and the attorney general be requested to render every service possible in order to see that those charged with this crime shall be given a fair and just trial;

"Second—That in view of the fact that Gov. Judd of Hawaii, after a native athlete had been tried and convicted for a similar offense, gave to him a pardon within a very short period, that he be called on to give a complete statement of facts as to why he established such a precedent, thereby causing a lawless element to feel that this crime could be committed without any serious consequences.

"Third—That the governor of Hawaii make a full and complete report as to whether or not it would be advisable to recor mend to the legislature a penalty of capital punishment for the crime of rape;

"Fourth—That the organic law of Hawaii be amended to empower the governor to remove for misfeasance, malfeasance or nonfeasance in office of any official in the territory;

"Fifth—That the officials in the navy be commended for having protected the lives of those who are charged with murder as an outgrowth of the serious condition herein set forth, and in addition for coöperating with the officials of Hawaii in trying to bring about a peaceful solution of the problem in such a way as to prevent disorder and bloodshed."

SOPHIE, FORMER QUEEN OF GREECE, DIES IN GERMANY

Sister of Ex-Kaiser; Lost Throne in War.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

FRANKFORT-AM-MAIN, Germany, Jan. 13.—Former Queen Sophie of Greece died at a hospital here tonight after a lingering illness from cancer. Her daughters and her youngest son were at her bedside. The former Greek queen, who was a sister of former Kaiser Wilhelm of Germany, underwent an operation here on Nov. 21.

To Sophie Dorothea Ulrica Alice was attributed the influence which kept Greece under her husband, King Constantine, from entering the world war in its early stages on the side of the allies against Germany. This in turn led to the abdication of the king in June, 1917. The royal family has lived outside of Greece since 1922. The ex-king died in 1923.

Born in Potsdam.

The former queen was born in Potsdam on June 14, 1870, the fourth child of Emperor Frederick III. and his consort, Victoria, princess royal of Great Britain.

Sophie saw her father die 88 days after he ascended the throne, a victim of a painful, mysterious disease, the nature of which the court tried to keep secret, but which experts today declare was cancer of the throat.

She met Constantine at a German military school and was married to him in 1889, with good prospects for a brilliant royal career, as she was the most masterful of the former kaiser's four sisters.

Stirred Anger of Kaiser.

Two years after her marriage she aroused the kaiser's displeasure by renouncing the Lutheran church and joining the Orthodox Greek church, and it was not until long afterward that the two patched up their quarrel.

Six children, three sons and three daughters, were born to Constantine and Sophie. They were George, Alexander, Paul, Irene, Catherine, and Helen, the estranged wife of King Carol of Rumania. Helen was her favorite daughter. George, Paul, Irene, and Helen were at the deathbed.

Queen Sophie was actually queen of Greece twice. The first reign of Constantine and Sophie lasted from 1913 to 1917, when King Constantine was excluded from the throne by the allied powers. Alexander, the queen's second son, was set up as king and reigned until he died on Oct. 25, 1920, whereupon King Constantine returned to the throne. He abdicated on Sept. 27, 1922, and was succeeded by the eldest son, George, who was forced to leave Greece on Dec. 18, 1923.

FORMER KAISER SUFFERS ATTACK OF BRONCHITIS

DOORN, Holland, Jan. 13.—(AP)—Former Kaiser Wilhelm is suffering from an obstinate attack of bronchitis, it was learned today.

The major domo of his establishment said that he had been suffering with a cold for several days and that it was followed by a bronchial attack.

Ten days ago Wilhelm was stricken with an attack of influenza and cold and was ordered to bed by his physicians. Subsequently, it was said that he had completely recovered but was remaining indoors. Today it was said there is no sign of fever but that considerable precautions will be necessary during the next few days.

BELGIUM HANDS U. S. APOLOGY FOR HOOVER 'INSULT'

[Copyright: 1932: By the New York Times.]

BRUSSELS, Jan. 13. — Brussels newspapers today gave a prominent place to a news agency announcement that U. S. Ambassador Hugh Gibson received apologies from Foreign Minister Paul Hymans yesterday for recent attacks upon the United States government and President Hoover in the Belgian press. Hymans is said to have pointed out that these newspaper comments did not represent the official Belgian attitude.

The article for which the apology was made appeared in Independence Belge. It was entitled "American Ignorance," and attacked Senators Borah and Johnson for their attitude on reparations. The article said:

"The statements of these two men show the ignorance of a great people who should take a part in the solution of the difficult problems weighing down Europe. It was a stupefying example when Senator Johnson addressed congress, saying, with reference to reparations, that each German should drink one glass less of beer. These enormities were uttered in the American congress, and no member protested their insanity. It is unimaginable that a senator should dare to speak on a problem of which he is so ignorant and to spread such disconcerting fairy tales.

"This ignorance is general, America being too busy recording the doings of gangsters to study politics. It is America's attitude, inspired by its ignorance of realities, that is compromising peace."

A protest against the apology is made in the Socialist press.

OPEN TRIAL OF 4 FOR MITCHELL ROBBERY TODAY

Four members of the "42" gang, charged with the $150,000 gem robbery at the Lake Forest home of Mr. and Mrs. William H. Mitchell, are to go on trial this morning before Judge Ralph J. Dady at Waukegan.

Society personages of Lake Forest and other north shore suburbs have indicated that they will attend the hearing. The nine victims of the holdup have announced that they would be present.

The defendants are Paul Ross, Frank Tufano, Nick Maentanis, and Joseph Perrello. Reports that they might plead guilty were denied last night. Frank McDonnell, Chicago attorney, and Sidney Block will represent them. State's Attorney A. V. Smith and George McGaughey will prosecute.

The Mitchell home was robbed on Nov. 21. Those robbed were Mr. and Mrs. Mitchell, Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Wheeler, Mr. and Mrs. William McCormick Blair, Mrs. Dekoven Phelps, Mrs. E. A. Cudahy Jr., and Ralph Hines.

PAIR HELD AS ROBBERS.

George Pasenke, 24 years old, 3518 South Damen avenue, and Louis Herman, 20 years old, 3611 South Honore street, were held to the grand jury on charges of robbery yesterday by Municipal Judge J. William Brooks. They were arrested after William Koteschke, 19 years old, 1712 West 32d street, had been shot in a robbery and named them as accomplices.

SPECIAL SESSION CALLED IN HAWAII TO FIGHT CRIME

American Seized in New Honolulu Rape Case.

BY CLIFFORD GESSLER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HONOLULU, Jan. 13.—Gov. Lawrence M. Judd today called a special session of the Hawaiian legislature to convene on Monday to clean up Honolulu's crime conditions, which are in the spotlight now as a result of the abduction and slaying last Friday of a native who was one of five accused of the rape last September of Mrs. Thomas H. Massie, a naval officer's wife.

LAWRENCE M. JUDD.
[Harris & Ewing.]

Charged with the native's murder are Lieut. Massie, his mother-in-law, Mrs. Granville Fortescue, and two enlisted men, Albert O. Jones and E. J. Lord.

New Rape Case Stirs City.

Meanwhile, a new rape case stirred the city today. Police arrested an American whom they said they found struggling with a Portugese girl. He was charged with attempted criminal assault. The man identified himself as Philaneer B. Gray, 31, and said he was from Texas. He denied the charges. Police said Gray was recently arrested on a dry law charge and for resisting an officer.

First on the legislature's agenda Monday will be reorganization of the widely criticized police department, as recommended by a special legislative committee. The committee has proposed a bill which would create a police commission to be appointed by the governor. The police commission, in turn, would appoint a chief of police.

Gov. Judd, simultaneously with the calling of the special session, protested against criticism by a house naval subcommittee in Washington yesterday of the instructions given to the jury at the trial of the five men, including Joseph Kahahawai, Friday's murder victim, who were accused of assaulting Mrs. Massie. The subcommittee had held that the jury was given "thinly veiled instructions to acquit" the defendants.

Charges Ulterior Motive.

"It is apparent that some ulterior motive is in the background," Gov. Judd said. He sent a strong protest to Secretary of the Interior Wilbur, in which he defended Judge A. E. Steadman, who presided at the trial.

Next steps against the four defendants charged with Kahahawai's murder will be taken on Friday, when the grand jury convenes. Until then they will be in naval custody on the warship Alton at Pearl Harbor. An agreement has been reached between naval authorities and the territorial circuit court under which they will be brought to the court when necessary.

Honolulu business leaders today advised Gov. Judd that unless prompt action is taken they will go over the heads of local authorities to Washington to get an alleviation of the crime situation. A chamber of commerce committee also requested a change in the police department.

Meanwhile, tourists have begun to cancel their Hawaiian reservations. One hotel announced it has received many inquiries as to possible race riots.

VAINLY SURRENDERS LIFE SAVING DEVICE TO ANOTHER PATIENT

Tucson, Ariz., Jan. 13. — (AP) — A drama of life and death, in which the stepdaughter of the publisher of the Louisville Courier-Journal gave up an oxygen administering device that the son of a Los Angeles newspaper city editor might have a chance for recovery became known today with the death of 12 year old Patten Levings.

Miss Alice Hilliard, ill with pneumonia at the Desert sanatorium, was obtaining relief from the only oxygen aparatus available in Tucson when young Levings, son of W. H. Levings, suffered a relapse after an operation for mastoid. Miss Hilliard decided to battle against pneumonia without artificial aid, and the oxygen machine was rushed to the hospital in an effort to save another life.

But the boy failed to react to the oxygen treatment as had Miss Hilliard. He died today.

Meanwhile an "artificial lung" was started by airplane from New York yesterday to protect Miss Hilliard should she suffer a relapse.

RETIRED DOCTOR, 90, ELOPES WITH HOUSEKEEPER

Dr. Hammond Lindgren, 90 years old, a retired physician, and Mrs. Bertha Skawron, 42, his housekeeper, eloped yesterday to Crown Point, Ind She was a widow. After obtaining their license at the county building in Crown Point they walked across the street to the offices of Justice of the Peace Howard Kemp, who performed the wedding ceremony.

Dr. Lindgren lives at 715 South Ashland boulevard. He denied to interviewers that he had eloped. He did claim title to being Chicago's oldest native born citizen, however.

POLICEMAN, IN HIDING, BATTLES THREE ROBBERS

Policeman John Spreitzer of the Deering street station fought a pistol battle late yesterday with three bandits who attempted to hold up an A. and P. store at 2900 South Union avenue. Spreitzer was on guard in a rear room.

One of the bandits dropped at the policeman's fire, but got to his feet and staggered out the door with his companions. Two women customers dropped to the floor when the shooting started and escaped harm. They were Mrs. Jeanette Rodewald, 2829 Emerald avenue, and Mrs. Betty De Crosco, 2853 Wallace street.

Carl Smith, manager of the store, was waiting on the women when the robbers entered. One remained at the door, one guarded Smith and the women, and the third walked toward the back room where Spreitzer was hiding. Spreitzer fired at the man at close range. The robber fell to the floor, then jumped up and backed away firing. One of his companions also opened fire, and they backed out the door to an automobile, in which they escaped.

9 HELD AS BOMB RING AFTER RAID ON RURAL LAIR

Eight men and one woman, alleged members of an arson and bombing ring, were held last night by authorities in Gary, Crown Point, and Valparaiso following a raid earlier in the day on one of the hideouts of the gang in the Knollwood filling station at Rockland and Waukegan roads, at the northwest edge of Lake Forest. Two men suffering from severe burns were seized in the raid.

Sheriff Bernie Maxwell of Porter county, Indiana, said that the men were injured when a bomb which they were carrying exploded prematurely in the vegetable store owned by Chris Spiros in Valparaiso early in the morning of Dec. 24.

The raid on the Knollwood filling station was staged by Sheriff Maxwell and several of his deputies, aided by Chief of Police Frank Tiffany of the Lake Forest police and his men and Sheriff Leslie Tiffany of Lake county. When the raiders burst into the building they found two men, swathed in bandages, asleep on cots, and another man standing guard over them.

Injured Men Found.

The injured men are Pete Popovitch, 21 years old, 1049 Fillmore street, Gary, a bootlegger, and Steve Swaykowski, 30 years old, who was released from the reformatory at Pendleton, Ind., on Nov. 14, after serving five years for stealing automobiles.

The man who was acting as guard and lookout was identified as Paul Vitzey, alias "Iron Jaw" Dillon, who has served a term for robbery in the Michigan City [Ind.] penitentiary. An attendant at the station, John Lancala, wanted for two robberies at Gary, and Vitzey were taken back to Gary, while the injured men were taken to Valparaiso in an ambulance and placed under heavy guard at the Christian hospital in that city.

Hidden in Gary House.

William E. Hindel, a deputy state fire marshal from Indianapolis, who had been assigned to the case, said that the injured men had been secreted in a house at 19th and Pierce streets, Gary, until a week ago when they were taken to the filling station. Hindel revealed that a physician had been making trips from Gary to the filling station every day to treat their wounds.

The men taken in the raid are charged with setting fire to the Boston café and the M. & B. shoe store in Gary and the bombing of the Family theater and the De Luxe cigar store in the same city, besides the bomb at the Spiros store in Valparaiso.

Samuel H. Milgram, proprietor of the M. & B. shoe store, and George Theoharis, owner of the Boston café, were arrested by the Gary police several weeks ago. Evidence was presented by the state fire marshal's office and the men were held in bonds of $10,000 each on charges of conspiracy to commit arson.

Several hours after the Knollwood filling station raid the Gary police arrested Robert Morse of Gary, who has a police record as a robber. The police suspected that Morse was the leader of the gang.

Man and Wife Held.

The Gary police held John Craynok and his wife, Jennie, as accessories to the bombing and arson plots. The other prisoners in Gary were James Swaykowski, said to be a brother of one of the injured men, and Steve Kish, 517 West 11th avenue, Gary, a bootlegger. After questioning at Gary, Craynok and his wife and Kish and James Swaykowski were taken to the Lake county [Indiana] jail at Crown Point.

Early this morning Clarence Peterman, 40 years old, owner of the Knollwood filling station, and his wife, Millie, were arrested on their return to the station by Lake Forest policemen who had been waiting for them. They were taken to the county jail at Waukegan on a prohibition violation charge and will be questioned by the Indiana authorities today as possible suspects in the bombings.

WOMAN CHARGES DRYS INTIMIDATE WETS BY BOYCOTT

New York, Jan. 13.—[Special.]—Drys are using economic boycotts against persons who come out openly against prohibition, causing "widespread fear" in many who are opposed to the law to express themselves publicly, it was charged today in an address by Mrs. John S. Sheppard, New York state chairman of the women's organization for national prohibition reform. She spoke at a meeting in her home, at which a business and professional women's division of the organization was formed.

INJURIES IN FALL FATAL.

John Newman, 40 years old, 2418 West Roosevelt road, died in the county hospital yesterday of injuries he suffered on Dec. 21 when he fell down a flight of stairs in the home of a friend at 5448 Eddy street.

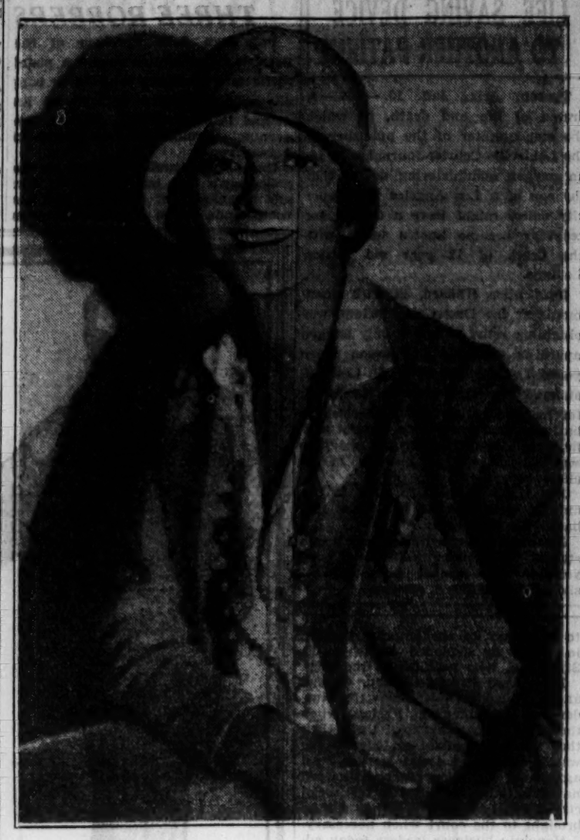
Stage Star's Marriage Revealed



Elsie Janis, whose marriage on New Year's eve at Tarrytown, N. Y., to Gilbert Wilson, Los Angeles business man, became known yesterday. She is 42 and the bridegroom is 26 years old.

Elsie Janis, 42, Secretly Marries; Husband Is 26

Tarrytown, N. Y., Jan. 13.—[Special.]—The secret marriage of Miss Elsie Janis, 42 year old actress, to 26 year old Gilbert Wilson of Los Angeles became known here today.

Rumors of the marriage on New Year's eve were repeated so often that Miss Janis had to admit, she said, she made her "début on the stage of matrimony."

The ceremony was performed by Police Judge Daniel Dwyer in the home of Mayor Eugene H. Lehman.

Bridegroom Former Chicagoan.

The bridegroom was described as a business man. He was born in Chicago and went to Hollywood a year ago at the request of his friend, Julian Eltinge, and appeared in a revue with Eltinge. He also played several minor rôles in motion pictures.

After the ceremony the bride and groom walked arm in arm to Miss Janis' home in the historic Philipse Manor house, about half a mile from the mayor's residence. She purchased the home, at one time used as the treasury of the city of New York, in 1925. It was built in 1699.

Married Before Leap Year.

"Don't forget," she said, "that I was married before leap year. I've never had a husband and he's never had a wife, so we can both start from scratch. This being my debut on the stage of matrimony some may wonder why I took a husband 16 year younger than myself. "Well, I've never had a child. Now I have a husband and he can be my child, too."

Miss Janis, who met her young husband in Hollywood, said Mr. Wilson was not an actor, but at one time had tried to be. She said he would be a great help in her business affairs and would probably keep her busy for "a little while at least."

"After all," she observed, "one is just as apt to lose a husband no matter what age he is, and I don't see why I should start in the great gamble with some one of my own age who knows all about it when I am an absolute beginner. Anyway, we are happy for the moment, and sufficient unto the day is the joy thereof."

Will Go to Hollywood.

The newlyweds will remain in Miss Janis' Philipse manor home for three weeks until she finishes a series of articles for a magazine. They will then go to Hollywood.

The devotion between Miss Janis and her mother, Mrs. Josephine Janis, perhaps was the reason that the actress did not marry sooner. Miss Janis was deeply affected by her mother's death in the summer of 1930. Seven weeks after Mrs. Janis died, her daughter announced that she was leaving the stage and picture acting to write.

DELAYS IN TRACK REMOVAL BATTLE IRK COMMISSION

The tracks, laid for public convenience during an exposition on the Navy pier eleven years ago, have caused intermittent litigation before the commission on the part of the park board, which seeks their removal.

SCHOOLBOY, 15, ADMITS ATTACK ON 17 WOMEN

Cleveland, O., Jan. 13.—[Special.]—A 15 year old "Dr. Jekyll-Mr. Hyde," Howard Feiten, honor student and athlete at Collinwood High school, stepped today from the rôle he enacted in a high school play to one of reality, confessing to having assaulted and robbed 17 girls and women during the last three weeks.

While Feiten was studying the lines of the dual personality story to prepare himself to play the leading rôle in the thriller he perpetrated a series of seven assaults on women, he confessed to police.

And after his excellent characterization had earned him the title of the school's dramatic star Feiten attacked ten more women, he told detectives.

REMAP KNOCKED OUT; REVIVED AS ELECTION ISSUE

Congress Districts Invalid, High Court Holds.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

The Illinois Supreme court knocked out of the congressional reapportionment act of 1931 yesterday, in the opinion of Cook county political lights last night, will serve to make redistricting a larger issue than ever in the impending campaign.

JUSTICE JONES.

Illinois this year will continue to elect two congressmen from the state at large and 25 from the old districts established in 1901, more than thirty years ago.

Politicians expect more battling than usual over the passage by the next legislature of an act not vulnerable in the courts to charges of "gerrymander."

Judge Shurtleff Sustained.

The high court, by a vote of 4 to 2, sustained the decree of Circuit Judge Edward D. Shurtleff in October, holding the congressional remap passed by the legislators last spring invalid. Judge Shurtleff declared it was filled with inequalities and conflicted with the doctrine of equal representation.

Justice Norman L. Jones, Democrat of Carrollton, who was elected last fall, prepared the Supreme court opinion erasing the act of 1931 from the books. It was signed by Justices Warren H. Orr, Democrat of Carthage, and Frank K. Dunn of Charleston, and Warren W. Duncan of Marion, Republicans. Two members dissented, Chief Justice Clyde E. Stone of Peoria and Justice Frederic R. De Young of Chicago, Republicans. Justice Oscar E. Heard, Republican of Freeport, in whose district the case originated, did not sign the opinion nor did he dissent.

The high court held that the act of congress requires that congressional districts, when formed, shall be as nearly as practicable compact and contingous and shall contain as nearly as practicable an equal number of inhabitants.

Tells Ratio for Districts.

The decision called attention to the fact that if the population of Illinois is divided by 27 it gives approximately 280,000 as the ratio for each district. In the act of 1931 it sets forth, the districts run all the way from 158,738 population in the proposed 17th district to 541,785 in the 5th. Quoting authority for declaring invalid apportionments of less disparity than shown in the new Illinois law, the court continues:

"If making some districts two or three times larger in population than some others is sufficiently incongruous to render an act invalid, then there is greater reason to declare void a plan which gives some districts three and four-tenths as many inhabitants as others. An apportionment cannot be sustained when the result is to give the voter in one district vastly more power than is given to a voter in another district, especially where such an inequality extends to a considerable number of districts."

The suit attacking the apportionment was brought by Frank T. Moran, Belvidere editor, and G. E. Casper, and was directed against the county clerk of Boone county and secretary of state, to prevent the holding of the congressional election under the 1931 apportionment.

First in Thirty Years.

The reapportionment which was wiped out was the first in thirty years, and it was passed by Republican votes, Gov. Emmerson acclaiming it as the great victory of the session. To break downstate opposition, the act established a metropolitan area—Cook, Lake, Will, and Du Page counties. This contains 57 per cent of the Illinois population and it was given 14 of the 27 new districts in congress. Under the old system which remains, there are 25 districts and two members are elected at large due to the failure to reapportion. Cook and Lake counties, with 53 per cent of the population have only 10 of the 25 districts.

One of the contentions raised by the legislators was that although the reapportionment contained disparities, it was nevertheless a great improvement over the thirty year old system. Five old districts have in excess of 500,000 population and one—the 7th, in Cook—has nearly 900,000.

The old districts which are continued in force are as follows:

Dist.	Pop.
1—De Priest [R.]	142,816
2—Hull [R.]	577,899
3—Kelly [D.]	540,008
4—Beam [D.]	527,320
5—Sabath [D.]	140,631
6—Igoe [D.]	632,534
7—Schuetz [R.]	689,349
8—Granata [R.]	158,216
9—Britten [R.]	300,785
10—Chindblom [R.]	577,241
11—Reid [R.]	362,126
12—Buckbee [R.]	295,623
13—Johnson [R.]	176,198
14—Allen [R.]	199,164
15—Chiperfield [R.]	212,620
16—Hull [R.]	285,713
17—Hall [R.]	175,363
18—Holaday [R.]	225,604
19—Adkins [R.]	274,137
20—Rainey [D.]	158,262
21—Major [D.]	332,282
22—Karch [D.]	344,666
23—Arnold [D.]	213,587
24—Parsons [D.]	161,158
25—Keller [D.]	258,341

During the passage of the invalidated act the Democrats raised cries of "gerrymander." Most of the congressmen opposed it. Friends of Congressman Henry T. Rainey of Carrollton, floor leader of the house, protested that it tacked on wet Adams county to his district which might give him trouble as a dry. Minority Leader M. L. Igoe and others predicted that if the Democrats got control of the house at Washington, Garner of Texas would become speaker and Rainey floor leader, and that the remap might squeeze Rainey out next time. Friends of Richard Yates, congressman at large, argued it would leave him without a district, and the great argument of the Republicans was that if they did not remap in 1931 the Democrats would remap in 1933.

Charles H. Linscott, a Rockford attorney, announced his candidacy last night for the Democratic nomination from the 12th district. In the Evanston district James Simpson Jr. announced he would continue his campaign for the Republican nomination against Congressman Carl Chindblom, dry. A four way fight is in this district.

PRISON PHYSICIAN'S DAUGHTER IS RAPED, MURDERED BY INMATE

Bellefonte, Pa., Jan. 13.—[Special.]—Elizabeth Hickok, 22, daughter of Dr. D. L. Hickok, official physician at Rockview penitentiary, was raped and then murdered in the bathroom of her parents' home on the prison farm by Fred Collins, 37 year old Negro convict.

Collins, according to his statement made this afternoon at a coroner's inquest, held for safety in the death house at Rockview, stated that he threatened the girl with a butcher knife while she was in the bathroom of the home, and then, after raping her, nearly severed her head with the weapon. The girl's parents were away on a business trip at the time, and the only person nearby was the victim's brother, who discovered his sister's mutilated body and spread the alarm.

Collins, who was an inmate of the psychopathic ward at Rockview but who had been appointed caretaker of the physician's home at Dr. Hickok's suggestion, fled across the fields toward Deputy Warden McFarland's offices, where he confessed the atrocity.

Following the inquest, Collins was brought to Bellefonte, where a court order authorized his transfer to Pittsburgh, where he will be kept until time for his trial in Centre county. Deputy Warden McFarland accompanied by detectives and state police left here late this afternoon with Collins on their way to Pittsburgh.

Prison authorities admitted that though Collins was known to be a moral pervert and had been in the psycopathic ward four years, he had been considered harmless. He was serving a 10 to 20 year sentence for second degree murder.

$1 goes as far as $3 in buying greater protection against colds

PEPSODENT ANTISEPTIC goes 3 times as far because it is 3 times as powerful as other leading mouth antiseptics. It can be diluted with 2 parts of water and still kill germs in less than 10 seconds.

FOR greater protection against sore throat colds and unpleasant breath (Halitosis), remember! there are really only two leading kinds of antiseptics. On one side you have the mouth wash that kills germs only when used full strength. On the other side you have Pepsodent Antiseptic—utterly safe when used full strength, yet powerful enough to kill germs in 10 seconds when diluted with 2 parts of water. Pepsodent Antiseptic is at least three times as powerful as other leading antiseptics.

Hence, it goes three times as far—gives you three times as much for your money—and gives you greater protection against sore throat colds. What a fine way to save money. CLEANERS TOLD TO CLEAN UP OR LOSE BUSINESS

Swanson Starts Inquiry Into Racketeering.

A demand that Chicago's $35,000,000 cleaning and dyeing industry get rid of racketeers or face loss of business was made last night as indignation grew over the murder of Benjamin Rosenberg.

Rosenberg, the manager of an independent plant and an outspoken critic of the organized cleaners, who was shot to death on Monday night near his Maywood home, was buried yesterday in Waldheim cemetery. As his widow and three children mourned at services in a Maywood chapel, the authorities took up a study of racket ramifications in the cleaning industry, seeking clews to his murder.

The demand that the cleaning industry cleanse itself or face the economic consequences was made by Gordon L. Hostetter, executive secretary of the Employers' association. Mr. Hostetter recalled that public indignation had been effective on a previous occasion.

Recalls Drive of 1929.

"Late in 1929 a rampage of acid throwing, bombing and slugging gave signal that the Capone and Moran gangs were beginning to force their way into the cleaning business," Mr. Hostetter said. "The Chicago Association of Commerce served notice that racket domination of the industry would not be tolerated.

"When the warning went unheeded a campaign was started to circularize the housewives, urging them to patronize out of town cleaners rather than submit to extortionate prices and risk destruction of the clothing by acid or dynamite. The campaign worked, for the cleaners composed their differences and established an association free of racketeers."

Swanson Questions Kaplan.

While the Employers' association was considering the new hoodlum threat in a meeting at the Union League club, State's Attorney Swanson assumed personal charge of the Rosenberg murder investigation. His first move was to summon Morris I. Kaplan, an attorney.

Kaplan is counsel for the Cleaners and Dyers' institute, a group of 107 members holding 85 per cent of the business in Chicago. He is attorney also for the dye house drivers and the dye house workers' unions, for the linen supply association, the beverage bottlers' association, and the kosher sausage makers' association. His annual retainer fees are reported to exceed $72,000.

Denies Story of Widow.

"I never saw Rosenberg in my life," he told Mr. Swanson, thus denying the statement by Rosenberg's widow at the inquest to the effect that two hoodlums seized her husband two months ago, took him to Kaplan's office, and threatened him with death unless he quit the cleaning business.

"I'd give $1,000 personally to clear up this killing," Kaplan added. "I don't know the motive for the murder. I don't believe any member of the institute is responsible. I do know it's going to hurt the industry."

Mr. Swanson dismissed Kaplan with a request that he return again on Saturday. By that time, the prosecutor said, he hoped that Dr. Benjamin M. Squires, University of Chicago economist, arbitrator in the clothing industry and dictator of the Cleaners and Dyers' institute, would be available for a conference.

Dr. Squires in Miami.

By telephone from his hotel at Miami, Fla., Dr. Squires said he would be unable to return by Saturday, but might be back next Tuesday or Wednesday. He denied that fear of the encroaching racketeers had driven him out.

"I am here for a brief rest after an attack of pleurisy," he said. "My return will depend largely on the rate of my recovery. I have engagements in Chicago on Jan. 19 and I hope to be able to fulfill them.

"Sinister influences have been attempting to terrorize the cleaning industry for the last year and regain control," Dr. Squires went on. "The plants of trustees of the institute have been the targets of window smashings, bombs and mysterious fires. I do not believe members of the institute are responsible for these and other outrages.

"So long as a decent element remains in the industry it is my plain duty to help it rid the industry of this scum which pollutes it. Several attempts have been made to frame me and word has been passed around that I am through.

"This is another insidious method of attack. I am not through so long as decent elements in the industry and city are behind me. I am not a quitter and I shall welcome and support any investigation which honestly seeks to locate and punish the guilty."

Dr. Squires was asked whether he would be willing to name the threatening racketeers either to the newspapers publicly or to State's Attorney Swanson.

Cannot Identify Hoodlums.

"I cannot precisely identify them," he said. "If I knew definitely who they were I might, under certain conditions and at a specified time, name them to the state's attorney."

He was asked whether he suspected Al Capone, now a prisoner in the county jail but still a boss racketeer, whom Morris Becker, south side cleaner, publicly announced as his business partner five years ago.

"I know Morris Becker," said Dr. Squires. "He is not a good organization man, meaning that he is the type who likes to dominate any enterprise he associates with. He is not a member of the institute. However, I do not believe he is the type of man who would resort to bombs and murder. I have been told that he dissolved his partnership with Capone."

Police Blame Capone Gang.

That Capone or his gang was responsible not alone for the Rosenberg murder but also for the campaign of terrorism against independents which preceded it was the definite theory at police headquarters. Chief of Detectives Schoemaker had squads searching for Murray Humphreys, Capone lieutenant, and for Philip Mangano and Louis Clementi, also of the Capone organization.

Chief Schoemaker made public a stenographic report of an examination to which he subjected Humphreys last Dec. 14. Excerpts from the report are as follows:

Q.—Your name and address? A.—Murray Llewellyn Humphreys, Bernard hotel, 42d street and Drexel boulevard.

Q.—What is your occupation? A.—Cleaner and dyer.

Q.—Where is your business? A.—4722 Cottage Grove avenue, Drexel Cleaners and Dyers.

Q.—How long have you been in business there? A.—Eight months.

Q.—Are you affiliated with the Cleaners and Dyers' institute? A.—No. My partner, Abe Oslan, 4742 Ingleside avenue, holds a membership for the firm.

Q.—Do you know a man by the name of Morris L. Kaplan? A.—No; but I do know a Morrie Kaplan, who is a lawyer. He belongs to the association, and I know of him; that is all.

Humphreys was asked whether he had any knowledge of the linen supply association, beverage association, and kosher sausage association, or whether he was aware of the activities of a central group operating in Kaplan's office to control and manage the aforementioned associations. He answered no.

Mangano and Clementi are wanted by the police because they are the pair against whom Rosenberg had signed a complaint charging assault to murder, mayhem, and malicious mischief after he had identified them as the men who entered his plant, the International Cleaners and Dyers, 2812 South State street, slugged two employés, and drenched the place with acid.

Clementi and Mangano won a nol pros on the attempted murder charge and are due for a hearing on the other charges next week, each being a liberty on bail of $20,000.

Ickes of Chicago, who was one of the leaders in the bull moose party, conferred with Senator Hiram Johnson [Rep., Cal.] today regarding the appeals made by anti-administration Republicans to the California senator to become a candidate for the Republican nomination for President in opposition to President Hoover. Mr. Ickes is understood to have represented political sentiment in Illinois as unfavorable to the President.

Following the conference, Senator Johnson indicated that he had reached no decision in the matter and probably will not until after the conclusion of the investigation of international investments he is directing.

Friends of the senator believe he will decline to undertake the fight.

CONNOLLY OUT ON $30,000 BOND; INDICTED AGAIN

Will Not Testify for State in Canal Case.

Timothy L. Connolly, former purchasing agent for the Sanitary district under the whoopee regime of Timothy J. Crowe as president in 1927-1928, who was expected by the prosecution to be the key witness in the graft conspiracy trial now in progress before Chief Justice Harry Fisher, was released on $30,000 bonds yesterday on a total of 19 indictments. He did not spend one minute in the county jail prior to his release on a bond, which was reduced from $190,000 to $30,000 by Judge Phillip L. Sullivan.

First Assistant State's Attorney John E. Northup had 15 additional indictments returned against Connolly at 2 p. m. yesterday when it was decided by Northup that Connolly, who was a fugitive for three years, had told "nine-tenth lies" to Assistant State's Attorneys Harold Keele and Henry Seyfarth. The grand jury fixed $10,000 bond on each of the indictments and the same sum was fixed on the four indictments, on which Connolly originally fled the city.

Crowe's Kin Named.

Donald R. Joyce, Crowe's son-in-law, who amassed a bank account of $500,000 on a $5,000 per year salary as superintendent of motor vehicles for the district, was named as co-defendant with Connolly only in six forgery indictments. In addition to the forgery charges Connolly was named in seven bribery indictments and two larceny counts.

As soon as Connolly was brought from the hiding place, where he was grilled for the last week by state's attorney's representatives, it was obvious that he would not spend any time in jail. He was kept in the sheriff's office while the $10,000 bond secretly scheduled last week was dug from the files. However, before he could be released the batch of new indictments was returned. Connolly continued to sit in the sheriff's office while his attorney, Cameron Latter, prepared a writ of habeas corpus asking for the reduction of bond.

Toil to Prepare Bonds.

While this was going on representatives of the Public Indemnity company of Newark, N. J., were busily engaged in the Criminal court clerk's office making out the bond schedules for the new indictments. It was announced by a representative of the company that if necessary bond would be scheduled for all the indictments. The schedules were so prepared.

The bond as given by Connolly cost $1,500 under the percentage allowed by law. The fee under the full bond as it was originally fixed by the grand jury prior to Judge Sullivan's reduction order would have been $9,500.

Prosecutor Northup was interested in the bond given in Connolly's behalf and said that he would have a grand jury investigation of the men behind the bonding company which was prepared to schedule such large sums for Connolly's release.

Gives "Judgment Note."

Northup is also interested in another phase of the bond, which the company representatives tried to hide from the public by trying to keep the schedules away from the newspaper reporters. These schedules showed that the only security taken by the company for the risk is a "judgment note for the amount of the bond" from the defendant.

"If Connolly could give a judgment note for $190,000, the size of the original bond, it might be interesting to know where he got such a sizable fortune," said Prosecutor Northup. "It might also be interesting to find out if the bonding company is relying alone on Connolly's judgment note for security against the bond."

Prosecutor Northup appeared personally before Judge Sullivan and vigorously opposed Connolly's release. He argued that the defendant had been a fugitive for three years and that his bond should be high.

Sets Bonds at $30,000.

Northup also pointed out that Judge Fisher, James J. Kelly and John Prystalski were familiar with the evidence already introduced in the sanitary district graft case and that they would be in a better position to decide what is a fair bond. Judge Sullivan took the same view, although saying that a $190,000 bond is exorbitant. He then announced that he would set a $30,000 bond.

The trial was continued until this morning without any session because the state had expected to use Connolly as its witness. No other witnesses were available yesterday. Prosecutor Northup, who was up all night because of the necessity of going out of the city to interview Connolly, appraised the judges of the change in the situation as soon as court opened.

Calls Statements Lies.

"Connolly wanted to make a hero of himself by testifying for the state," said the prosecutor. "And at the same time he would have pictured the defendants as an army of patriots. His statements had too many 'ifs, and buts' connected with them for the prosecution to risk a chance of losing its case through putting Connolly on the stand. I found that his statements were nine-tenths lies."

The first hearing today will be in Judge Sullivan's court on the original habeas corpus writ filed for Connolly. Attorney Latter charges that the prosecution purposely evaded service on the writ.

SHE HANGS OUT AT GYM; O, WHAT SHE HANGS OUT

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 13.—[Special.]—Invoking a rarely used law which, the plaintiffs claim, classify them as a state institution with right of eminent domain, the University of South California today filed suit against Mrs. Charlotte D. Swain, property holder directly across the street from the varsity gymnasium.

The suit seeks to condemn Mrs. Swain's house and lot. Henry Bruce, university controller, in the legal papers, states that despite requests and protests from the university, Mrs. Swain has persisted in hanging a washing consisting of wet underclothes out on her line in embarrassing full view every time a social function is held in the university gym building.

Folks in full dress driving up in limousine thereby get a bad idea of the college, the suit declares.

KENTUCKY HOLDS 5 WOMEN, 3 MEN AS RED MENACE

One Radical Heckles Ex-Druggist Judge.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Pineville, Ky., Jan. 13.—[Special.]—After a turbulent hearing in which Judge George Van Beber found himself in the unusual position of being cross-examined by a defendant, eight of the nine communist sympathizers and strike workers arrested here on Jan. 4 under the state criminal syndicalism law were held to the grand jury today. As this body does not meet until Feb. 29 and the bonds recommended by the county attorney range from $10,000 to $15,000 each, this means that the defendants will have to spend this time at least in Kentucky's most antiquated jail.

Judge Van Beber expressed doubt of the guilt of one defendant, Mrs. Joe Weber, who, according to the evidence, was "hanging around this crowd," but as to the others his only doubt was as to the size of their bonds, which will be passed on in the morning. Both peace and appearance bonds must be made. Trial of Allan Taub, New York attorney for the international labor defense, on similar charges is set for tomorrow morning.

Five Women Face Trial.

The defendants held are Ann Barton, writer for the Federated Press; Margaret Fontaine, Clarina Michelson, secretary of the National Miners' union; Vincent Kamenovich, director of the union; Julia Parker, John Harvey, Norma Martin, a relief worker, and Vern Smith, writer for communist and union papers.

Attorney Taub, Attorney J. H. Taylor, and "Uncle Dill" Bingham, with Attorney David Bentall of Chicago, fought all day in court to save the defendants. Uncle Bill, a Pineville lawyer, said his great-grandfather first cleared this bottom in the days of the revolution, and he was a 100 per cent American and never heard of such a "low flung law" as this. Mr. Bingham tearfully painted the beauty of kindness and the work of these good Samaritans from the east. Attorney Taub appealed to Lincoln, Washington, and Jefferson for the right of revolution, but ... was all useless.

Prosecutor Is Vehement.

County Attorney Walter B. Smith summed up the prosecution at the close of the two day trial. He said the issue was not one of the National Miners' union against the operators but one of the state of Kentucky against a lot of "vile, poisonous propaganda hurting our people, leading us to hate each other, leading to revolution and the overthrow of this government with a new world capital at Moscow."

"These people," he said, pointing to the smiling defendants, "do not believe in the principles of this government, in Washington or Lincoln or Wilson, or our constitution or our God.

"Mr. Bentall wants to know why we are not prosperous. I say it is because of such cattle as you going around preaching such doctrines.

"He says there are 150 children who cry themselves to sleep every night here because they are hungry. There is a bread line of 35,000 in Chicago. They say that religion is the opium of the people. We must not permit these people to go out among our miners any more."

He Refuses the Oath.

The star performer of the day was Vern Smith, a stormy looking man with rumpled gray hair who has been in jail here with the eight others since Jan. 4.

He first refused to take the oath, indicating that he does not believe in God, and then refused to give his home address, saying that he had "no confidence in this court," and thought they would annoy his wife in New York.

Following the communist party's "Instructions to Workers Under Arrest," he made a class issue at once out of the struggle between the coal operators and the miners of Kentucky, and at one point Judge George Van Beber said:

"He's just a goin' on here and making a good long speech; I am not going to listen to it."

"I understand," said the witness, "that this judge is part of the Log Mountain Coal company."

"That is a lie," said the astonished court.

"Well, it is so rumored," said Smith.

"Rumored by fellows like you," retorted the angry judge. "I had a little coal business during war times and hauled coal and later was in charge of the miners' homes for the Log Mountain Coal company, but the coal operators did not have a thing in the world to do with my election."

A Druggist Turned Judge.

Judge Van Beber was a wholesale druggist before his election to the county bench. Under the Kentucky law this judge does not have to be a lawyer.

Smith said he was born in California and made about $12 a week reporting for labor papers. He said he was a member of the National Miners' union, but declined to say whether he belonged to the communist party.

"I refuse to be questioned as to my political opinions," he said.

The National Miners' union, which is leading the strike here, is run by the rank and file of the members, he said, not by highly paid officers such as John L. Lewis of the United Mine Workers, who gets $1,000 a month and an "almost unlimited expense account."

"The leaders of the United Mine Workers have betrayed every strike since the war," he said. "They loot the miners for enormous salaries. They sell out their workers in slavery.

Cites West Virginia Instance.

"I know in West Virginia the miners went on strike at 38 cents a ton and the officials of the U. M. W. offered a contract at 22 cents if the employers would check off dues to the organization. They organized out here, then repudiated the strike and refused relief."

Asked about the literature seized in his headquarters, upon which the charges are based, he said he believed it and had helped distribute it.

This preliminary hearing made a big show in Pineville and the town was filled with idle miners, who took turns in going into the little courtroom. The courthouse was the scene of a gospel meeting last night, and today while a crowd of men stood on the steps the prohibition officers poured some seized liquor out of an upstairs window. There was quite an uproar as men lifted their hands to try to catch some of it.

The defense got under way this morning, summoning thirteen witnesses. In addition, each of the defendants elected to take the stand. County Attorney Smith again had as an assistant Attorney N. R. Patterson, who as counsel for the Straight Creek Coal company yesterday appealed in federal court for an injunction against 95 persons, including these defendants, to prevent them from interfering with operations at the mine.

The first two girl witnesses, Norma Martin and Ann Barton, stirred the imagination and admiration of many in the courtroom. The miners hung on every word that came from Miss Martin, a sturdy, plain girl who kept on an overcoat to hide a poor dress and who said she had averaged $5 a week salary for the last 14 months. She said she came here a few days before the strike for the Workers' International relief, and her sole job was the distribution of food and clothing and helping the miners and their families. This was interrupted, she said, by her arrest.

Soup Kitchen Dynamited.

The International relief opened soup kitchens and one of these, she said, was dynamited in Harlan. The miners, she declared, were peaceable, and there was no advocacy of violence. The only violence came from the "gun thugs" hired by the operators.

Miss Martin said she was 23 years old and was born in New York, as were her parents. She said she was not a member of the communist party and had never read the pamphlets in question. She was merely working in the room where the papers were kept.

Miss Barton, "just 22 years old," from Philadelphia, where her parents live, said she came here because she had heard that conditions were terrible in Kentucky. She saw some of the literature, but had nothing to do with its distribution and was not a member of the communist party, although she admitted she was sympathetic with its aims.

"You know there are bread lines in Philadelphia?" asked the prosecutor.

"Of course. Everywhere."

"Are not conditions as bad there as here?"

"Nowhere are they as horrible as here. Whole families are dying of starvation."

The defense offered several wives of miners who had heard the Workers talk. These testified they never were advised to overthrow the government.

"I asked the squire at the head of the holler for help and he said he didn't have none," said Tishie Bundy. "The International Worker relief gave me the first coat I had in 13 years and gave my children work."

William Goodman, a miner, testified one of his children died of starvation.

"You ran away and let your child die," said Prosecutor Smith.

The defense lawyers objected so strenuously that the witness was asked again about this.

"The law got me," said the miner. "Nine carload of the law came and got me."

As this witness left the stand the county attorney ordered him held for the Harlan county sheriff.

Attorney Bentall then refused to proceed with the case on the ground that the witnesses for the defense were not safe in the court.

Then Bentall made a little oration about the peace that would come to the county if the people would let the N. M. U. organize, a right denied in Harlan county and in Pennsylvania.

"My clients would go to jail a long time if this could be done, wouldn't you?" asked the lawyer. "Yes," chorused the defendants.

Hightower Jury Still Out.

Mount Sterling, Ky., Jan. 13.—(AP)—The jury of Bluegrass farmers who will decide the fate of William Hightower, 77 year old mine union leader charged with conspiracy in the slaying of deputy sheriffs in the "battle of Evarts," will resume its deliberations tomorrow.

The case went to the jury this afternoon, but after an hour and a half deliberation, the jurors went to their boarding house after informing the court one juror was suffering from two ailments—a severe cold and a boil on his nose.

Circuit Judge Henry R. Prewitt instructed them to inform him if they intended to deliberate tonight, and after supper he was notified that the jurors had decided to wait until morning. The court ordered medical attention for the afflicted juror.

FOUND SHOT TO DEATH.

Martin Heinz Jr., 33 years old, of 4956 Oakton street, Niles Center, was found dead with a bullet wound in his temple in the home of his brother-in-law, William Cullerton, 5205 Cleveland avenue, Niles Center, last night. Police said that Heinz ended his own life.

REPEAL PROHIBITION TO KEEP TAXES DOWN, IS GERARD'S ADVICE

New York, Jan. 13.—[Special.]—Repeal of prohibition would enable this country to avoid the dangers of excessive taxation, James W. Gerard, former ambassador to Germany, declared today at a meeting of the New York and New Jersey section of the women's department of the National Civic federation. Mr. Gerard is chairman of the federation's commission on industrial inquiry.

Voicing confidence in the ability of the United States to recover from the depression, the former envoy declared that "the great thing that we must guard against is excessive taxation. You cannot tax the people too far. If you do they won't save their money. They will do as in Germany and decide to 'blow it in' rather than let the government collect it in the form of taxes.

"But we have a haven from this menace of taxation. At the present moment we can avoid its pitfalls by doing away with prohibition."

American tourists spend $1,000,000,000 abroad yearly "in order to go where there is some personal liberty," he said.

SHOUSE PLEASED WITH STADIUM FOR CONVENTION

Democratic Leader Here; Talks on Issues.

After viewing the stadium yesterday, Jouett Shouse, chairman of the Democratic national executive committee, said last night that the seating arrangements for the Democratic national convention would be left to the nonpartisan committee of which Edward N. Hurley is chairman. Tonight Mr. Shouse is to be chief speaker at the victory fund dinner of the Democrats to be held at the Stevens hotel, for which 1,500 reservations have been made.

"The stadium is a most excellent hall," remarked Mr. Shouse. "It is a wonderful place for a convention. We Democrats will probably use the same setup used by the Republicans who meet there a week or two ahead of us."

On Campaign Issues.

In discussing the issues confronting the party, Mr. Shouse said:

"As I view it the leading issues in the campaign next fall will be in the following order:

"1. The tariff. 2. Methods of attempting to deal with unemployment and to guard against its recurrence. 3. Getting the government out of business, particularly out of the business of wheat and cotton futures. That means abolition of the present farm board and reversal of its methods. 4. Some disposal of the prohibition question.

The Prohibition Question.

"As to the prohibition issue, there is a wide diversity of opinion in the Democratic party and we are trying to find some meeting ground. Personally I hope the party will make no declaration either wet or dry, but will refer the entire matter to the people. There is just one way of doing that, and this is by a substitute amendment for the 18th, which will put the liquor problem back where it belongs, in the hands of the states. I also believe this should be submitted by congress for ratification by the states through state conventions, not by legislatures."

The victory fund dinner which opens the Democratic preconvention campaign of 1932 is to be held tonight in more than a score of cities. The banquets will start the drive for a $1,500,000 fund to wipe out party deficits and give the campaign a flying start. The dinner here is expected to draw Democrats from nearly every county in the state.

Hadley Enters Contest for Attorney General

Charles W. Hadley of Wheaton, who resigned a few days ago as chairman of the Illinois commerce commission, announced yesterday his candidacy for the Republican nomination for attorney general. Mr. Hadley served for nearly fifteen years as state's attorney of Du Page county. Four years ago he withdrew from the race for attorney general to give a clear track to Attorney General Oscar Carlstrom, who in turn retired from the governorship contest to clean the field for Gov. Emmerson.

How to Get Rid of RHEUMATISM

New Medicine Drives Rheumatic Poisons from Joints and Muscles or Money-Back

EASES PAIN FIRST DAY

Poisons settling in the joints and muscles cause rheumatism. You cannot get rid of rheumatic agony till these dangerous poisons are driven out of your system. That's why external remedies and pain deadening drugs only give temporary relief.

What you need is RU-MA, the new medicine that acts directly on the liver, kidneys and blood, and helps expel through the natural channels of elimination the dangerous poisons that cause rheumatic misery.

No long waiting for your suffering to stop, RU-MA eases pain the first day and is one rheumatism remedy that's guaranteed to free muscles and joints from painful stiffness, swelling and lameness, or nothing to pay.

Walgreen's have so much confidence in RU-MA that they want every rheumatic in town to try it and guarantee money-back if it does not stop all your rheumatic suffering.

TWICE A DAY TO PREVENT COLDS

66% reduction in number

We offer you this suggestion for the use of Listerine in the hope that it may spare you or members of your family an uncomfortable, costly, and possibly dangerous siege of illness.

From 50% to 66% Fewer Colds

Prolonged tests conducted under medical supervision on 204 persons in normal health uncover truths no sensible person should overlook. Standing forth is Listerine's remarkable ability to prevent colds. And to lessen their severity.

They prove that those who gargled with full strength Listerine twice a day contracted only half as many colds—and in some cases one-third as many colds—as those who did not gargle at all. A reduction between 50% and 66%!

When colds did develop among Listerine users, they lasted only one-third as long and were one-quarter as severe. Bear that in mind.

Ordinary Mouthwashes Fail

Such performance, of course, could not be expected from harsh mouthwashes which, by irritating the tissue, allow germs easier entrance. Nor could they be expected from weak, watered imitations of Listerine often devoid of any germicidal power whatever.

Only full strength Listerine, under clinical tests, has shown such preventive action and curative effect.

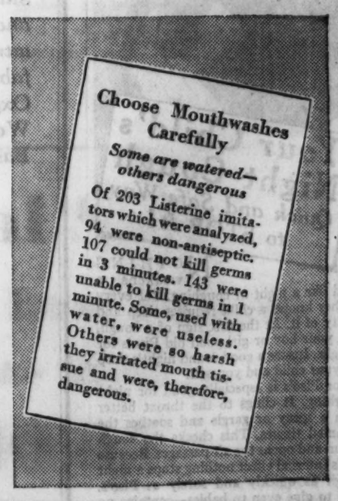
Effective Because Safe

Such amazing results are due to the fact that Listerine kills germs in the mouth in the fastest time without injury to tissue. Unlike that of harsh mouthwashes, its effect is actually healing.

So, while Listerine attacks the cause of infection, it relieves the irritation that accompanies it.

Be Systematic

Make a habit of gargling full strength Listerine every morning and every night. Thus, you keep your breath beyond suspicion and help Nature to ward off colds and sore throat. Once a cold threatens to become serious, increase the frequency of the gargle to once every two hours, meanwhile calling your doctor. Lambert Pharmacal Co., St. Louis, Mo., U. S. A.



Choose Mouthwashes Carefully
Some are watered—others dangerous
Of 203 Listerine imitators which were analyzed, 94 were non-antiseptic. 107 could not kill germs in 3 minutes. 143 were unable to kill germs in 1 minute. Some, used with water, were useless. Others were so harsh they irritated mouth tissue and were, therefore, dangerous.

LISTERINE effective because SAFE

PREDICT PEACE AT RAIL PARLEY OPENING TODAY

Unions and Managements Make Final Plans.

BY JOHN BOETTIGER.

Representatives of all the union rail workers in the nation and representatives of all the principal railroads will open a joint discussion this morning in an effort to negotiate an amicable settlement of wage and employment problems. The conference will open at 10 o'clock in the grand ballroom of the Palmer house.

The meeting is the first of its kind in the history of American railroading, a history which heretofore has been marked so often by the strife of capital and labor.

Sides Make Final Plans.

Labor organizations yesterday completed their plans for the conference and selected those of their number who will plead the workers' cause. The committee of nine railroad presidents—three each from the east, west and south divisions—held a last secret conference at the Chicago club to prepare their case.

Outwardly the leaders of both sides maintained an attitude of hope for success in reaching an agreement, but reports that the issues had practically been decided in advance were denied.

From several sources it was stated that a general understanding has been reached, and that the union men will accept a 10 per cent wage cut, as requested by the railroad managements, provided the managements will approve and adopt a program proposed by the labor forces for improving working conditions and relieving unemployment. It was reported that the railroads will meet the union requests in a certain degree, and the general hope was expressed that the railroads' concessions will go far enough to win the approval of labor.

Expect Offer of More Work.

The railroads are reported as prepared to offer that a substantial portion of the savings realized with a 10 per cent wage cut, estimated at $250,000,000, will be devoted toward renewing activities in the railway shops and on rights of way. These activities have been halted on many roads, and which if resumed would provide work for many of the unemployed rail workers. It is understood that the roads will insist, however, that the fixed capital charges of the roads must be met first.

The unions are asking, in addition to a general request that the savings from any wage cut be applied to remedying unemployment, that the roads stabilize existing employment, so that the workers may be secure in expecting an income for a stated period, and that more far reaching remedies for unemployment, such as a 6 hour day to supplant the present 8 hour day, be made the basis for a general study by both forces.

All these reported offers and proposals will be threshed out in the conference, and it is generally conceded that a compromise agreement will be reached or there will be a deadlock and no concessions granted on either side. In the event of a deadlock it would be necessary for the railroad managements to pursue in a long legal course their formal demand for a 15 per cent wage cut, in which they have already taken the first step by serving the statutory 30 day notice on the unions.

Willard to Open Conference.

The conference will be opened today by Daniel Willard, president of the Baltimore & Ohio railroad and chairman of the committee of nine railroad presidents. David B. Robertson, chairman of the Railway Labor Executives' association, will be the leading spokesman for the unions. Associated with Mr. Robertson, who is also president of the firemen's brotherhood, will be the president of the 20 other railway unions, and a group of 100 or more men chosen from the ranks of the general chairmen of the unions, who will serve as "observers."

It was announced by Mr. Robertson that the first matter to be taken up by the conference will be the program of the unions. When this has been thoroughly discussed, the presidents' committee will advance their request for a wage cut. It is expected the conference will last several days, probably into the early part of next week.

A resolution adopted by the Railway Labor Executives association yesterday opposed the elevation of Judge James H. Wilkerson to the United States Circuit Court of Appeals, to which he was nominated on Tuesday by President Hoover. The resolution referred to the fact that Judge Wilkerson in 1922 granted an injunction against railway union men.

PRINCIPALS IN $100,000 SUIT

MRS. KATHARINE HOUGH.

MRS. ISABEL HOUGH.

ACTRESS NAMES SISTER-IN-LAW IN $100,000 SUIT

Wife of Will Hough to Charge Alienation.

Mrs. Isabel Lamon Hough, actress and wife of Will M. Hough, playwright, filed the praecipe of a suit for $100,000 against her sister-in-law, Mrs. Katharine Hough, 812 Lloyd place, Evanston, yesterday in the Superior court. Mrs. Isabel Hough now has a suit for separate maintenance pending in the same court, and the action started yesterday will charge alienation of affections, it was said by her attorney, Michael A. Romano.

The defendant is the wife of Thomas E. Hough, an official of Halsey, Stuart & Co., brokers. The Thomas E. Houghs are prominent in north shore society.

Mrs. Isabel Hough is known on the stage as Isabel Baring. She appeared in Chicago a few years ago with George M. Cohan in "The Tavern." She charges desertion in her bill for separate maintenance. The couple were married in 1927 and separated last August, the bill recites. They have a son, Carol, 3 years old, who is now in New York. Mrs. Hough is staying at the Ambassador hotel and her husband is in California, Attorney Romano said.

The lawyer declined to comment further on the praecipe of the alienation suit, pending the filing of a bill, except to say that Mrs. Hough had come in possession of "sensational evidence" since she started action against her husband.

Will M. Hough became a successful playwright while he was still a student at the University of Chicago in 1905. He was twice married to and twice divorced by Mrs. Florence Lord Hough, daughter of the late Daniel M. Lord, founder of the advertising company of Lord & Thomas. The second divorce was in 1924.

JUDGE ORDERS A WIFE TO LIVE IN CHEAPER FLAT

Superior Judge Harry B. Miller yesterday ordered that Mrs. Adeline Printz, 2724 Pine Grove avenue, move from her present apartment to a cheaper flat which will cost not over $50 a month. The judge at the same time granted her temporary alimony of $30 a week for herself and her 4 year old daughter, Marilyn, pending the hearing of a divorce suit started by her husband, Dr. Merle Mayo Printz, a dentist and former head of the Chicago Dental society.

Dr. Printz, though his attorney, John Toomey, charged yesterday that his wife was extravagant and introduced a sheaf of bills which he asserted she had incurred in loop stores. He also alleged that his wife had obtained $500 in checks from him less than two months ago.

In his divorce bill Dr. Printz charged his wife with misconduct with a policeman.

DELIVERY BY AIR STARTED BY MAIL ORDER COMPANY

Planes Carry Parcels to Central Points.

The first flight of a new air express system that may be expanded to cover the nation east of the Rocky mountains, was made yesterday from Chicago airport to Cincinnati. The flight was composed of three trimotor planes carrying two tons of parcels.

The new express system was inaugurated by the Chicago Mail Order company over the Century Air Express. The purpose is to send massed shipments of parcel post packages by air to distributing points throughout the country, where they will be consigned to the mails. In this way, it is said, the saving in parcel post zone cost is sufficient to pay for the air shipment, making delivery from one to three days quicker than if the packages were sent all the way by mail.

More Routes to Be Added.

During the next five weeks five additional routes are to be opened: From Chicago to St. Paul and Minneapolis, to Kansas City, to Memphis, to Buffalo, N. Y., and to Pittsburgh. Other routes are planned to Omaha, Neb., and to Atlanta, Ga., and all of these will be further extended and added to until the entire field is covered.

The new air express system is to be independent of Century Air Lines, which carries passengers between Chicago and St. Louis and Chicago and Cleveland, and is also independent of the existing Century Air Express lines that parallel those passenger routes, according to W. K. Bliss, operations manager.

Arrange Return Trip Cargo.

"This system of transporting large numbers of mail order parcels by air express to a central mailing point in a single shipment has been under consideration for some time," said E. M. Schnadig, president of the Chicago Mail Order company, which has contracted for the service.

The cargo planes will carry wholesale merchandise consigned to the mail order house on the return trips from the package distribution points, it was said.

Aviation Notes

Flying a Ford tri-motor plane with four passengers and 200 pounds of air mail, Pilot L. C. Brown yesterday established a new record between Kansas City and Chicago for United Air lines, covering the 427 miles in 2 hours, 32 minutes. He flew at an average speed of 165 miles an hour, cutting one and one-half hours from the scheduled time of 4 and one-half hours.

Schedules of Transamerican Airlines between Chicago, South Bend and Detroit, and Detroit, Toledo and Cleveland, will be changed, effective tomorrow. The line carries passengers, mail and express.

SLUMP FINALLY PINCHES FRANCE; MILLION JOBLESS

Troops and Police Quell Two Riots in a Day.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Jan. 13.—France, which a year ago counted its jobless in the hundreds, is beginning to feel seriously the pinch of unemployment. The depression which has swept the world seemed to have missed France until a few months ago.

Hotelkeepers and others who cater to the tourist trade began complaining about a year ago. The luxury trades and the fashionable dressmakers have let out some loud wails about declining business. But France as a whole only smiled. France's vaults were loaded with billions in gold.

Wool Socks Filled.

France's wool socks, the traditional savings bank of her peasants, were filled with silver sous. Her large standing army took up most of the slack in unemployment. Why worry about depression and panic in other lands?

Then suddenly the inexorable wave of depression began to creep on France. From all quarters reports began to come in of growing unemployment.

Jobless paraders stoned police in Lille yesterday. Cavalry had to be called out to break up the demonstration. Police also broke up an unemployment riot in Nantes.

Nearly a Million Jobless.

The number of unemployed in France is now fast approaching the million mark for wholly unemployed and 3,000,000 for partially unemployed. The official figure stood at 131,000 at the end of the year. That means 131,000 were receiving aid and the number receiving aid is usually multiplied by several times to arrive at the figure of actual unemployed in France.

The number of unemployed is not indicated by the official figure because unemployed Frenchmen are reluctant to register and receive aid. There are several reasons for this: French thrift, which lays up savings against the rainy day and which tides the workless over their unemployment; the fact that most aid is given locally, or at least administered locally—about 28 cents a day is the average—and is therefore easily checked up, keeping out the undeserving; and, finally, the fact that recent legislation has made it impossible for any person to receive a dole for more than six months. At the end of that time the unemployed person must look to charity bureaus, which the government endows with small allowances.

Most of Jobless in Paris.

These charity bureaus, which are subsidized according to the amount of aid they efficiently give, are so strictly managed and the applications they receive for aid so carefully checked that only one-fifth of the unemployed whose six months of dole are up succeed in getting help from them.

Of the 131,000 who were unemployed on Dec. 31, 105,000 were men and 26,000 were women. Paris has nearly half of the officially registered unemployed—45,000, of which 33,000 are men and 12,000 are women. The suburbs of Paris accounted for another 23,000. The metropolitan area, then, had nearly 80,000 unemployed of France's total, 131,000.

During the last week in December, 4,881 foreign workers left France, partly due to tightening restrictions on labor and partly due to the termination of the season for transient labor, particularly agricultural work.

Labor Importation Continues.

But that strange phenomenon, importation of labor, still continues, despite the alarming growth of idleness. During the last full week in December, 163 foreigners entered France to go to work, of whom 107 took farm jobs and 56 industrial ones. To this number must be added another 220 foreign workmen who returned to France after taking vacations in the homeland.

MISS LOTTIE KOSINSKA.
[TRIBUNE Photo.]

Lottie Kosinski, 18 years old, 1628 Dickson street, filed a suit for $10,000, charging breach of promise, in the Superior court yesterday against her fiancé, whom she charges left her waiting at the marriage license bureau on the day set for their wedding.

The defendant is Clyde Anderson, 25 years old, 5200 South Laflin street, a street car employé. Miss Kosinski, in a bill filed by Attorney Harry X. Cole, charges that Anderson met her on Jan. 9, 1929, courted her three nights a week until Oct. 1, 1930, when he proposed to her and kissed her for the first time in her life, and set the wedding date for Jan. 9 of this year.

They went for the license bureau on that day, but when there was a slight delay while her brother went to their home for proof of her age, she charges, Anderson coaxed her to give him back the engagement and wedding rings and disappeared. The guests invited to the wedding came, ate all the food, and danced far into the night, but there was no bridegroom and no wedding, the bill concludes.

ASK REFERENDUM TO EXTEND TERM OF HINDENBURG

Germans Fight to Defeat Nationalist Intrigue.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Jan. 13.—"The people of Germany are for President von Hindenburg and they will not allow the intrigues of ambition crazed men like Adolf Hitler and Alfred Hugenberg to prevent reëlection of their trusted leader."

Arthur Mahraun, chief of the "Young German Order," made this declaration today when he filed a petition with the ministry of interior asking for a national referendum to amend the German republican constitution to extend Von Hindenburg's presidential term for another seven years. The law provides that 10 per cent of the German electorate must sign such a demand for a referendum.

Seek to Speed Machinery.

However, the middle parties, who are also working for Von Hindenburg's reëlection, fear that the collection of these signatures will be too slow to insure an extension of Von Hindenburg's term before it expires. They called in Mahraun for a conference on how to place Von Hindenburg on the tickets of most of the parties in Germany despite the intrigues of Hugenberg, who is leader of a small but fanatic group of Nationalists and is a confidante of the former kaiser.

Hugenberg succeeded in sowing elements of discord in the ranks of the Hitlerites by exploting their dislike for Chancellor Bruening. Two days ago Hitler was in favor of an extension of Hindenburg's term through a vote in the reichstag. Today his aide, Wilhelm Frick, Fascist leader in the reichstag, declared in a speech that the Fascists will not vote for Von Hindenburg unless he dismisses Bruening. Hitler's headquarters said they knew nothing of Frick's statement.

Republicans Are Worried.

The adroitness of Hugenberg is worrying Republican circles, which fear that Bruening, weakened by internal dissension, will not be able to put up a real fight for "Germany's rights" at the Lausanne reparations conference on Jan. 25 or at the Geneva disarmament meeting on Feb. 2.

While the bourgeois parties are squabbling, the communists are systematically preparing an election program. They have chosen the head of the communist party, Ernest Thaelmann, as their presidential candidate.

U. S. WILL SHUN LAUSANNE DEBT PARLEY JAN. 25

Washington, D. C., Jan. 13.—[Special.]—The United States will not be represented by even so much as an observer at the Lausanne conference on Jan. 25 when the European allied powers meet to decide what is to be done about the Young plan committee's report that Germany will be unable to meet her reparation payments next July 1.

Secretary of State Stimson said today that the United States would not send an official representative to the reparations meeting and so far as he knew no unofficial observer will be sent.

The action of congress in tacking official notice of its opposition to any further scaling down of war debt payments on the resolution ratifying the moratorium has had a perceptible cooling effect upon administration enthusiasm for rushing to the aid of Europe.

CANCEL GERMAN DEBTS AS FORCE PLAY: MUSSOLINI

U. S. Would Have to Follow Suit, Duce Says.

deputies on Tuesday, when the new cabinet will ask a vote of confidence, the road now seems clear for the Lausanne reparations conference on Jan. 25 and the Geneva disarmament conference on Feb. 2.

The second Laval cabinet differs from the first only in the absence of Aristide Briand, veteran foreign minister, and the late Andre Maginot, minister of war. Laval himself will fill the historic shoes of Briand at the Quai d'Orsay. Former Premier Andre Tardieu, hard boiled dynamic man of action and oratory, succeeds Maginot. His aggressive personality, it is predicted, will be sure to lend drama to the Geneva disarmament parley.

Two Vacant Posts Filled.

The two vacated ministries, interior and agriculture, will be filled respectively by Pierre Cathala, undersecretary of state attached to the interior department, and Achille Fould, undersecretary of state for agriculture.

The new government was formed after President Doumer had spent the day consulting political leaders. He finally became convinced there was no hope of renewing Poincare's achievement of composing a national union government and therefore summoned Laval and formally appointed him to form a new government based on the same right center majority as his old cabinet.

Briand Is Furious.

The cabinet is weakened by the changes, however, and the attitude of Briand is a serious danger to be reckoned with. The man of Locarno is furious over what he considers his "pushing out" and he threatens to declare war when and if his health permits him to resume his seat in the chamber of deputies.

In order to conjure with Briand's wrath, Laval delivered a glowing eulogy of his former protector and indicated that he would call on him tomorrow to beg him to give the new government the benefit of his invaluable collaboration by accepting the job of minister without portfolio, and possibly appointment also as permanent French delegate to the Geneva disarmament conference.

Britain Gets Debt Report.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Jan. 13.—Sir Frederick Leith-Ross, British treasury expert, who has been discussing preliminaries of the Lausanne reparations conference in Paris, returned to London last night. The cabinet meeting today was devoted to a discussion of the news he brought back relating to the French attitude.

The utmost secrecy was maintained about the terms of Sir Frederick's report, but it is understood he brought the word that the French are in a big hearted mood and ready to forgive the German debts to France just as far as America and Britain are ready to wipe out French debts to them.

Whatever is left over of the unconditional reparations, France is willing to take in German railroad bonds and sell them on the American market when that market improves.

RELIEF COST FOR 56 CITIES GAINS 127 PER CENT

Washington, D. C., Jan. 13.—[Special.]—An increase of 127 per cent in the relief expenditures of 56 large cities during the first nine months of 1931 over the same period of 1930 was disclosed today in figures issued by the children's bureau of the department of labor.

When compared with the corresponding period of 1929, the bureau stated the increase amounted to 348 per cent.

The aggregate amount expended for relief in the reporting cities in 1931, the figures showed, was $30,066,641, as compared with $13,226,784 in 1930 and $6,705,576 in 1929.

Nearly three million night's lodgings were provided by relief organizations to homeless persons in the first three quarters of 1931, the bureau stated, as compared with 887,000 furnished in the same period of 1929, while nearly eight million meals were served in the January-September period of 1931 as compared with 1,500,000 in the same period of 1929.

Chicago's expenditure for relief in the third quarter of the year was $1,729,242, the figures showed, of which $493,528 was spent in July, $539,508 in August, and $696,206 in September.

Church of Chicago Fire Days Is Being Moved

St. Wenceslaus' Roman Catholic church, which was six years old when the Chicago fire started in 1871 a block from its site at De Koven and Des Plaines streets, is being moved to a new location. Workmen yesterday were engaged in moving the old structure from the northeast corner of the intersection, where it was erected in 1865, to the northwest corner. The Rev. T. M. Sampolinski is pastor of the church.

When Your Cough Hangs On, Mix This at Home

For coughs due to colds, the best remedy that money could buy can easily be mixed at home. It saves money and gives you the most reliable, quick-acting medicine you ever used. The way it takes hold of stubborn coughs, giving immediate relief, is astonishing.

Any druggist can supply you with 2½ ounces of Pinex. Pour this into a pint bottle, and fill up with plain granulated sugar syrup or strained honey. It's no trouble at all to mix, and when you once use it, you will never be without it. Keeps perfectly and tastes good—children really like it.

It is surprising how quickly this loosens the germ-laden phlegm, and soothes the inflamed membranes. At the same time, part of the medicine is absorbed into the blood, where it acts directly on the bronchial tubes, and helps the system throw off the whole trouble. Even those severe coughs which follow cold epidemics, are promptly ended.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of Norway Pine, containing the active agent of creosote, in a refined, palatable form. Nothing known in medicine is more helpful in cases of severe coughs and bronchial irritations.

Do not accept a substitute for Pinex. It is guaranteed to give prompt relief or money refunded.

WIDOW FREED; DRY'S CHARGES CALLED FALSE

Agents' Stories of Trap Held Inconsistent.

Mrs. Ruth Oldridge, a widow living at 529 Brompton place, was freed of a prohibition violation charge yesterday by United States Commissioner Edwin K. Walker after a dry agent's charges had been branded false. The agent, Bernard A. Schaffer, testified that he and Agent Stanley Crellin, with two dry informers, went to the woman's apartment on the evening of Dec. 29.

"One of the informers had a key and let us in," Schaffer said. "Mrs. Oldridge appeared and asked us what we wanted to drink. We ordered highballs. She telephoned for ginger ale and we had four rounds, for which we paid ten dollars."

Under cross-examination by the defense attorney, Paul R. Simon, he refused to admit, as Agent Crellin testified at an earlier hearing, that he [Schaffer] had attempted to make love to the widow.

"She came and sat alongside me and said she'd like me," Schaffer insisted. "I got up immediately and left."

Testimony of Widow.

Mrs. Oldridge's version of the dry agents' visit differed from Schaffer's materially.

"I was taking a bath when the door bell rang," she said. "A man's voice asked if Miss Beck, who shares the apartment with me, was in. He said he was a friend of hers. I told him that I expected her shortly and that he could wait. I slipped the key under the door and told him he could come in in a few minutes.

"When I entered the living room later there were three other men with him. We talked a while and they said they were thirsty. I telephoned for some ginger ale and gave them some gin that I had been saving for New Year's eve. The man named Crellin paid for the ginger ale and tried to pay me for the gin, but I refused it.

Accuses Agent of Lovemaking.

"Then Schaffer sat on my lap and threw his arms around my neck. He said, 'I'd go for you in a big way, baby.' I told him not to be silly; that I was old enough to be his mother and had a son almost his age who died recently. He seemed embarrassed and left shortly after that with the others."

"Your honor, this man has been lying from his first to his last statement," Attorney Simon declared after cross-examining Schaffer. "The most apparent falsehood is his insisting that he saw and heard Mrs. Oldridge's telephoning for the ginger ale in her living room where they were all sitting. The telephone is in her bedroom."

Commissioner Walker said in his ruling:

"There are entirely too many inconsistencies in this case. I do not believe that there is the remotest possibility of a conviction in the District court. The defendant is discharged."

Attorney Simon then asked that Crellin be reprimanded for an alleged attempt to intimidate a defense witness, Henry Baasch, 16 years old, the drug store employé who delivered the ginger ale but Commissioner Walker said he did not have jurisdiction.

SMALLEST WILL FILED

Mitchell C. Robin, clerk of Probate court, looking at testament of Mrs. Mary Gormaly, written on piece of shingle three inches square.

Leaves $700

A will scrawled in pencil on a piece of shingle three inches square was filed with Mitchell C. Robin, clerk of the Probate court, yesterday. It is the testament of Mrs. Mary Gormaly, 6507 Newgard avenue, who died on Jan. 7 at the age of 60.

Charles Gormaly, husband of Mrs. Gormaly, said she had executed the will while she was on the way to a hospital on Oct. 27, 1930. She had feared that she would not survive an operation. The estate, valued in all at $700, was left to Gormaly except for a piano, which was bequeathed to his daughter, Mrs. Catherine Ball.

WOMAN TELLS OF ALKY CARGO IN BOOZE TRIAL

Over in Whiteside county, where Capone hoodlums extended the frontier of their booze territory in 1930 with a gigantic still, men and women drink straight alcohol and live to tell about it. This was disclosed yesterday in the midwest booze conspiracy trial of 49 individuals and two corporations before Federal Judge Walter C. Lindley.

Mrs. Ethel Brooker, wife of a former Whiteside county deputy sheriff, told of accompanying Henry Buhrow, one of the defendants, on his delivery trips.

"He took three gallons to a farmer and three gallons to his father," said Mrs. Brooker. "He said he got all his alcohol from Mike Blumberg [one of the principal defendants] and was storing it for him."

Asked how she knew the fluid was alcohol, Mrs. Brooker said they sampled it, drinking some from each can.

SENATE TOLD OF BUFFALO BRIDGE TO LAND OF BEER

Cut City's Poison Rum Deaths in Half.

By GENEVIEVE FORBES HERRICK.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 13.—[Special.]—Buffalo built a bridge to Canada. Then Buffalo's annual deaths from chronic alcoholism dropped from 84 to 40.

SENATOR BINGHAM. [Fotograms Photo.]

And the reason for the fortunate fall, Dr. Francis E. Fronczak, Buffalo's health commissioner, today told the senate subcommittee holding hearings on the Bingham beer bill, was that Buffalo citizens drove across the Peace bridge into Canada, "drank some good beer," drove home again, and lived to drink again.

Whereas, he argued, "the stuff they got in Buffalo under prohibition was terrible."

In reply to a query of Senator Hiram Bingham [Rep., Conn.], sponsor of the bill to legalize the return of 4 per cent beer, Dr. Fronczak declared that there weren't many automobile accidents either, on that return trip across the bridge, declaring that "beer drunk in moderation does not cause intoxication."

College Boys Turn Brewers.

Contrasting the effects of pre-prohibition beer with those of post-Volstead liquor, Dr. J. C. Vorbeck of St. Louis made this revelation about the students at the Southeastern Teachers college at Cape Girardeau, Mo.:

"Nowadays they take a milk bottle, a handful of raisins, a little sugar and some water. They add some compressed yeast and in three days they have an alcoholic kick so great they can't carry on athletics."

Then he rebuked the American Medical association for having "imposed upon the confidence of the United States senate" by passing a resolution in 1917 asserting that alcoholic drinks had no medicinal value and repudiating the resolution in 1922, after prohibition had been passed.

"The American Medical association," Dr. Vorbeck shouted, "stultified its integrity by passing that resolution. It owes it to congress to come here in sack cloth and ashes and say, 'We abused your confidence; we have repudiated that which we know to be false'."

Doctor Versus Doctor.

Dr. Graham Lusk of Cornell university championed the return of beer and grew quite determined about it when Senator Henry D. Hatfield [Rep., W. Va.], himself a doctor, argued that excessive beer drinking was detrimental to the health.

"Of course it is," replied Dr. Lusk. "But I am thinking of the decent man who would drink in moderation. If we let the habits of the excessive drinker influence us we will be depriving the 99 sensible men of a legitimate drink."

No scientists, this scientist told the committee, have a higher standard than German scientists, and they have been drinking beer for at least 200 years, he pointed out.

Later, when Oscar Lesser, who identified himself as "no scientist, no doctor, just a plain, ordinary individual who would like to see the return of beer," had finished his remarks, Senator Bingham said: "Is there anything more you would like to offer?"

"Yes," said Mr. Lesser, and turned toward the senators. "I'd like to offer each of you a good glass of beer."

And the hearing was over for the day.

HELD ON EXTORTION CHARGE.

Dominick Zito, 16 years old, 721 Milton street, arrested on Tuesday on a charge of sending an extortion note demanding $30,000 of Henry W. Austin, Oak Park banker, was turned over to juvenile authorities yesterday.

SECOND MURDER VICTIM FOUND; HUNT MANIAC

Charles Tyrell, 45 years old, was found beaten to death in his flat at 617 North Dearborn street yesterday afternoon. Police believed he was murdered by the same young man who killed Charles Pagel, 30 years old, in a room of the Aplin hotel, 27 East Harrison street, last Saturday.

Tyrell's hands were tied to a bedpost with curtains torn from the windows of the room and his skull was crushed with an iron coupling pin. Pagel had been killed by blows on the head with a heavy water pitcher.

The murderer is believed by police to be a young man about 27 years old, six feet tall, with dark hair and eyes and a dark complexion. A man answering that description occupied Pagel's hotel room the night before he was found dead, and a man believed to be the same person lived with Tyrell for several days before the murder.

Lieut. Otto Erlanson of the homicide squad said he believed the two murders were committed by the same man and expressed a belief that this man was actuated by a homicidal mania. Tyrell, the second victim, had a police record.

SENATE PASSES BILL TO USE GAS TAX FOR RELIEF

Lets Counties Give Their Share to Needy.

BY PERCY WOOD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 13.—[Special.]—Although it consumed four hours time in the doing, the senate today passed the Barbour bill to allow counties the use of their gas tax refunds for charitable purposes, if they choose. The vote was 38 to 1, and the dissenter was Harry Wilson, Republican, of Pinckneyville.

SENATOR BARBOUR
[Moffett Photo.]

This measure was introduced by James J. Barbour, Evanston, Republican, at the request of the Joint Emergency Relief fund of Cook county, which has estimated that more than 25 million dollars will be needed to care for the county's poor in the next twelve months.

The Barbour bill, which now goes to the house, would give the Cook county board access to almost five million dollars during the year, according to estimate, and provides that the refund of one cent a gallon would be distributed monthly. It contained an emergency clause and if given 102 votes in the house, would go into effect immediately.

Several Senators Doubtful.

Several downstate senators, including Andrew S. Cuthbertson [Rep., Bunker Hill], N. M. Mason [Rep., Oglesby], and Richard R. Meents [Rep., Ashkum], were reluctant to approve the bill, and, in the end, recorded their votes as "present." Cuthbertson changed this to an "aye" after the vote had been tallied.

The general feeling of most of the downstate "reluctants" was that poor relief is entirely a local matter and should be cared for by the community in which it exists.

Making this feeling plain and entering other highways and byways as it went along, the upper chamber was from 10:30 a. m. until 2:30 p. m. in passing the bill. Constant arguments, declarations, and redeclarations of Chicago's dire needs in the matter of poor relief, and long addresses on various unrelated subjects were common before and during the roll call.

Fears Precedent Is Dangerous.

Senator Barbour called the bill for passage when a few minor matters had been disposed of and introduced Miss Harriett Vittum, Chicago social worker, who spoke briefly but graphically of the conditions among the city's needy. When she had done, Barbour explained the legal provisions and asked wholehearted support for the bill.

Senator Meents, who served as floor leader for Len Small, made the first downstate objection, speaking of the measure as "establishing a dangerous precedent," and giving what proved the keyline for most of those who took his position: that "every community should work out its own problems."

Richard J. Barr of Joliet, the president pro tempore, followed by announcing he was for the bill but also was prepared to fight strongly for his own bill to increase the gas tax from three to five cents per gallon, the extra pennies to be given the counties for charity.

Harold C. Kessenger [Rep., Aurora] will introduce a bill, he said, to empower the governor to use the state's two cent share of the present tax "to feed starving people," at his discretion. He also told his downstate comrades that "appetites are not a matter of geography—Chicago has thousands of former downstate citizens to feed."

Cermak Tells Kelly Plan Foes They Must Help Rescue City

It is up to opponents of the Kelly plan for reformation of Cook county's tax machinery, who voted down the measure early yesterday morning in the state house of representatives, to propose a substitute plan to save Chicago governments from collapse, Mayor Cermak declared yesterday.

The mayor is in Miami, Fla., confined to his bed by a severe cold and an intestinal inflammation.

"I believe that the first thing to happen will be the closing of Chicago's school," he said, "unless the teachers are good Samaritans and stand by, as they have in the last six months, without any money in sight for their pay. Policemen and firemen will have to be appealed to to do the same.

Election Day is Coming.

"The taxpayers will have a chance to reciprocate April 12, which is primary day. They will do to the legislators voting against the Kelly bill what the voters did to the old city hall administration last April."

Later in the day Mayor Cermak talked on the telephone to Chief Justice Harry M. Fisher of the Criminal court, and to D. F. Kelly, for whom the assessment reorganization plan was named after the citizens' committee which Mr. Kelly heads had presented it as a compromise to the various political factions of Cook county.

Mayor to Open Fight.

He told Mr. Kelly that he would leave his bed and return to Chicago to attempt to line up enough votes in the lower house of the legislature when the plan comes up again next Tuesday, in the form of a bill with identical provisions which has already passed the senate.

"Mayor Cermak refused comment on any of the leaders of the opposition," said Judge Fisher, "beyond saying that it is now up to them to offer a plan that will enable the city and its other governmental bodies to operate. He said that the Kelly plan was not his own, but was the result of months of study, debate and final compromise, and so far as he could see offers the only opportunity of re-establishing Chicago's credit.

"He said that it is inconceivable that the legislators who opposed the plan, and who are responsible for the defeat of the bill, could have it on their consciences to stop the operation of the schools, police department, fire department and every other municipal agency. The only thing they could have in mind, Mayor Cermak believes, was some better plan, and he will withhold judgment until he ascertains just what that plan is.

Must Answer for Defeat.

"But in the absence of a better plan, those who are responsible for the defeat of the only one thus far suggested will have to answer to the community for the calamity which they are sure to bring upon it."

Comment in the city hall yesterday was in the same tenor. City Controller Szymczak, after reviewing the penniless condition of the city government and the present snarl in which tax collections find themselves, said:

"We are standing still—worse, we are going backward."

Ald. James C. Moreland [41st] said: "There were only fourteen present when the council meeting was called Monday to consider a proposal for the sale of tax warrants, and the lack of attention to city business was very apparent. While there now seems to be little hope of putting over that sale, it did not seem so apparent at that time. The outcome of the Kelly bill might have been different had administration leaders been here. If they show so little interest, what can we expect at Springfield?"

"The legislature failed in the crisis," said Ald. Frank J. Corr [17th]. "It played politics rather than enact a constructive measure in a critical period. It is a fundamental necessity to establish the city's credit. Those who play politics at this time, without regard for the financial plight of the city, will find that the public offices which they hold or seek won't be worth much."

SECOND CHANCE AT KELLY PLAN GIVEN TO HOUSE

Will Vote Wednesday on Senate's Bill.

ment, but it was voted 98 to 25, half of the Cook county members supporting the Adamowski-Boyle understanding concerning the order in which the two bills were taken up. Many of the Chicagoans felt there was an advantage in getting a second opportunity to approve the Kelly plan before the house acts on the income bill.

Senate Adopts Its Bill.

The senate Kelly plan bill was adopted in the upper house with an emergency clause by the almost unanimous vote of 48 to 1 and is now before the house in that form, in which it requires 102 votes.

In any event, since it is to be amended next Tuesday, it will have to go back to the senate again for concurrence so that next Wednesday's performance may not be the last of the story.

Having reached its agreement relative to these two controversial bills the house, after some routine work, proceeded to adjourn until next Tuesday. The senate soon followed suit.

Deny Igoe Forgiveness.

Rumors reached here today that a meeting of the Democratic state central committee and other party leaders to be held in Chicago Friday had been called to extend the olive branch to Michael L. Igoe, generalissimo of the defeat of the house's Kelly bill plan. They were that Igoe's aspirations for governor were to be encouraged at the meeting, but they were denied.

"This meeting was decided upon some time back," said P. A. Nash, chairman of the Cook county central committee, "and it has nothing to do with what has occurred here. The meeting is for presentation of names of candidates, but no action will be taken."

Pile Sufferers

Can You Answer These Questions?

Do you know why external remedies do not give quick and permanent relief?

Why cutting does not remove the cause?

Do you know the cause of Piles is internal?

That there is congestion of blood in the lower bowel—the veins flabby, the parts almost dead?

Do you know that there is a harmless internal remedy for piles discovered by Dr. Leonhardt and known as HEM-ROID that is guaranteed?

HEM-ROID banishes piles by removing the cause. It stimulates the circulation in the lower bowel—drives out the thick impure blood, heals and restores the affected parts.

Dr. Leonhardt's HEM-ROID has an almost unbelievable record of success right in this city. So why waste time on external remedies or worry about an operation when Walgreen's invite every Pile sufferer to try HEM-ROID with guarantee of money-back if it does not end their Piles no matter how stubborn the case?

FREES DAUGHTER OF PROFESSOR IN THEFT CASE

Miss Ada Perez, 27 years old, daughter of Dr. Isidro Perez, a professor in Havana university, was freed on a charge of shoplifting by Judge James F. Hardy in the Felony court yesterday. Attachés of the Cuban consulate in Chicago testified as to the girl's character.

Carrying a cardboard box, which contained an umbrella, several bottles of expensive perfume, bars of soap, and two cigaret cases, Miss Perez was seized in a loop department store on Dec. 19. The arrest was made by Mrs. Ora Adams, a store detective. Mrs. Adams said that she followed the girl around the store and had seen her pick up the articles.

Miss Perez protested her innocence. She asserted that while she was sitting in the rest room of the store, a woman came up to her and asked her to hold the box for her. When Miss Perez looked for the woman, she was taken into custody, according to her story.

SCHOOL BOARD BATTLES HEAD OF TEACHER UNIONS

Trade Charges Over Plan to Force Closing.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

The school board staged an old time rough and tumble verbal battle yesterday afternoon.

The scrap was started by Charles B. Stillman, head of the central council of 23 teachers' unions. He accused the board of attempting to close the schools, of playing politics, and with being ignorant of recent state legislation of benefit to school employés.

C. B. STILLMAN.

Then Trustees Savage and Hemingway and President Myers and School Attorney Thomas V. Sullivan went after Mr. Stillman.

Savage Leads Counter Attack.

Mr. Savage led the counter attack. He asserted that the teachers' unions do not represent one-third of the teaching force; that the unions are the only ones who play politics in school affairs, and on occasions do not appear to know what they are talking about. He denied there is any desire on the part of the board to close the schools, and declared that a majority intend to keep them open "as long as possible."

The battle started after Trustee Hemingway presented a resolution pledging the board to "renew and increase its efforts to secure adequate relief for the schools." The resolution was profuse in commendation of the "patriotic and sacrificing loyalty of school employés for continuing to work without cash compensation."

The board had previously voted to issue tax anticipation warrants to teachers, other employés and contractors in lieu of cash. It was suggested by Trustee Savage that the 19,000 employés of the board could sell these warrants to parents and others.

Calls Plan Unfair.

"It's unfair for the teachers to go out and peddle warrants to get cash to pay themselves," suggested Stillman. "The teachers will refuse the tax warrants, except in extremely desperate cases, and they will have to sell them at ruinous discount.

"It would be better by far, if the board—by authority of a bill which has passed both houses—would issue regular pay checks, and stamp them 'no funds.' That has been the law outside of Cook county for 25 years.

"Such checks, so marked, are full faith and credit obligations of the board, bear 6 per cent interest, are a higher grade security than tax anticipation warrants and are more marketable."

It apparently nettled the trustees that they were not informed on this legislation. Mr. Stillman, apparently sensing an advantage, waded in on the Hemingway resolution.

Deny School Closing Charge.

"All of the preamble of that resolution," he said, "is appropriate for an order to close the schools. If those whereases were read to any body of teachers they would say that they formed a preliminary to closing the schools. In that the board would be playing politics."

"That charge is untrue," shot back Savage. "The unions do not represent one-half of the teachers."

"It looks to me as if you intended to close the schools at once," put in Stillman.

"The teachers' organizations are the only persons who continually play politics with school affairs," added Savage.

"I have 43 teachers in my school, and only eight now eat in the lunchroom," countered Stillman. "Teachers are going without their meals. If you are afraid to close the schools because it might influence legislation, why try to squeeze the last drop of strength out of the teachers to serve your political ends?"

"Because the schools have been operated by people who don't know what they are talking about is the chief reason for the present overloaded budget," said Savage. "The teachers are always off on a rampage. They never protest about outside teachers being in the schools."

Mr. Stillman is principal of the Burr school and lives at 837 Ridge avenue, Evanston.

Claims Plan to Close Schools.

"We know there is a definite program to close the schools," went on Savage, "and we know the reason why. We know who is promoting it. We know they are attempting to kick tre schools around and embarrass the board."

Mrs. Hefferan, another member of the board, who is frequently credited with speaking the sentiments of the teachers, passed her vote on the Hemingway resolution, because she said the way to handle the situation is to close the schools.

"The teachers cannot live on kind words," said Mrs. Hefferan. "The only way out is to close the schools."

All of the other trustees voted for the resolution.

After the board session, Mr. Stillman said that the idea he attempted to convey to the board is that they were trying to pass the buck to the teachers for closing the schools while the closing is the board's responsibility.

PARENTS PLAN TAX WARRANT DRIVE TO KEEP SCHOOL OPEN

To keep their school open, parents of children attending the Francis Scott Key school, in Austin, are planning a community sale of tax anticipation warrants on deferred payments, it was announced yesterday by L. C. Barnet, 422 North Parkside avenue. The details are to be explained at a massmeeting in the school, at Parkside and Race avenues, Friday night.

The plan, according to Mr. Barnet, is to have the teachers deposit in escrow the salary claims which the school board plans to distribute next week. Subscription lists are to be circulated among parents and other taxpayers of the neighborhood urging each to subscribe for at least as much in tax anticipation warrants as he can use in payment of his 1931 taxes. These are to be paid for outright or on a deferred payment plan, the minimum installment to be $10 a month.

BUILDING CREWS AGREE TO SCHOOL BOARD WAGE CUT

Board of education engineers, janitors, and firemen agreed yesterday with the board's budget subcommittee to accept a time cut of eight and a third per cent. This, according to Chief Engineer John Howatt, will save the board about $500,000 in 1932. Similar cuts have been set up for all other departments.

No agreement has been reached with the window dashers, who contend that for two years they have been working for $20 a month less than similar employés in other city departments and consequently should not be cut.

DISAPPROVAL OF VINSON WARSHIP BILL FORECAST

Conflicts with Hoover's Budget Program.

[Chicago Tribune, Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 13.—[Special.]—White House disapproval of the Vinson 616 million dollar warship construction bill was foreshadowed today by the disclosure before the house naval affairs committee that President Hoover had killed the navy's one year authorization program prepared last fall.

Rear Admiral Mark L. Bristol, chairman of the executive committee of the navy general board, informed the committee in response to repeated questions that the White House had informed Secretary of the Navy Adams last November that the navy's proposed building program was in conflict with the President's financial program. This navy program, prepared by the general board, called for the construction in 1933 of close to 200 million dollars worth of carriers, cruisers, destroyers, submarines, and aircraft.

According to the Bristol testimony, two bills were prepared by the general board in the hope that one would win administration approval. The first one was killed by the budget, and the second, a much smaller bill, was pigeon holed by Secretary of the Navy Adams.

Withhold Recommendation.

With the White House opposing additional naval construction during 1933 the navy decided, the admiral disclosed, not to make any recommendations to congress this winter.

Although the Vinson bill has been submitted to President Hoover for his approval or disapproval, no action has been taken by the White House. It was learned, however, that the President is against passage of any naval measure which would add to the 1933 budget. It was also indicated that the White House is opposed to passage during this time of financial embarrassment of any bill which would bind the government to appropriate.

The disclosures regarding the President and the navy came out while Rear Admiral Bristol was urging the adoption of a long time naval building program such as is embodied in the Vinson bill. During his testimony, the rear admiral said the American fleet was unbalanced and contained many aging and all but worthless ships.

Expects Little from Geneva.

Rear Admiral Bristol said he did not believe the powers would accomplish anything of value at the Geneva disarmament conference scheduled to begin Feb. 2. He also stated that the navy today was still far from convinced that the flying deck type of cruiser would be of value. He said the navy wanted to build one as an experiment but not to construct more until the first one had been tried out.

Representative Fred A. Britten [Rep., Ill.] introduced a one year construction program bill late today.

12 DIE, 150 HURT AS TORNADO RIPS OVER TWO STATES

Alabama and Mississippi Are Sufferers.

Birmingham, Ala., Jan. 13.—[Special.]—At least 12 persons were killed, more than 150 injured, and hundreds made homeless by a tornado that swept across northeastern Mississippi and western Alabama last night, a compilation made today showed.

Floods, caused by torrential rains, aggravated conditions in these two states and in Tennessee and Louisiana. Near Jackson, Tenn., a child, Mary Lou Haggard, was drowned when her father's automobile overturned on a flooded road.

The little Alabama town of Moundville bore the brunt of the tornado. Nine Negroes were killed, more than a score of Negroes and white persons were injured, and property damage ran into many thousands of dollars.

Children Blown Over Open Well.

Mrs. Sid Davis, her husband, and four children of Moundville were unhurt when half their home was blown away, although two of the children were blown along for 50 feet and over an open well into a field. Mrs. Davis' clothing was blown from her body, but neither she nor an infant in her arms was hurt.

E. D. Thomas, his wife, and five children were in the kitchen of their home when it fell before the wind. The stove on which supper was cooking was found later 50 feet away against a tree. Thomas said a sheet of tin torn from a barn sliced off a leg of one of his cows.

At least fifty buildings in the district, including Tuscaloosa and Moundville were either toppled over or unroofed. Today families were being kept warm by fires kindled from the splintered ruins of their homes.

The storm struck first at Okalona, Miss., where two persons were seriously injured and many buildings wrecked or damaged.

Lifting over several communities the tornado again descended at New Hamilton, Miss., where Mrs. Frank Simmons was killed and her daughter, Helen, 12, seriously injured as her home collapsed about her. Thirty-five other white persons were seriously injured, several critically. About 75 persons in this, a white farming community, were less seriously hurt.

Rivers on Rampage.

New Orleans, La., Jan. 13.—[Special.]—Additional flood warnings for practically all rivers in north Louisiana were issued here today. The situation in Mississippi was made more critical by heavy rains. The Mississippi river below Vicksburg and the Atchafalaya and Ouachita continue to rise. Other rivers on a rampage in Louisiana are the Black and the Red.

CRASH FOILS HOLDUP MEN.

Two bandits, carrying revolvers, leaped on the truck of Frank Zahrobsky, 2239 South 61st avenue, Cicero, and ordered him to turn east in Madison street as he drove in Ogden avenue yesterday. Confused, Zahrobsky turned west and rammed his truck into a street car. The bandits cursed and fled on foot.

100,000 owners applaud PLYMOUTH with patented FLOATING POWER

From everywhere they come! In tens of thousands, literally, enthusiastic owners are heartily applauding the Plymouth. Here are excerpts from just a few comments from the four corners of the United States:

"NONE HAS GIVEN ME AS MUCH PLEASURE"

"I have driven and owned many automobiles costing several times as much as my Plymouth Coupe but I am frank to state that none of them has given me as much pleasure and satisfactory performance. It hardly seems credible that so much value can be purchased for so little money."

HUGO HEYN, Omaha, Nebraska

"NO NECK ACHE"

"The performance of our Plymouth sedan must be experienced to be believed. Ours performs beautifully under all conditions and there is no neck ache or discomfort."

MRS. A. D. PUGH, Des Moines, Iowa

NUMBER 42 AND BEST

"The writer has been a driver of large cars for years. This Plymouth is the sweetest running, easy-steering piece of mechanism I have ever had the pleasure of driving and this is number forty-two in the line of new cars I have owned in the last several years. The gasoline mileage is surprising . . . oil consumption is nil."

C. R. HURST, London, Indiana

"NOT A CENT OF EXPENSE"

"Our vacation was spent driving our Plymouth through North Carolina, Virginia, Maryland and Delaware. It was splendid to feel it speed along those wonderful roads. It uses less gas than any car I have ever driven and I have been driving many years. It requires as little care as any car could to be useful. Since getting it in August up until now—December 2nd—we have not had a cent of service expense."

MRS. LUTHER LITTLE, Charlotte, N. C.

"WITHOUT A CENT FOR SERVICE"

"Up to date I have driven my Plymouth almost 10,000 miles of which about 8,000 miles was over the various mountains and some very rough roads in the western country and this without a cent of expense for service."

F. S. ALLEN, Peru, Indiana

PLYMOUTH FREE WHEELING LIKE FLYING

"I fly a good deal and when driving my Plymouth car in Free Wheeling it always gives me the sensation that if I could pull up on the steering wheel I could take off into the air. To appreciate this you should take hold of the wheel in an airplane after it has speeded up and is just about to leave the ground."

MARGARET M. GRAY, Racine, Wisconsin

"IMPRESSED WITH ITS BEAUTY"

"Immediately the new Plymouth was put on the market I was so impressed with its beauty I tried to be one of the first to enter an order. I have driven it every day and it seems to improve constantly. The riding comfort is amazing and not a semblance of vibration even at top speeds."

MRS. JOHN L. NOWELL, Charlotte, N. C.

"ALWAYS FIRST AT THE START"

"I took a trip to Chattanooga and it was always first at the start. We made as high as 72 miles per hour on straight road and kept it up for miles. We went over the Blue Ridge Mountains in Virginia in high at 35 to 40 miles per hour without a groan. The car had four passengers, suitcases, etc."

CHESTER A. JOHNSON, Ozone Park, N. Y.

"... GOOD ENOUGH FOR ANYONE ..."

"I possibly would not have considered the Plymouth as being comparable with previous, heavier, higher-priced cars I have always driven had not a friend advised me to try it. After careful comparison with not only cars in its price field and cars several hundred dollars higher I decided it out-demonstrated them all. Plymouth is a car good enough for anyone."

R. L. McFARLAND, Los Angeles, Calif.

"... MUCH CHEAPER TO RUN ..."

"I personally think that there isn't a car within the price range of the Plymouth that can come up to the standards as to its ability, and its smoothness in driving. In my experience with other cars I have found that the Plymouth is much cheaper to run."

GUSTAVE WIDEMANN, Jr., Glendale, L. I.

64-YEAR-OLD MAKES 4,000 MILE TRIP WITHOUT FATIGUE

"Have just returned from a four weeks' tour of the southwest covering about 4,000 miles and want to say that the car performed perfectly. No trouble of any kind. You certainly gave the motoring public a wonderful car when you placed the Plymouth on the market. It is extremely easy to handle as evidenced by a 4,000 mile trip for a person of my age (64) without the least fatigue."

JOS. K. SMART, Louisville, Ky.

Only a revolutionary advance in motoring could occasion such enthusiasm among 100,000 new Plymouth owners. We urge you to learn the reasons behind the wheel of the car itself. Know Plymouth before you buy any new car.

"The newspaper is an institution developed by modern civilization to present the news of the day, to foster commerce and industry, to inform and mold public opinion, and to furnish that check upon government which no constitution has ever been able to provide."

A STOUT THIEF ON A STARVED JACKASS.

Milwaukee, having done what is merely within the expectation and the obligation of American government, is therefore regarded as the miracle city of the country. Milwaukee can pay its bills. It has money in the bank. Its government does not spend more than it receives, and spends it as it receives it. It has a small bonded debt, and its credit is good. Its employés are paid, its security is maintained, and its ordinances are administered. To all of which the reply ought to be—yes, and what of it? What's strange about that? Nothing, except that in these days of American municipal administration it is a miracle. In the wreck of the other great American cities it is magic.

It is white magic which requires common honesty and common sense. The other cities first became bankrupt in these qualities and then bankrupt financially. When common honesty and common sense become miraculous in American administration, the wreckage which will then cover the rocks cannot be regarded as caused by an act of God.

The voters elected officials to steal the public funds. The officials stole the funds. To replenish them they raised taxation and stole more funds. Theft and taxation climbed together. Corruption and collapse were twins from one cradle. The ability of the officials to steal was limited only by their ability to borrow and the taxpayers' ability to pay. Common honesty became a miracle. Common sense became magic. The voters not only tolerated the corruption. They supported it. In exchange for their tax bills they gave their votes.

In everything the public bodies bought, in every public service they performed, in every enterprise they undertook there was theft of public money and the extortions grew in volume. With every boost in the percentages taken out of public expenditures by gangs of officials, contractors, supply dealers, and organizations of brigands and pickpockets there was a boost in the levies made to support a system of loot and plunder which could not be supported.

This impossible structure of graft was about to fall of its own weight when bad times came to take the taxpayer on the other flank. That settled it. In Chicago the very machinery for levying taxes had to break down under its sins, but other cities went to ruin without that added cause. New York is broke because its governments, city and state, took no consideration of the capacity of the people to stand the expense of grandiose public enterprises within New York City, Tammany digging into every public fund it could approach. Samuel Seabury, counsel for the Hofstadter committee, is disclosing the system of costs imposed by politics.

American democracy has given its demagogic and dishonest political system enough rope, but the system has hung not itself but the democracy. Charlatans of reform, brainless windbags, greedy almoners, sour bigots, and fat scoundrels have crossed the country as a plague of locusts and the fields are bare. Democracy, poor wretch, is told that the cure for the infirmities which have brought him down is more debt, more expenses and more taxation. The complete picture is one of a stout thief on a starved jackass.

CROSSING THE DELAWARE.

Emanuel Leutze's famous picture of "Washington Crossing the Delaware" is to be restored to its place in the Metropolitan Museum of Art in New York. Protests followed the discovery that it had been removed to storage. The president of the museum board says that the picture had been down two or three years before its disappearance was commented upon, whether or not it had been observed, but that it was fitting to return it to the walls for the bicentennial celebration of Washington's birth.

If the New York museum has only an occasional use for the picture some other possession should be arranged. Americans who admire it, and have affection for it, and an interest in it will not be impressed by criticism of it as a work of art or of historical accuracy. It is a spirited historical painting which has acquired historical value in its own right. Copies of it have been familiar to Americans of several generations and it is associated with the most critical military event of the revolution which produced the republic. Although Washington probably never would have got out of the ice in that posture, nevertheless in it he seems to project the resolution which carried his men into Trenton. The spirit of the event, the character of the leader, and the feeling of the people for the picture forbid it a place in a storeroom. It is not necessary for it to breathe with the genius of a very great painter to be entitled to a place where it can be seen. If the New York museum feels that its room on the wall is to be preferred to it, after the Washington celebration, then another custodian should be found and the painting kept in exhibition.

FINANCIAL POLICY AT WASHINGTON.

The house expenditures committee in Washington, to which the bills proposing salary and wage cuts were referred, has tabled all of them. The committee, it was reported, decided that a reduction in purchasing power would have a more harmful influence than a continuance of government expenditures. The wisest men in the country know that the government's long fingers must be taken out of the citizen's till and costs reduced, but that is contrary to the instincts of bureaucracy, which lives by expansion and increase.

Washington lives on economic fallacies which seem to be endurable while the country at large is at the peak of production, but which in reality are adding their weight to the causes which are preparing to drag it down. The principal fallacy is that the taxable resources are inexhaustible and that it is sound public policy to divert money from private enterprise to public undertakings. This diversion actually acquires a public virtue and excessive and punitive taxation is advocated as a means of promoting general welfare.

In good times government expands. It undertakes such unjustifiable operations as those at Boulder dam. It creates new bureaus and enters into new relations with the citizens. It is easy for promoters to start their projects. With specious representations of public benefit an undertaking may make a modest beginning with a small appropriation. Within two years it has expanded and with each subsequent appropriation bill its allotment is boosted. Its personnel grows, its floor space spreads out, its activities multiply, and presently an indispensable public service is in full swing.

In bad times when taxation has overreached the power to pay government will not prune itself. The functionaries have obtained vested rights. Seemingly any one can create a job. No one can destroy one. Washington, confronted with deficits which prove the inadequacy of public revenue for the scale of public enterprises, is inventive only in proposals to increase the public debt. It seems hopeless.

AN ILLINOIS MAN FOR THE SUPREME COURT.

The retirement of Mr. Justice Holmes leaves a vacancy on our Supreme bench which in a special sense cannot be filled. There is but one Holmes. But a new justice must be selected and we suggest that the bar associations and the Illinois delegation in congress advance the proper claims of Illinois for the place. Chief Justice Melville Fuller was the last representative of Illinois in the court, and he died in 1910. The quality of the Illinois bar and the importance of this region in the social, political and economic life of the nation call for representation in the highest court of the land.

SPRING SONG IN WINTER.

Within the last week or so the winter silence of the woods has been broken by a song. Winter silence it may be called, although the brown is that of autumn and the silence is also disturbed by the exclamatory notes of nuthatches, woodpeckers and bluejays and by the cheer-up of the chickadee. These, however, are sounds incidental to going to market for the day's supplies, and they do not break anything. The song which seems to come from somewhere in the future is that of the male cardinal in the top of the oaks and it breaks through the snow walled days of intervening time.

This red coat from his vedette post at the top of the tall white oak has seen something in the distance, it would appear, and he sends out the call of spring, a clarion, fearless song which has the magic to bring soft winds out of winter hiding and make the brown leaves rustle where the spring folk stir under cover. He makes the ears perceive where the eyes are blind. To the magic of his red flight through the winter scene he adds the miracle of the voice of spring in January. The cardinal and his mate, companions the year around, although constant to our climate, are forever exotic in it. His spring song is no stranger than their winter presence.

THE BUREAUCRATIC NET.

Senator Pat Harrison of Mississippi called the attention of the senate to the parental solicitude which the American bureaucracy has injected into the federal enterprises of the United States, showing by illustrations how every activity of American citizens has been made a matter of government concern. Readers of THE TRIBUNE are already familiar with the subject which becomes a comedy of government meddlesomeness whenever it is discussed. The grin, however, will be on the face of the tiger.

Senator Harrison with rapid fire satire mentioned the government's outpourings on bullfrogs, window curtains, rompers, spinach, lamb stew, sheets, breast feeding, mousetraps, sun baths, etc. Even as he was speaking the mails were carrying out franked cards from the office of the secretary of the department of commerce—"national committee on wood utilization"—urging the citizens to allow the United States government to help them select their household furniture.

American bureaucracy has gone crazy. It has, moreover, spread out a network which is bringing under government supervision every activity of the people. Where the bureaucrats do not as yet command, they advise. Where authority is permitted to advise, it becomes eager to command. The machinery of the soviets has actually been established in the United States.

Editorial of the Day

WHERE CRIME NEWS SUCCEEDED.

[The State Journal, Lansing, Mich.]

True, there is crime news and crime news. Some contend that no crime news is justifiable. In the light of an occurrence of the other day it would appear that reasonably presented crime news has its justification as an aid to public decency and safety.

Harry and Jennings Young would doubtless be still at liberty if a newspaper in Houston, Tex., something like 600 miles away from the scene of their crime, had not printed their pictures. The likeness of the fleeing murderers was recognized by the proprietor of the house where they had rented a room. He removed his family and notified the police.

The result is now known to all. It is highly questionable if any good would have been accomplished if newspapers everywhere had ignored the terrible crime and the manhunt that followed.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

THE DEMOCRATS are giving victory banquets tonight all over the U. S. A. It's all right, Democrats, to promise us victory, but this thing of promising is a little risky. You remember how the G. O. P. not only promised us prosperity but took orders in advance and contracted to deliver prosperity in large packages, securely wrapped, with the name of each and every sovereign voter written in a neat, legible hand on the wrapper. And when the prosperity packages never came you remember how sore the sovereign voters got? And that promise of the G. O. P. about two cars in every garage and two chickens cooking in every pot. Tck, tck, tck! Go slow on promises, Democrats; when the sovereign voter is given a promise nowadays by a political party he's liable to burst right out crying and yell for the police.

MALADJUSTMENT.

It's foolish for a gent to scorn
The little town where he was born
And heed a loreleian yen
For cities where the oxygen
Is mostly smoke and motor gas
Because he wants to make a pass
At Bigger Business and the Arts:
Yclept, the Monetary Marts.

I'm ready to declare a ban
On living metropolitan.

For city hearths are graced with gas
Or pseudo-embers made of glass
That whirls around and looks like fire.
But who am I to hone and frown?
The country can't move into town . . .
And slender stalks of hollyhocks
Look silly in a window box.

IN DISCUSSING the new nine hundred million tax that Uncle Andy is going to ask us to pay in addition to our present taxes Undersecretary Mills said yesterday at Washington: "We're asking the taxpayers to pay cheerfully for two years." Listen, Mr. Mills, it's enough for you and Uncle Andy to ask for that extra nine hundred million, but for goodness' sake don't expect us to laugh uproariously when we pay it. Honest, Mr. Mills, when it comes to taxes we haven't got a laugh left in our system.

NO WONDER FRANCE doesn't attract tourists any more. What a dull, tame country France has grown to be. Right now Laval has resigned, the cabinet has resigned, and there is a crisis. Why, in the old days, whenever there was a crisis, they would tear up the pavements, build barricades, pull down the Vendome column, and chase the army all over the place. Now they just yawn and sit in the sidewalk cafés, order another aperitif, and say "que voulez vous?"

AH, 'TIS THE MERRY, MERRY SPRINGTIME in our happy middle west. The grass is turning green, the flowers blooming in the gardens, and the bright sunshine streaming down from a sky of softest blue. Let us, then, gather up our overshoes and earmuffs and overcoats and snow shovels and all the things like that and send them out to southern California, where they have much need of them. Ah, happy Chicago—what a climate, what a climate!

ALL THE MARVELOUS new things reported by the breathless reporters at the automobile show in New York fill us with mad eagerness to have 'em on our bus. Automatic starters, clutches, gear shifts, and what not are amazing. Then there's a gadget that stops the car automatically at red light and cross roads, and one that shouts in a loud clear voice, "Oh, go wash your face," when a traffic cop says: "What's the hurry? Pull over to tha curb." Gosh! this is a wonderful age.

IF LIFE WERE ONLY MADE FOR LOVE.

If life were only made for love,
How pleasant it would be
To know that I was made for you,
And you were made for me!

But life is cluttered up with work,
And books, and friends galore;
And many things that interest you
To me are just a bore!

And many things that interest me
You find outside the pale.
Oh! is it any wonder, dear,
That marriages can fail?

We wouldn't have to compromise
And give up such a lot
If life were only made for love;—
But then, of course, it's not!

EARACHE.

IT SEEMS probable that the ear drum is less necessary than we regarded it. It is not exactly in the appendix class, nor is it—like a fine gray cowlick—an adornment. It is of some service, though we seem to have rated it too highly. There are many people with perforated drums who hear very well and some who hear poorly have drums that appear to be first class. Occasionally, in a routine examination, a person is told that he has perforated ear drums and the information was quite unexpected. He cannot recall when they were perforated nor has he been conscious of any defect in hearing. While this is all true it does not prove that ear drums are useless, or that any man should be in a hurry to have holes made in his.

Dr. E. M. Josephson thinks we have been too hasty in lancing ear drums. When we have had earache and, even more frequently, when the children have had earache, the tendency has been to lance the ear drums without much hesitation. We are told that the operation was a mild one and that holes in ear drums were repaired readily by nature, both of which statements are relatively true. Sometimes we were told that the drum was the seat of the trouble and that it was necessary to lance to prevent mastoid abscess. Dr. Josephson says the first of these conclusions is often not true.

The ear often expresses discomfort due to conditions in the nose, mouth, and elsewhere. He contends that earache in teething babies is often due to the teeth cutting their way through the gums and pushing through the crowded teeth in undersized jaws. In these cases lancing the gums will do more good than lancing the ear drums.

In other cases the real seat of the trouble is in the nose, tonsils, or throat. He advises that the examination include looking in the mouth and nose, as well as into the ear. He has seen reflex earache set up by such simple procedures as using a tongue depressor to examine the back of the throat of a resisting child. For all cases of earache of this origin he advises sprays of epinephrine or ephedrine solution to the nose or throat. He is especially opposed to blowing out the Eustachian tubes for retracted ear drums or any other manifestation of reflex troubles in the ears. He does not say so, but I imagine he thinks the people who have used oil ear drops for earache have rendered a better service than some other people have. They may not have done much good but they have not done harm.

Fortunately, most ear pains tend to end spontaneously. Spraying the nose or throat and treating other troubles that are likely to cause reflex ear troubles sometimes hasten relief.

SAFFRON AND TANSY.

M. D. writes:

1. What medical value has saffron?
2. What medical value has the plant called tansy?

REPLY.

1. The drug sold as saffron in this country is a part of a plant called safflower. It has little if any therapeutic action. It is made into a tea and this is given as a hot drink to bring out the eruption in measles. Probably any other warm beverage would serve as well, though there is no objection to saffron tea.

2. Tansy is used to produce abortion. In full doses it is a poisonous drug. The dose necessary to cause a woman to miscarry is greater than the fatal dose. In small doses it is without any effect other than those expected of hot beverages.

WINDOW GLASS.

M. W. E. writes: Is it true beyond a doubt that the supposed beneficent rays of the sun are neutralized when shining through common window glass?

REPLY.

It is true as to that part of the ray that is violet and beyond. The heat and light rays do pass through glass and they have good qualities.

COURT MUST DECIDE.

Metamora, Ill., Jan. 6.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I recently brought a suit against four persons. Two of them replied to the bill; one defaulted and the attorney for the first two mentioned answered for the fourth person. The fourth person testified on the stand that he had never authorized this attorney to answer the bill in his name. He said he never at any time consulted the attorney in regard to the suit.

1. Can we bring a complaint against the attorney? 2. Can we have him disbarred or punished in any way? 3. What steps should we take to have him removed from the bar, if this is possible?

D. M.

1. Yes.
2. It will be for the courts to decide whether the offense is serious enough to warrant disbarment. The surrounding circumstances will be considered.
3. The first step would be to take the matter up with the local Bar association. If you have sustained money damage you might recover against the attorney for breach of his implied warranty that he had authority.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

NOT ALWAYS VALID.

Chicago, Jan. 9.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—Could a board bill be collected from the estate of a person when at the death of said person the estate automatically became the property of another through deeds unrecorded? The bill was filed after death of aforesaid party.

E. B. C.

If the effect of the deeds is to leave your debtor with no assets at the time of his death, then there would be no way for you to collect your debt, unless some other person is also liable. Such unrecorded deeds are often subject to attack because of not having validly been delivered during the lifetime of the grantor.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

REPEAL IS PENDING.

Chicago, Jan. 9.—[Friend of the People.]—The stop street sign at Greenview and Clybourn avenues has outlived its usefulness inasmuch as about 99 per cent of the traffic has been diverted to Ashland avenue. I do not know what the conditions are along Greenview avenue as a whole, but Ashland avenue since its widening has replaced Greenview as an important traffic artery. When is Greenview to be discontinued as a through street?

A. D.

The bureau of streets is at present engaged in a city wide study of present and proposed through streets. Due to the recent improvement of Ashland avenue this plan contemplates the repeal of the ordinance naming Greenview avenue as a through street. When such repeal has been passed by the city council all stop signs on Greenview avenue will be removed, including those at Clybourn avenue.

JOSEPH J. BUTLER,
Superintendent of Streets.

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

This nation has had other serious financial depressions, as the following excerpts from The Tribune files reveal. Each of these periods of hard times has been followed by periods of great prosperity.

1873.

Paterson, N. J., Oct. 12.—Only one silk mill in Paterson is running on full time. Several mills have entirely suspended and others run only a part of the time with reduced forces.

New York, Oct. 14.—On the stock market there was a steady decline in prices. Much uneasiness was occasioned by this unexpected and discouraging change in the market, it having been believed that as prices touched bottom they would rise to their former height. Apprehension is expressed that if the decline continues serious results will ensue. One house, P. H. Stevens, failed.

1894.

Massillon, O., March 26.—Gen. J. S. Coxey's "commonweal army" of unemployed is on the march, with the capitol in Washington its goal. It is bitterly cold and a snowstorm is raging. The "army" is encamped tonight at Canton, after marching eight miles from this city. Recruits are expected at the various towns through which the army will pass on its way to the capital.

Milwaukee, Wis., March 26.—Milwaukee will be represented by a contingent of 300 in the "On to Washington" march of Coxey's commonweal army, if the hopes of the organizer here are realized. A call to the unemployed was issued for a meeting on March 28.

Boston, Mass., Nov. 19.—Dispatches from the New England industrial centers show a further curtailment of working hours, due to the scarcity of currency and to a falling off in the demand for goods. Ten factories have either shut down or decreased their output in the last few days.

1914.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 15.—Reports that thousands of men in Chicago and New York are involuntarily idle have caused the national industrial committee to enter upon a study of the problem of the unemployed.

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

JANUARY 14, 1916

EL PASO, Tex.—Gen. Pershing of the United States army has declared martial law over El Paso and the city is being patrolled by provost guards of regulars from Fort Bliss. A detachment of fifty regulars has been sent to the lower part of the city where a large number of Mexicans are reported armed. The sentries at the international bridge, connecting this city with Juarez, have been strengthened to stop any possible attempt by Mexicans to cross. The police, with the aid of regulars, continue their search for all Villa adherents. Half a hundred or more of them have been rounded up.

NEW YORK.—Col. Roosevelt fired a broadside at the Wilson policy in Mexico, particularly in view of the latest massacre of American citizens. The colonel also accused President Wilson of playing politics in his latest dealings with Germany and Austria in regard to submarine activities.

EL PASO, Tex.—Gen. Victoriano Huerta, former dictator of Mexico, died in El Paso after a long illness. Gen. Huerta had been under surveillance of American officials since his release from prison. He was ousted from control of Mexican affairs following the American occupation of Vera Cruz.

LONDON.—Another decisive stage in the Balkan situation has been reached with Montenegro now following Serbia in virtual absorption by the invading forces. It was learned that Austria and Montenegro had come to an armistice, this being construed as the last act of the little country after having its capital, Cettinje, dominated by the Austrian capture of Mount Lovcen. Whether King Nicholas will continue the unequal struggle is considered doubtful here, but the accepted view among the best posted men in London is that Montenegro virtually has passed under Austrian control.

AMSTERDAM.—The Belgian spy, Cels, who denounced Miss Edith Cavell, the English nurse, to the Germans, has been assassinated. His body was found in a street in Schaerbeek, near Brussels. It bore two bullet wounds.

30 YEARS AGO TODAY

JANUARY 14, 1902.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—It is now understood here that Winthrop Murray Crane, governor of Massachusetts, is slated to succeed John D. Long as secretary of the navy. So far as can be learned the present program is that Gov. Crane shall remain where he is until after the adjournment of the Massachusetts legislature. Then he will resign as governor and accept the cabinet position.

CHICAGO.—The city of Chicago, through its mayor and council, has taken steps to welcome Admiral Schley when he comes here the latter part of this month and the Chicago Board of Trade has adopted resolutions asking congress to review the record of the recent court of inquiry.

LONDON.—The breach of promise suit brought by Miss Portia Knight, the American actress, against the duke of Manchester has been settled out of court, the duke paying Miss Knight $5,000 and defraying the costs of the legal proceedings.

NEW YORK.—Guglielmo Marconi, the inventor of the wireless telegraph, as the guest of honor at the annual dinner of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers at the Waldorf-Astoria tonight, described to a gathering of his co-workers in the field of electricity how he sent his already world famous message across the Atlantic ocean.

THE AMERICAN LANGUAGE.

Cedar Rapids, Ia., Jan. 9.—It is becoming apparent that institutions of higher learning, especially such schools as the University of Brass Tacks and the College of Hard Knocks, should offer courses in American language. Some schools have English. The point is that none of them teaches American.

When Calvin Coolidge said that he did not "choose" to be a candidate for President, those who speak the New England dialect knew that he had had the matter under advisement, that he had carefully and privately weighed all arguments, and that he had arrived at the determination that under no circumstances, nor for any reason, would he be a candidate for President.

Still there were many politicians, not a few editors and numerous citizens who believed that the New England "do not choose" was an evasion. Calvin Coolidge employed the strongest expression at his command.

Now comes the Hon. Charles G. Dawes and, by use of a robust and well rounded "damn," seeks to set at rest the notion that he will be a candidate for President. The politicians, the editors, and the general public seem to understand the "damn" of Marietta, O., origin no more than they understood the "do not choose" of Massachusetts, Vermont, New Hampshire, and Maine.

The same persons would not understand the "I reckon not" of West Virginia and Maryland, nor the "go chase yourself" of the trans-Missouri region.

The politicians, editors, and confused public seem to believe that the proper form of negative expression to be employed by prominent public men requires them to whip out one or two six-guns and begin to shoot out the lights, demolish the bar mirror, and knock the heels off boots worn by innocent bystanders, the form of declination with thanks that prevailed in Nevada, Idaho, Montana, Colorado, Arizona, Utah, and Oregon when range cattle were worth 1¼ cents per pound and silver sold at $1.30 the ounce.

Meanwhile, masters of various colloquial forms of American derive entertainment from efforts made by the great to interpret their speech.

W. I. ENDICOTT.

WHEN TO SAVE.

Chicago, Jan. 10.—According to reports, Mr. Bogan will not recommend a cut in teachers' salaries. He did, however, recommend that they receive no pay for ten holidays. What is the difference between taking off 10 days' pay and a cut in salary? Some time ago the Principals' club recommended that a number of supervisors be laid off. What became of this recommendation? As a teacher, I would like to ask what do supervisors do? They certainly do not supervise. When there is a banquet or a national meeting of the supervisor's subject he arranges the program and probably makes a speech. As far as I can see, supervisors, deans, superintendents, and supernumeraries could be dispensed with without loss to the system.

B.

THE SURPLUS OF TEACHERS.

Chicago, Jan. 11.—As a reader of your paper I am interested in getting correct statistical material. In the last few months several articles containing erroneous figures in regard to the school situation in Chicago have been printed. For example, your paper reports a waiting list of 2,200 teachers from the Chicago Normal college, while in reality this list includes all unassigned teachers in the Chicago school system. Normal graduates are assigned only to elementary schools. The list for the latter numbers 1,150, of which 850 are needed for substitute duty.

EDMUND KUBIK.

ROSENWALD BRIDGE.

Chicago, Jan. 9.—Some one has made the suggestion that a public monument be erected in Chicago in memory of Chicago's merchant prince and philanthropist, Julius Rosenwald.

As no definite idea was advanced as to what form such a monument should take, I venture to suggest that the great bridge at the mouth of the Chicago river; now under erection, be designated as "the Julius Rosenwald bridge." Mr. Rosenwald, for a long time, had his home on the south side of the city and died in a near suburb of the north side. The span connecting the two sections might well be so designated, even though his civic views were not sectional, but universal, and it would seem appropriate that in time to come the thousands who will pass over that splendid structure and who have been benefited by his generosity or inspired by his example might be told that here is an enduring monument, erected by his own generation and of a utilitarian character to daily serve the masses he favored. For he was a practical business man, endowed with vision and sentimental feeling and rose by honest effort from poverty to great wealth, which he devoted to the amelioration and benefit of mankind, regardless of race, color, or creed.

FRANK G. LOGAN.

FROM A TEACHER.

Chicago, Jan. 9.—I do not dispute the fact that the school budget must be cut in this emergency and that the teachers must bear a part of the burden. I would like to inquire, however whether any recommendation has been made for saving money by cutting the superintendent's own salary and that of the assistants and district superintendents on holidays and when they are absent from their offices because they are ill or traveling.

And how much of a cut is being made in the building department, where so much has been wasted and swallowed up by graft?

Now, may I make a suggestion for the many nonthinking citizens who call our job "a snap from nine to three?" Let these big talkers who think it is "a snap" to guide, control, and, in many cases, practically force the pupils to assimilate the necessary knowledge, try the job for a few days. And if one of them will let me know how it is possible to prepare the material to be presented to each class, as well as to correct and grade papers, record marks, handle disciplinary cases, etc., during the time the classes are in session—i. e., from nine to three—and so avoid any outside work, I would indeed be grateful. This does not take into consideration the night work of many of us at the universities.

I am not crying for sympathy, neither do I mean to imply that we are overworked. Every job means work, and I have entered the teaching profession voluntarily. But I do think that the services of teachers are greatly underrated by the general public, who criticize freely without knowing the facts or take one unworthy member of our group and hold up her sins as the general rule.

A TEACHER.

PANHANDLERS.

Chicago, Jan. 9.—Is there no protection for the storekeepers against panhandlers? All day long and every day they come in either selling something or passing out little cards asking for money. If one is nice to them and asks them not to annoy the customers they get nasty and create a scene. Any one not dealing with the public can't understand why the storekeeper gets impatient with these people, and when we have to usher them out it leaves a bad impression for the customers and we lose their trade.

JAPANESE RIOT IN CHINA CITY OVER 'INSULT' TO RULER

Mob Burns 2 Buildings; Marines Landed.

BULLETIN.

TOKIO, Jan. 14 (Thursday).—(AP)—The Japanese government's reply to Secretary of State Stimson's recent note on the Manchurian situation was handed to American Ambassador Forbes today.

TSINGTAO, China, Jan. 13.—(AP)—Five hundred Japanese marines, carrying fixed bayonets, patroled the streets of Tsingtao today while thousands of Chinese fled the city in fear of possible recurrence of yesterday's rioting.

Late tonight the Japanese authorities were satisfied that quiet had been restored and the marine contingent was returned to warships in the harbor.

The trouble started when the Chinese newspaper Kuo Jih Pao said the recent attempt by a Corean on the life of Emperior Hirohito in Tokio indicated Corea's desire for independence.

Called Insult to Mikado.

Japanese residents interpreted this as an insult to the emperor and stormed the newspaper plant. Firing revolvers, they thronged into the building. The Chinese staff fled. Attempts were made to burn the place, but they were unsuccessful.

Later several thousand Japanese paraded behind their nation's flag, demanding further action against the newspaper. After the parade the demonstrators made another attack, this time burning the newspaper building and the headquarters of the Kuomintang [Chinese Nationalist party] as well.

The Japanese consul announced he was unable to control his nationals and with the permission of the Chinese mayor asked for the marines. They turned the Japanese consulate into a fortress, bristling with machine guns mounted on its flat roof.

Chinese Bonds Crash.

SHANGHAI, Jan. 13.—(AP)—The bond exchange was closed today because of great declines in domestic issues.

Meanwhile, it was reported the government had taken strong measures to obtain financial help from bankers. Advances of additional millions for government use have been demanded, it was said, under threat of stopping interest payments on domestic bonds issued during the Chiang Kai-shek régime, in which bankers are heavily involved.

The belief expressed in financial circles was that the government was in serious difficulties and could not last much longer.

Japan Pledges Open Door.

[Copyright: 1932: By the New York Times.]

TOKIO, Jan. 13.—Japan's reply to Secretary of State Stimson's note will be handed to W. Cameron Forbes, United States ambassador, tomorrow. It will be colorless document. The reply will not invite further controversy, which Premier Inukai considers undesirable in a case where a change of policy by Japan is impossible.

It will give unqualified assurance of Japan's continued adherence to the open door policy in China and will discreetly imply that Japan's action in ridding Manchuria of its late militaristic government helped to make freedom of commercial opportunity a reality. Japan's loyalty to the Kellogg pact and nine power treaty will be reaffirmed, but it will be suggested that treaties have to be applied with regard to actual circumstances.

The tone of the note will be as unprovocative as possible, but observers who know the situation can easily perceive the force of the implied vindication—which is that the root cause of the trouble is Chinese misrule, violation of treaty rights, failure to suppress banditry, and neglect to redress grievances, coupled with provocation and procrastination carried to the extreme limits of endurance.

C. A. C. HOLDS ELECTION

Unanimous Choice

George W. Rossetter, accountant executive, was elected president of the Chicago Association of Commerce yesterday by unanimous vote. He was the only nominee for the office, which Col. Robert Isham Randolph will vacate after a two year tenure. Rossetter will be installed in office on Jan. 27.

All nominees for offices of the association were unopposed, and all were elected without contest. Vice presidents elected were James B. Forgan Jr., Robert C. Ross, Charles E. Herrick, Joseph K. Brittain, John L. Coyne, and C. L. Rice. George J. Cossman was elected secretary and Laurence B. Robbins, treasurer.

Ten directors were elected for two year terms. They were Homer W. Bang, J. H. Fall Jr., Irving S. Florsheim, Earle Reynolds, D. A. Crawford, Henry M. Dawes, John F. Gilchrist, Bruce MacLeish, Joseph T. Ryerson, and Ralph J. Hines.

Rossetter was vice president of the organization last year and his election, according to officials of the association, indicates the trade group will continue its fight on crime and other policies laid down by Col. Randolph. The new president, like his predecessor, was an officer in the A. E. F. He is president of George W. Rossetter & Co., 33 North La Salle street.

$32,848 PLEDGED IN GLENCOE DRIVE FOR SCHOOL CASH

John W. Wilder, secretary of the Glencoe Fiscal committee, which is conducting a two weeks' campaign to sell tax anticipation warrants to the amount of $396,700, announced last night that residents of Glencoe had pledged $32,848 during the first two nights of the canvass. "Reports have been received from only 70 of the 200 workers in the field," said Mr. Wilder. "The outlook is very encouraging."

The money is sought by the committee in order to reopen the schools and continue other municipal activities of the suburb.

The Western Springs school fund campaign started recently to obtain $20,000 for the village schools was reported last night to be a success. $12,000 already having been raised. The entire amount will be raised by the end of the week, according to J. H. Cattell.

SCHOOLS FIRE EMPLOYE WHO 'PAID FOR JOB'

Carl A. Olsen, 5843 Carpenter street, was fired by the school board yesterday from the job which he testified had cost him $15. The charge was "conduct unbecoming" an employé of the board of education.

Olsen was suspended May 5 on the allegation that he had stolen a floor brush from the Dewey school. He was tried Nov. 18 by a committee of holdover trustees presided over by Carter Blatchford. Several witnesses had testified when Olsen was called to the stand.

"They say I told how I paid five dollars for my job," he said. "That is a lie. I didn't pay five dollars, but I paid $7.50 twice. Metzger was the ward committeeman and the money was supposed to go for the campaign fund of the former mayor."

Drys Seize $50,000 Beer Plant and Arrest Six Men

Prohibition agents battered down a steel door leading into a garage, said to be owned by Lorenze Bros., cement contractors, at 1712 Kilbourn avenue, yesterday, arrested six men and confiscated brewery equipment valued at $50,000. The prisoners are Marvin Kroet, Albert Olson, John Watson, George Johnson, William Madson, and James Barry. The agents found 130 barrels of beer, seven 1,250 gallon vats of mash, and a 1,500 gallon cooling tank.

AUTOS TRAVEL AT SNAIL'S PACE IN GOTHAM STREETS

Speed Limit 35 Miles an Hour; 45 in Chicago.

BY HAL FOUST.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Jan. 13.—[Special.]—Motor car ownership in Chicago is of far greater value than in New York. Manhattan, isolated by water and with narrow and congested streets, discourages the operation of private vehicles. Chicago, by comparison, is a motorist's paradise, with fast boulevards leading from the business district to the broad pavements of the open country.

W. E. Butler, a director of the Chicago Automobile Trade association and a vice president of the Illinois Automobile Trade association, reached these conclusions this evening after an observation tour in a taxicab.

The Tour Begins.

"If a car is worth $800 to a New Yorker," he said, "it would be worth $1,000 to a Chicagoan, although it would cost him no more. The difference is in the utility and pleasure that can be had from an automobile in the two cities."

The inspection trip left the Biltmore hotel during a nonrush hour, if there is such a thing on Manhattan Island.

"I want to see the elevated highway," Butler told the chauffeur.

"I suppose you mean the speedway," the driver replied, shifting into gear, "and it's a great speedway. You can drive thirty-five miles an hour on it."

"We drive forty-five on Chicago's outer drive," Butler replied.

Travel at Snail's Pace.

The taxicab drifted into the jam of automobile traffic jogging west in 43d street. A horse drawn milk wagon, with the animal occasionally breaking into a lazy trot, was able to keep up with the motor vehicles. Because of the stops for lights, automobiles barely kept up with pedestrians on the sidewalks.

Taxicabs and a few chauffeur driven limousines virtually monopolized the pavement. Farther west, there was parking on both sides of the narrow street. The driver turned south in 10th avenue, following a street car track that became a railroad track blocked with a freight train at 31st street. At 21st street, the taxicab mounted the elevated highway.

The taxicab cruised at 35 miles an hour without slackening its pace. An ornamented span of concrete and steel carries six lanes of traffic over the congested local streets in front of Hudson river wharves. There were no pedestrians or cross traffic. This was speed with safety.

Inspect 60 Million Bridge.

This section of the elevated highway cost $6,500,000. Seven miles more are planned at an approximate cost of $18,000,000 or $20,000,000.

Butler also inspected the $65,000,000 vehicular tunnel under the Hudson river and the $60,000,000 George Washington bridge over the river, but he found that even with these huge expenditures New York has not met with its traffic problem. It is still impractical for an owner to use his car to drive to and from work or to attend the theaters. Butler, as a Hudson-Essex distributor, is in New York attending the 32d national automobile show, which will be held in Chicago from Jan. 30 to Feb. 6.

SENTENCED FOR BAD CHECK.

James Hall was sentenced to four months in the Bridewell by Judge James F. Fardy in the Felony court yesterday for passing a worthless $35 check on Mrs. Christian Kinsella, 2137 Cornelia street, when he rented rooms in her home.

3 CONFESS TO KANSAS CITY THEATER BLAST

Kansas City, Mo., Jan. 13.—[Special.]—Three confessions obtained by police today cleared up the mystery of the bombing of the Midland theater Monday night, in which Frank Alexander, Negro janitor, was killed and the lives of many patrons endangered.

The bombing was the outgrowth of labor troubles between two rival groups of picture machine operators.

The bomb exploded prematurely. Had the timing been more faulty hundreds of men, women, and children would have been exposed to the bomb's deadly force.

Ermal J. Lime and E. M. Evans, officials of one of the rival unions, voluntarily signed statements today admitting they manufactured the bomb Monday, and Lime admitted he employed John E. Gillespie, an ex-convict to take it, as a package of whisky, to the theater and leave it under a seat in the balcony.

Gillespie admitted he delivered the bomb.

According to Lime's confession, the bombing was the outgrowth of the war that has been in progress for months between the Sound Projectionists association, a local organization, and the International Alliance of Stage and Theatrical Employés.

Lime is president of the Sound Projectionists association. Evans is business agent of the association.

LAST YEAR'S WIFE

By ALICE M. WILLIAMSON

SYNOPSIS.

Lorne Carlton and Dick Farrow, popular moving picture stars of Hollywood, sail for Europe on a delayed honeymoon after a year's happy marriage. Lorne is sad about leaving, as she has an undefinable presentiment of trouble, but Dick is anxious for the adventure. Dick's parents are famous on the stage. Lorne, who fought her way through poverty to the heights, feels that she is not approved by the elder Farrows. Dolores, the duchess of Crowninshield, a friend of Dick's parents, has invited the young couple to be her guests in London. She is divorced from the duke, but is one of England's most important hostesses. From the first moment of their meeting Dick is a willing captive of the beautiful and charming duchess. Dolores has a huge program arranged for their entertainment. Lorne carries on a silent tug of war to hold her husband.

INSTALLMENT X.

DIVINE MADNESS.

Poor Dick stretched out his arm as if it had been a stick, and Lorne laid her sad head upon it. She had drenched herself with a new Paris perfume called "Pouvoir d' Amour," which had been meant as a pleasant surprise for Dick on some happy night. But on this night, not so happy, there seemed little love in it, and no power.

There had been an advertisement in Femina extolling the perfume. It was practically guaranteed as a modern love potion. "The lotus sweet fragrance overwhelms with the ecstacy of awakening love," was a free translation. But Dick did not seem to be overwhelmed. He didn't even sniff and say, "How nice you smell, Eyes!"

Taking no notice whatever of the heady scent, he lay silent, rather stiff, perhaps feigning sleep in the fear that Lorne might mean to nag him about his poem to the duchess—or something else.

There was no threat of nagging in her voice, however, when she spoke in a soft and gentle tone.

"Darling boy! . . . You're not asleep, are you?"

"Not I!" with forced cordiality.

"I've been thinking," went on Lorne. "Just how long is it that we've been on this side of the water? Nearly seven weeks, isn't it?"

"Let's see," Dick humored her. "Yes, so it is. Seven weeks, all but, since we tumbled off our ship."

"Well, we gave ourselves three months, from Los Angeles to Los Angeles again," said Lorne. "Five days from Southampton to New York; and we'll want to stay there a little while with your father and mother, of course. There really isn't such a lot of time to spare! I can't risk being late at the studio. You know when they want to begin rehearsing for my next picture. And you'll be starting work on yours no more than two weeks after mine."

"We'll meet men and women whose ancestors were born knowing the right thing to do and say."

"Well, yes. I know all that," Dick agreed. "But why worry about it now, the very night we've arrived in London?"

"Only that I feel we ought to leave sooner than we planned, in case of accidents. We oughtn't to let the duchess make engagements for us too far ahead. We must be on the safe side."

"Hang the safe side!" said Dick. "Two days in New York will be enough, and two more in Hollywood for you to rest. That makes four days altogether, counting the journey by sea and land—which gives us a clear three weeks here."

"O, Dick, that's cutting it too fine!" pleaded Lorne. "Can't we boil it down to a week in London?"

"Well, for crying out loud!" exclaimed Dick. "What's eating you?"

"Homesickness is eating me, to tell all the truth," Lorne confessed. "Aren't you the least bit homesick yourself?"

"Why, no, I'm not," Dick flung back promptly. "I'm having the time of my life. I thought you were."

"I was, till this came over me," said Lorne. "But I'm no good as a visitor. I'm a washout. I warned you I would be, Dickie. O, I can't stand it! Do, if you love me, let us get a cable ordering us to sail in a week's time."

"What?" Dick barked. "And waste our suite on the Leviathan?"

"We could go in another ship of the same line. Then they'd change our tickets and it would be all right."

"Good Lord, what are you thinking of?" Dick argued crossly. "At this time of year, in the middle of the summer, when all the liners are full up for weeks ahead, west bound."

"Not so early as this," Lorne insisted. "It's only the third of June now. Americans won't be sailing for home till August at the earliest. O, Dick, I tell you I'm miserable. It would just about save my young life to walk into our sweet little home and straighten the Persian rug that hangs on the balustrade at the landing. Can't you hear the dear grandfather clock ticking there? Tic-toc, tic-tac! Dick and Lorne, coming back."

"Rot, my pet!" [He hadn't once called her "Eyes" since they landed at Croydon.] "Tommy rot! This is only a passing mood of yours. Maybe you've got indigestion. Tomorrow you'll want to stay as long as I do."

"You do want to stay?"

"And how!"

"Even if—I'm wretched?" asked Lorne. "You used, only a little while ago, to hate seeing me unhappy."

"I hate it as much as ever when you've got anything real to be unhappy about," Dick assured her, "but this is hysterical nonsence, my child. We can't see London in a week. And why go out of our way to be rude to Dolores? She's made no end of engagements for us, nice ones, things we've always wanted to do. I wish we had six weeks to stay, instead of three. Now, look here! Don't do the temperamental act with me, baby! I'm your husband, I'm not your director. You've always vowed that you weren't temperamental."

"I'm not," said Lorne, "not in the way you mean."

"Well, tonight's the night to prove it, then! Snap out of this, I tell you. Remember, we moving picture artists are different from other people. We can't just be contented and chew the cud. We have a kind of—of divine madness in us, I'm sure. I feel it in myself—never more strongly than now. We are always above or below concert pitch. We aren't satisfied for long, even with the most wonderful things such as outsiders would be content with forever."

"Things like wives, for instance," Lorne finished the sentence for him, in her head, while her lips were silent. "That's the way we are built," Dick was going on. "We mustn't be surprised at our own moods, we must put up with them. If you were a completely normal human being, my poor one, you'd be thanking all your lucky gods for the break they've given us in bringing us where we are. Why, most any one else would be glad to pay big money for what we get scot free! A visit with a—er——"

"A real, live duchess!" Lorne couldn't quite keep the sneer out of her tone, and Dick hotly resented it.

"Damn it, I wasn't thinking of her duchesshood!" he defended himself. "This isn't the first time you've accused me of being a snob. It's not worthy of you. It's mean! I started to say that it's a privilege to stay in this perfect house, with its pluperfect mistress."

"That's just what she would be!" snapped Lorne before she could check the outburst.

"What do you mean by that?" Dick caught her up.

"Nothing," the girl answered, ashamed. "I was only trying to wisecrack."

"Don't. It doesn't suit you," Dick advised. "If you've got half the brains I've always thought you had, you can learn useful things from the duchess of Crowninshield and her friends; so can I, and I intend to. Some of the people we like best at home—if you call Hollywood 'home'—are roughnecks. Nothing else but! And we pick up their ways. With Dolores we'll meet men and women whose ancestors were born knowing the right thing to do and say, five or six hundred or a thousand years ago. Now I ask you, did you ever see such delicious manners as Dolores Crowninshield has? There's something deep in being royal, I guess."

"Even semi-royal!" Lorne could not resist.

"It's the same thing, unless—do forgive me, my dear—one's inclined to be a tiny mite jealous of what's in the top drawer! But I should admire such a sweet and beautiful person just as much, I assure you, if she were a beggar maid."

"Yes, you would, if you were King Cophetua, not otherwise!" the hot, sharp little needles in Lorne's brain pricked her to say, but she controlled herself, after the last fiasco.

"Well, anyhow," Dick continued his argument, perhaps a bit conscious that he had gushed, "I've explained as clearly as I can why I think it would be a big mistake, as well as damnably rude, to let the duchess down."

"As you want so much to stay out the full time of our leave, that would be enough for me without your explanations," said Lorne. "You're right, of course, about my getting over this and snapping out of it. I promise to do that. Mamma's blue-eyed boy shall have his heart's desire, no matter what the cost, even if mamma has to reach down the moon for him."

They both laughed, Dick shamefacedly, yet defiantly.

Bright Sayings of the Children

I was arguing over a bill and ended it with, "I have nothing further to say."

Junior, 4½, who was listening in from his bunch of toys on the floor, put in with, "Can't you tell him about your operation?" D. B. M.

We were at a grocery store with little Marlyn Jean when a gentleman entered with a dog, whose tail at some time had been broken and grown together with a peculiar twist. Marlyn eyed the dog a few minutes, then said to the gentleman, "Why, you got that dog on such a funny tail." L. R. S.

Surprising 6 year old Jack in the act of pulling his dog's tail, I said: "Why Jack, I thought you were always kind to dumb animals!"

"I am, mother, but, you know, this dog is very smart," he quickly replied. N. H.

Two Chicago Artists Show Work to Public

BY ELEANOR JEWETT.

TWO exhibitions by Chicago artists are of interest. In the Chester H. Johnson galleries, Fine Arts building, recent water colors by William E. Musick may be seen and in the Walden gallery, 919 North Michigan avenue, are water colors by Hazel Hannell. Mr. Musick received his training at the Art institute and lately he has painted with the Mexican artist of note, Diego Rivera. He is an instructor in the Christian Fenger High school.

These water colors of Mr. Musick's carry a serious note. They are forceful as well as charming. From the turbulent "Clouds and Shadows" he keys his palette down to the ethereal, Japanese effects in "The Red Tug." He shows several portraits; among them the patient face of a peasant stands out, "One of the Devout." Mexico is a land full of beauty and contrast to him and he shows us fascinating glimpses of the landscape he loves in "Santo Cristo," "A Street in Vera Cruz," "Tasco," and "Tepeyac Hill."

A still life that is difficult to resist is the exquisite study of blossoms, "Flowers from the Mountains." Another delicate piece of flower painting is seen in "Jasmine" with its captivating rosy glow drawn from the soft red brick patio floor. The San Francisco paintings are of interest, too. A curious study in values is found in "Fog, San Francisco," where the further distance is clouded by dropping veils of mist and the foreground is peculiarly distinct.

The water colors of Hazel Hannell are the more delicate in contrast to the virile painting of William Musick. Her children's portraits have an elusive charm difficult to define. The "Little Girl with Cat," and the other little girl holding a dog, "In a French Park," are especially attractive. "Spring Flowers," "Skunk Cabbage," "Mullein and Petunias," and "Zinnias" are all beautifully done.

At the Arts club another contrast in workmanship is offered with the hanging yesterday of "La Noce" by Henri Rousseau, a bourgeois wedding reminiscent of old daguerreotype groups with, for an added touch, the green blades of tropical palms waving in the air. It is naif and amusing.

Opera Singer Appears in Benefit for the Crippled Children

Beniamino Gigli, tenor of the Metropolitan Opera company, assisted by Jacqueline Salomons, violinist, came to Orchestra hall last night to appear in a benefit concert under the sponsorship of the Dorothy Kahn Club for Crippled Children together with the Joint Emergency Relief fund. The famous tenor was in the best of his remarkably fine voice, and the program was lengthened considerably over the numbers printed in the program. Mr. Gigli excels in operatic arias whether dramatic or lyric, and a large audience applauded him enthusiastically, also justly.

Alexander Sebald's string quartet, who are presenting an interesting, well studied, and well played series of chamber music concerts this season, played the fourth thereof at Kimball hall last night. On this program they were assisted by Elizabeth Moritz, a pianist of uncommon ability and personality, appearing with Mr. Sebald in the Brahms Sonata for violin and piano in D minor. The rest of the program consisted of Beethoven's Quartet in C minor, opus 18, No. 4, and Schumann's Quartet in A, opus 41, No. 3. E. M.

Midwinter Dance Tomorrow.

The Northwestern university chapter of the Sigma Nu fraternity will give its annual formal midwinter dinner dance tomorrow night at the Opera club. Ted Egbert is in charge of the party.

Prints Announce the Advance Spring Styles

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS. — [Special.] — From Chanel down to the smallest Paris dressmaker the purveyors of French fashions have been crying: "Death to printed frocks" this last year. They have, now in the interseason, eaten their words, for printed dresses are part of the new advance spring styles. This is a victory for woman, the dictator.

Women wanted printed dresses, and even with all the Paris couture plugging for plain silks instead, they kept right on insisting until the mode monarchs had to put on a program of printed fabric styles. So now you may have printed evening or daytime dresses à volonté, with the benign approval of Paris.

For the midwinter the ordinary print looks a bit summery, so the French dressmakers are using a printed brocade that has a wintery richness and that is suitable, just the same, for wear next spring. The Jane Regny dress in our sketch is made of white damasklike silk brocaded and printed in black triangles. The stuff is heavy and lends itself beautifully to the daring drapery of the dress. This is a dress for the formal evening in spite of its instep length.

The extremity of the décolleté makes it so, for the front of the bodice, as you can see in the small sketch, is merely flung around the neck like a necklace, and there ain't any back unless you call the crushed girdle effect a back. The upper skirt is draped around to the left hip, and two loops of the printed brocade are hung from this point. The lower skirt is made ample by a full circular ruffle.

Food Talk

Tomorrow's dinner boasts a delicious fish ring which may be made with fish other than halibut. Trout is especially good if made as suggested. Some time ago I urged you all to offer your respective families fish more than once a week on what we think of as "fish day." And every time I give a recipe of which I am more than a bit proud for fish, I remember—O, so guiltily!—that I haven't been listing a fish dinner or luncheon, or breakfast, for a long time.

To come back to our halibut ring—do serve it with Hollandaise, as it is much improved with the sauce. Use either the one given today, or your own recipe—but serve Hollandaise!

HALIBUT RING.

2 pounds of halibut.
2 tablespoons of butter.
2 tablespoons of flour.
½ cup of cream or milk
1 teaspoon of salt.
4 eggs.
1 pint of whipped cream.
1 pound of fresh shrimps [canned may be used].
1 tablespoon of chopped pimento.
Hollandaise sauce.

Boil the halibut, and then remove the skin and bone. Grind very fine. Heat the butter, add the flour; when it bubbles, add the one-half cup of cream or milk. Stir until smooth. Add the salt, and stir gradually into the well beaten egg yolks. Now stir in the minced fish and, when it is cool, add the beaten whites and fold in the whipped cream. Put into a well greased ring mold which has been dotted with bits of pimiento. Place in a moderate oven [325 degrees Fahrenheit] in a pan of boiling water, and bake for half an hour, or until set. Remove to a serving platter, and in the center place the shrimps, which have been cooked until tender and have been cut up. The shrimps should be hot, too. Cover with hot Hollandaise.

In the event you have mislaid the other Hollandaise recipes, you may like this one.

HOLLANDAISE SAUCE.

2 egg yolks.
1 tablespoon of water.
1 tablespoon of lemon juice
½ teaspoon of salt.
1½ tablespoons of butter.
1½ tbsp. flour.
1 cup of boiling water.
Paprika.

Mix, and stir well the first four ingredients. Put the butter in the top of a double boiler and melt it. Add to it the flour, and when it bubbles, the boiling water. Cook until smooth. When ready to serve, add the hot liquid to the egg mixture. Cook slowly until thick, being careful to avoid curdling. Sprinkle with paprika and serve over the ring.

Since we can't think of a fish dinner without lemon being somewhere about, let's have it in our dessert. And, if you are a lover of fruit soufflés, I have several other ones you may have for the asking.

LEMON SOUFFLE.

4 egg yolks.
Grated rind and juice of 1 lemon.
1 cup of sugar.
4 egg whites.

Beat the yolks until thick and then add, gradually, the sugar and continue the beating. Add the lemon. Beat the whites of the eggs until stiff and dry. Fold them carefully into the first mixture. Turn into a buttered pudding dish, and bake, in a hot pan of water, about thirty-five minutes. Serve immediately with whipped cream.

"My dear—you have no idea how shocked I was . . . !"

"YOU know I spent the week-end with Helen. Someone really ought to speak to her. She's such a nice girl, and she's perfectly fastidious about everything else. But she wears her underthings a second day—and everybody perspires a little. Why does she run the risk of offending?"

Personal daintiness! The subject of whispered comment, veiled hints. Lose it and you lose all chance of social acceptance.

Fresh lingerie each day is absolutely essential to daintiness. All day long underthings absorb perspiration. A daily change is even more important than a daily bath. And it's so easy to wear fresh lingerie every day. For Lux removes every trace of perspiration, yet protects colors and fabrics. And it takes four minutes or less. Wash underthings and stockings in Lux diamonds, after each wearing.

Underthings absorb perspiration. Avoid offending . . .

Protect daintiness this 4-minute way

1 Wash this 4-minute way:
1 tablespoon of Lux diamonds does 1 day's undies. Dip up and down, rinse twice, squeeze in bath towel, shake out. Then they're fresh and sweet!

2 Wash after each wearing, for perspiration acids left in silk fade colors and rot threads. With Lux it takes only a few minutes—less time than it takes to wash your face and hands.

3 Never rub dainty lingerie with cake soap. Rubbing tends to streak colors and weaken fabrics. Tests show Lux removes perspiration acids completely—yet leaves colors sparkling, like new. Anything safe in water alone is just as safe in Lux.

Your Hands—they deserve gentle care, too. Use Lux in the dishpan . . . costs little . . . keeps hands white and smooth . . .

British Author Gives Novelty to Victim of Art

'Mr. Darby' Enjoys Some Strange Paintings.

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

"Mr. Darby," by Martin Armstrong [Harcourt Brace]. Published today.

MARTIN ARMSTRONG, who is one of the group of younger English writers whose works have been collectors' items more often than they have been best sellers in America, has done a novel, gay, light hearted, inconsequential, except for its power to amuse, which ought to do a bit toward changing his status with the American reading public and shove him up the ladder of popularity.

MARTIN ARMSTRONG.

"Mr. Darby" is no masterpiece of wit. It will not stick a knife between your funny bones and turn the blade in the wound. But it has many of the most dashing ingredients of popular tales juggled around in an unusual and amusing manner. There is, first of all, Mr. Darby, aged fifty, clerk in an architect's office, with a wife who is too good and from whom he passionately longs to escape, not into any emotional adventuring, but onto the seven seas, or rather into the "jungle," although the poor soul hasn't an idea where on the face of the map the special jungle that he yearns to explore is located.

He is vastly bewildered when he finds that "the jungle" isn't one spot on one pink washed section of the map, but many spots on many pink and green and yellow washed sections. His great gesture of freedom consists in buying himself three sandwiches and two glasses of Bass' unbeknownst to the missus.

Into that humdrum and very proper life is thrust romance in the form of a legacy. Not a tidy little sum which might enable him to take his simple journey, but a million pounds. A rich uncle in Australia whose only hint of wealth had been an annual check for a hundred pounds at Christmas, dies and leaves his entire estate to Mr. Darby. Sarah, Mrs. Darby, looks upon the money as a curse, since the first thing that her husband plans on doing with it is to leave her—to explore a jungle somewhere.

Upon more careful investigation the little man learns more about the flora and the fauna of jungles—and finds the flora not so enchanting as he had imagined and the fauna just plain terrifying, so he decides to do his exploring in the city of London, which is a few hours away from his home town, and whose jungles he never had penetrated to any extent. Sarah reluctantly accompanies him to the city, gets completely bored with idleness in a couple of weeks and goes home, leaving Mr. Darby with a fortune and nothing to spend it on in London. He soon becomes a connoisseur of paintings, gathers together an amazing collection of copies and forgeries and Medici prints into a vast room in a great house which he has taken, has a sign The Picture Gallery painted above the door, and very grandly offers the Darby collection to the National gallery.

When an expert comes to look over the gift and tells him that he hasn't one single authentic canvas Mr. Darby puts his case before the nation through the public prints. He writes the papers that a great collection of English paintings has been refused by the National gallery which is housing vast collections of foreign paintings and something ought to be done about such unpatriotic management of a national institution. Oddly enough none of the fifteen papers to which he sent his violent denunciation of the management of the national gallery printed the letter, and Mr. Darby, disgusted with London, disgusted with England, determines to go to a land where there is honesty and decency. He will take himself to Australia and in person offer that country the great Darby collection [bought in second hand shops in the suburbs for around five pounds each]. On his journey to Australia adventures of the most incredible kind overtake Mr. Darby. To disclose them would be to rip off the cellophane from a tightly sealed package. His adventures are everything that his most secret moments of adventure dreaming ever gave him, and far, far more.

They prove almost unendurable. They are to the reader a farce of the most standard pattern.

Mr. Darby is one of the lineal descendants of Mrs. Malaprop. He has a passion for using long words and in proportion to their length, usually, is their misuse. He calls the story of his drowning [about which you will read, but of which I shall never tell you] a "typological inexactitude," and an unexpected meeting, "providentious." But his errors are subtle enough to be really funny rather than mere standard malapropisms.

Good morning!

Some day one of these statisticians is going to get busy and discover just this—that Marie Dressler has more people crazy about her than any other screen player, male OR female—in the United States—and that includes Greta Garbo.

"When I THINK——" a certain up and coming young newspaper man mooned to me the other day—— "of how that old darling, who'd been down and out and pounding the streets of New York for a job, up and took the honors away from Greta Garbo in 'Anna Christie,' I want to get right down and roll over and wave my paws in the air!"

Well, what the lady did in "Anna Christie" she'd been consistently doing ever since. SO consistently that they call her the "Thief of Hollywood" out in the movie colony. When she's in a supporting cast, practically all a picture has or needs is that support—so far as audiences are concerned.

Recognizing all this, her producers now star Miss Dressler in "Emma"—a film which provides her with everything. Story, it has. And it's all broken out with heart interest of so contagious a nature that from start to finish it has the observers laughing, crying, clapping, yes, and GROWLING—when Emma's done wrong, by as, yes indeed she IS, by children whom she's loved and slaved for!

Emma is housekeeper for the Smiths, and, when the picture opens, you see her rushing around to get hot water, for a new baby is about to arrive in the upstairs chamber, and the mother is very low. Emma must not only attend the birth, but minister to the excited children and their father, downstairs.

Mrs. Smith dies and the baby boy who has cost her life becomes the apple of Emma's eye. She gives the three others, Gypsy, Isabel and Bill, and their gentle inventor father—whose contraptions at last make him a millionaire—the tenderest and most conscientious care. But Ronny, into whose body she brought breath, by the good, old fashioned expedient of a rousing slap on his little rear anatomy, is her darling. And as Ronny grows up he loves the faithful soul even as she loves him.

Great is the temptation to tell you the rest of the story, but that musn't be done. Just go over to McVickers' and get one of the greatest screen treats of your life.

Miss Dressler sloughs her way ruthlessly through your emotions. She jerks the old heartstrings and you cry, unashamed. She pulls a fast one and you could die for laughing. Jean Hersholt gives a sympathetic portrayal of Smith. Richard Cromwell is delightful as gay, lovable aviation crazy Ronny. Purnell Pratt is his minor rôle of family lawyer gives an outstanding performance. Other parts have been entrusted to competent hands.

Direction, I would say, is perfect, save for one place in the first reel, where, to all appearances, Ronny is born with his didy on.

Wal, wal, wal, wal, wal, WAL . . .!

That's the sort of movie "Way Back Home" is. But don't underrate its bucolic charms, for they get you where you live and send you away from the theater feeling younger and friendlier and more relaxed than you've felt in many a long day.

Seth Parker, Ma Parker and all the Jonesport neighbors, whom you've heard over the radio, go about the business, pleasures and maneuvering of their lives in simple homespun fashion that brings smiles to your lips, memories to your mind and, occasionally great big honest tears to your eyes. [If you're a sentimental soul like I am.]

The rural scenery and homely settings are piercingly reminiscent of vacations spent, long ago at grandma's—where the hay mow was always fragrant and the ginger snap jar never empty. The barn dance, the taffy pull ending with its old fashioned "sing" that remind you of simpler ways and simpler days, are there too, and HOW you laugh when Seth reads from the Jonesport newspaper the item about the cow calling contest!

It seems when Asa called, HIS cow left the woods a mile away to come to him; but Cephus' voice was so appealing that when HIS cow appeared it was accompanied by twelve rabbits, three porcupines and a couple of skunks . . .!

Then, you feel with Miss Lizzy when she decides to give the party she's been "just aching to have ever since the Jersey cow started giving such good whipped cream."

"Way Back Home" boasts a wholesomely interesting yarn cleanly knit together with believable incident. There runs through it the thread of a sad little romance between the daughter of the town bully and the son of the village "Madalin" as she is called by small boys parroting their elders. Too, Seth and Ma have THEIR troubles, keeping their small, beloved foster son from the disreputable father who insists on claiming him.

Don't pass up "Way Back Home." You really have no idea how much you're going to enjoy it!

See you tomorrow.

THE OPERA

"LOHENGRIN."

Opera in three acts by Wagner. Presented by the Civic Opera company Jan. 13, 1932. Egon Pollak, conductor.

The Cast.

King Henry.....Alexander Kipnis
Lohengrin.....René Maison
Elsa of Brabant.....Lotte Lehmann
Telramund.....Hans Hermann Nissen
Ortrud.....Maria Olszewska
The King's Herald.....Eduard Habich

BY EDWARD MOORE.

THOUGH late in the season, Mme. Lehmann is finally back in the fold of the Civic Opera company, and so "Lohengrin" served as her greeting to the public.

A lovely voice hers, one of the kind that not only delights by its quality, but serves to characterize and describe the rôle that she is singing. Her opening solo in the first act told exactly the sort of person that Elsa was, sweet, lovely, pure of heart, unsuspicious. The trial by battle following was operatically necessary, but the actual proof of her innocence was made by herself in her singing.

This is perhaps a roundabout way of saying that Mme. Lehmann is quite on an artistic level with the rest of that fine German cast which has been delighting Chicago audiences last season and this. It is a notable part of the organization. It shows how dignity and drama can go hand in hand. It is opera acted in the grand manner and generally if not invariably sung the same way—there was a slightly painful moment of misplaced pitch toward the end of the first act last night.

But it was worthwhile to see and hear Mme. Lehmann and Mr. Maison in their musical relations toward each other and toward Wagner. Mme. Olszewska is a marvel of an Ortrud, with all the evil of the world packed into her lovely voice. And once in awhile one finds a Telramund who can sing what Wagner wrote for him. Last night Mr. Nissen's performance was one of the times. Also Mr. Kipnis' King Henry and Mr. Habich's herald were expert delineations.

Duluth Woman Tells of Lipton as Her Suitor

Rejected Him and Wed Scotch Engineer.

Duluth, Minn., Jan. 13.—(AP)—A 67 year old grandmother who has lived in Duluth 35 years today admitted she was described by the late Sir Thomas Lipton, noted British sportsman, as the only woman he loved.

At the home of her daughter, Mrs. Catherine Stewart, she broke her long years of silence and revealed her identity as the little girl to whom Sir Thomas proposed when he was a pennyless lad in Glasgow. Sir Thomas probably was the world's most famous bachelor and Mrs. Stewart is said to be the reason he remained unmarried.

Sir Thomas was quoted as saying it was because his first love married another man that he chose bachelorhood.

Mrs. Stewart, a shy, gray haired little woman, in relating her courtship by Lipton years ago, wondered whether she had done right in disclosing the secret. When Mrs. Stewart was Catherine McLeod back in a small village near Glasgow she knew "Tommy" Lipton when he ran his modest business.

"Then he did not have many shillings to spare," Mrs. Stewart said. "He had a horse and a buggy and a wagonette, and I used to think sometimes that he deprived himself of other things to support his horse and carriages.

"I first met him at a party and a few days later he asked me to go riding with him. Tommy was a handsome boy then—about 23 years old—with dark eyes and black hair. On one of his rides he gave me a picture of himself. I still have it.

"When he proposed to me, I talked it over with my parents. They advised me, because I was so young and because Tommy was my first real sweetheart, to await a while.

"Not long after that, he moved with his mother to England and then to India. I heard from friends that he had said he would never marry any one if he could not marry me."

After Lipton had left Scotland, Robert Stewart won Catherine McLeod. They came to Duluth when their first child was 5 years old. Stewart, who was an engineer at a Duluth hotel, died about 15 years ago.

Public Will Dance at Washington Fetes, Help Hungry Pupils

On Monday night, Feb. 22, George Washington's bicentennial birthday anniversary, thousands of Chicago's dance loving people will attend a benefit ball at the Aragon and Trianon ballrooms for THE TRIBUNE'S Hungry School Children's fund.

Wayne King and his orchestra will be at the north side Aragon, and the Bernie Cummins band will be playing at that time in the south side ballroom. Plans are being laid to make the dances the best of the George Washington day bicentennial celebrations, with stage stars from loop shows, and a tableau on the life of George and Martha Washington by drama classes from Chicago High schools, as highlights of the entertainment.

Large groups from commerical and industrial organizations are making preparations to attend the benefit and derive an evening's fun for the price of $1. Tickets will go on sale later at THE TRIBUNE Public Service offices, the lobby of Tribune tower, and the box offices of the two ballrooms. The Four Hundred clubs of both ballrooms will assist in the sale of the tickets.

A total of $22.60, by far the smallest single day's contributions, arrived yesterday. The fact that $3,000 is needed weekly to finance lunches for needy children in the public schools shows how necessary it is to enlarge the fund. Yesterday's gifts were:

$5.00—Mrs. K. Nibecker, the Thursday club.
$3.50—Mrs. Archie Shimberg.
$2.50—Lucy M. Samuel.
$2.00—P. W. V., 2244 Arthur avenue.
$1.00—Mrs. W. Abel, Allan A. Gilbert, Anonymous, Mrs. D. H. Wood.
50c—Frank H. Parker.
10c—Anonymous.

Total.....$ 22.60
Previously acknowledged.....31,666.09
Grand total.....$31,688.69

Gifts will be welcomed from TRIBUNE readers. They should be sent to the cashier of THE TRIBUNE, Tribune Tower.

THE STAGE

"GRAND HOTEL" has begun the last month of its run at the Grand Opera House. According to present plans, it will leave Chicago and go on tour Feb. 6. The management announces that the high cost of operating this play, with its eighteen scene changes, requires capacity business at every performance; that the advance ticket sale seems to indicate an approaching dip below capacity, and that it has decided, therefore, to seek fresh fields and pastures new after Feb. 6. The run here will register nine weeks—a disappointing total.

Jacob Ben-Ami's engagement at the Adelphi theater in "Samson and Delilah," which opens next Sunday night, is limited to two weeks. The management announces that it has booked a revival of Eugene O'Neill's "All God's Chillun Got Wings" to follow. This company is now playing in Detroit, with Fitzhugh Woodford, a Negro actor, in the rôle of Jim Crowe, and with Miss Lynn Eswood as the white heroine.

Three premieres will brighten up the Chicago play bills next week—Jacob Ben-Ami at the Adelphi, the "Ziegfeld Follies" at the Illinois, and "As Husbands Go" at the Blackstone. . . . Six new shows are scheduled for Broadway: Pauline Lord in "Distant Drums," Queenie Smith in "The Little Racketeer," Billy Bryant's troupe in "Ten Nights in a Barroom," "Whistling in the Dark," "Mr. Papavert," and "The Marriage at Cana." The latter has an all-Negro cast.

"Brief Moment," with Francine Larrimore as its star, will end its New York engagement next Saturday night, and will not go on tour. In this comedy by S. N. Behrman, Alexander Woollcott, the dramatic critic, appears in the rôle of a worldly wisecracker.

"The Inspector General," a classic of Russian comedy, will be staged at the People's playhouse by the Chicago Tributary Theater company next Saturday and Sunday nights. . . . "The Man in the Iron Collar," a play by Lilah Older Bell, will be given in Kimball hall Saturday night as a benefit for THE TRIBUNE'S Fund for Hungry School Children. C. C.

A. A. Noyes, California, to Get Chemistry Medal

Boston, Mass., Jan. 13.—(AP)—Prof. William P. Ryan, chairman of the northeastern section of the American Chemical society announced today that the Richards gold medal for conspicuous achievement in that science had been awarded to Prof. Arthur A. Noyes, director of the Gates Chemical laboratory of the California Institute of Technology in Pasadena. It will be presented next May. Prof. Noyes is a graduate of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology and got his Ph. D. at Leipzig. He is an expert on qualitative analysis and physical chemistry.

U. of C.'s Expert Quizzers Work with Students

Take Courses as Basis for Examinations.

Some idea of the new kind of examinations which will be given University of Chicago students under its new plan of education was given yesterday. There also was the announcement that five technical experts on examinations have been attending all sessions of the freshman class and participating in the courses.

These experts, who have been getting the student viewpoint, will collaborate with the faculty in framing the examination questions, the form of which constitutes an important phase of the new plan. Because the university has instituted such revolutionary changes in its educational program, considerable revision of the methods of examining has been necessary, according to an announcement by Prof. Louis L. Thurstone, its chief examiner.

Sample sets of questions will be published within three months, available to all students. The questions will emphasize thinking ability, minimize mere faculty information, Dr. Thurstone said, and mostly will call for short answers.

The idea of an examining group distinct from the instructors is partly based on the idea students often merely fed back to the instructors as much of the lectures as they could memorize. It is hoped to break down the old antagonism between student and instructor in the battle for grades, fostering instead mutual effort, according to Dr. Thurstone.

The board of examinations includes representatives of all the university divisions, the two professional schools which have adopted the comprehensive examination idea, and three presidential appointees.

Horatio Alger Book, First Edition, Sells at $7.50 Autographed

New York, Jan. 13.—(AP)—Horatio Alger Jr., who wrote a hundred books, all on the same theme—the triumph of virtue—no doubt would be surprised, were he on earth today to celebrate his 100th birthday anniversary, to read this little note about one of his books:

"'Ben the Luggage Boy; or Among the Wharves,' by Horatio Alger Jr. Boston, 1870. Original binding slightly rubbed. With an extremely interesting three page autographed letter, signed, inserted. $7.50."

This notice appeared the other day in the catalog of a dealer in rare books and first editions, indicating that the man who has charmed millions of youthful readers for sixty years or more has arrived at collecting interest.

First Woman as U. S. Senator Urges Economy

Mrs. Caraway Also Thanks Arkansas Voters.

[Copyright: 1932: By the Associated Press.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 13.—(AP)—The women of America were urged today by Senator Hattie W. Caraway to "keep down expenses and look ahead to the future" to help overcome economic troubles.

Smiling happily over the vote in Arkansas, her first act today as the first woman senator to be duly elected was to thank them. She expressed her deepest gratitude, especially to her fellow citizens of Jonesboro, where she lives, and dedicated to them and her country all her efforts. She was elected to serve out the unexpired term of her late husband, Thaddeus H. Caraway, to whose place she was appointed by Gov. Parnell pending the special election held yesterday.

Disagreement with those who urged lavish spending came from Mrs. Caraway today in answer to this question in an interview:

"What can women do to help in economic recovery?"

"I think the best thing is to keep down expenses and everybody try to get along and look to the future.

"It does not strike me that the thing to do is to go out and spend on all sides. In the first place, if you don't have it to spend you can't spend it. I can't see any benefits to be derived from trying to spend what you don't have."

She turned toward economic bills passed upon by the house or senate or pending before them, hoping good would result.

"Nobody can tell what effect these bills will have," she said, "but we can hope for the best."

Her Democratic feeling came to the fore as she smilingly remarked in this connection:

"Frankly what this country needs is a change in administration." Shyly reticent when asked for her observation on the senate, in which she is to serve now until March 4, 1933, Mrs. Caraway explained that as a new member she hardly felt any sort of comment along that line would be justified.

"I find the senate very, very interesting, however, and the viewpoint from the inside is so much different from that of an outsider that it is difficult to put it into words."

As to speeches, Mrs. Caraway had little to say. She explained she never had made one, "but I have done a lot of listening."

Finally she said:

"You will pardon me I hope, but there goes the quorum call and I must be in there to report." She started toward her desk in the senate.

Rosa Raisa Sings Old Opera at Mohair Show

Rosa Raisa, soprano of the Chicago Civic Opera company, was a guest of the Mohair institute at the American Furniture mart yesterday. She serenaded buyers with airs from Monteverde's "Orfeo," the first grand opera published and the third opera written, accompanied by a lute, which was used in a performance of the opera in Milan in 1621. The lute played by Madame Raisa is a part of the institute's exhibit in a scene from the court of King Charles II. of England. After her appearance, Madame Raisa announced that she will celebrate the 325th anniversary of "Orfeo" at a scholarship benefit concert on Jan. 27 at Orchestra hall.

MICHIGAN CO-ED TEAM WINS DEBATE; AGREES WITH MEN

Ann Arbor, Mich., Jan. 13.—(AP)—Male students at the University of Michigan today charged that "typically feminine methods" were used by women students who last night admitted everything their opponents said was true and still won a debate on the question of whether college students spend too much time on social pursuits.

The men students led off with the charge that co-eds are "husband hunters," and the women serenely agreed. The men then insisted women students were responsible for all the college social activity. The women agreed solemnly, and said that, despite such activity, co-eds make higher grades than men.

"It is true," said the women, "that our chief purpose at the university is to obtain husbands. But we are not hunters. We are fishermen. We bait our hooks for suckers, and the fishing is good."

The men marched out of the hall charging there were "too many women among the judges."

Movie Gossip as It Is Heard in Hollywood

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.

Hollywood, Cal., Jan. 13.—Some of the toughest business bargaining Warner Brothers has done recently has been with the universities. On the action talkies covering the Tulane-Southern California football game the universities revised upward the proffered split of 12½ per cent of net profits which the film men first offered until the final agreement was one-third of total net to Tulane, one-third to Southern California, and the studio gets the final third.

They knew what day Zasu Pitts' birthday fell on, but not how old she was, so they baked a 40 pound ice cream cake and served it with only 24 candles on the set at Roach studio where Zasu and Thelma Todd are co-featured in a comedy called "Red Noses." It shows them as two girls with the grippe who go to a health institute and give the sniffles to the sanitarium manager and everybody else. At the height of the party Miss Pitts said she was no longer officially recognizing birthdays because it made folks inquisitive about ages.

Doris Kenyon, actress and widow of Milton Sills, made her debut as a concert singer at Philharmonic auditorium in downtown Los Angeles last night giving a program of songs and folk dances. Box holders included Prof. and Mrs. Millikan, Dr. and Mrs. Edwin Hubbell [he's a University of Chicago astronomer], Theda Bara and her husband, Charlie Brabin, film director; Conrad Nagel, George Arliss and Ruth Chatterton.

The big woe in Constance Bennett's life just at present is that the gateman at Radio Pictures studio insists on her showing her studio pass. She told a studio official that the next time a gateman refused her admission for her car just because she had forgotten to bring her pass with her she would not go into the studio herself. If this quarrel goes any further it ought to get good; Constance has a contract netting her more than $150,000 a year to appear when called and do her acting as directed inside the Radio lot.

Most girls would weigh that amount of money very heavily against the pique of being asked to show an automobile pass.

Lupe Velez suffered a temporary breakdown on the set at Columbia studio last Monday. Too much work and excitement. Doctor says she's all right now.

Ankles Are in View Once More, So Let 'Em Be Slender, Girls!

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

If you've been reading your fashion magazines lately you, too, must note the uptrend of the hemline. Ankle length frocks for evening and quite considerably shorter skirts for daytime and afternoon wear are now seen. Which reminds us we've nether extremities again.

The ankle length frock is hard to wear unless the legs take a neat turn at this point of skirt ending. The fourteen inch skirt length is kinder. It establishes a bit more of the distance idea that is supposed to lend enchantment. If you hug the plumpish ankle with a skirt hem the thickness seems still more thick. Also, because you do wear your spike heeled pumps with this sort of frock, the ankle thickens just a little more in consequence.

It's curious how often an ankle that will look lean enough with the street shoe heel will bulge with the pressure of a tall, spike one. Too, women continue buying shoes for dressy evening wear that either fit very, very snugly or are, perhaps, a half size smaller than the day she size. Anyway, the foot hasn't quite enough room to slide forward. So it rears back in its indignation and goes bloat-o, so to speak.

All of which only serves to introduce the fact that ankles are coming out of their hiding, and that means they've got to be whipped into shape again. Here's something of real help. I know a woman who has been having trouble with her arches. She's been doing an exercise recommended by her orthopedic adviser. She's been doing it for six months, and the great joy of its accomplishment to her is that it took the fat bulges right off her ankle. She could do it anywhere, too, and did it many times a day.

It's simply crossing one leg over the other at the knee and working each foot in turn in a circle, stretching forward and down as you start the circle.

Social Usage Often Exacts Too Much Control from Child

By GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

"I used a lot of self-control tonight, mother," said a young daughter of 12 to her mother one evening as she was getting ready for bed. "The way Aunt Abby talked to me made me so mad! I just wanted to answer her back. But I knew you wouldn't like it. And when I interrupted you once, mother, and she sat on me—Gee! but I felt like saying something! But she could interrupt everybody else, and me, too, whenever we talked." And on she stormed, letting off steam.

Did it ever occur to you that we expect more of children than we do of grownups? Especially in their relations with their elders?

They musn't be frank because it's rude. They mustn't say honestly to a grown person what they'd say to another child because it would sound "fresh." They have to stand for casual corrections from what you might call unauthorized sources.

A few days ago I came across this in a story I was reading. A child had been asked for her opinion, and before answering she said: "But may we really say what we think—just as if we were not children?" On being told she might she couldn't quite believe it. She asked again, "But I mean—it won't be counted as bad manners, or hurting any one's feelings, or being impudent to grown people?"

Now, doesn't that paint a pretty true picture of how much we expect of children in their relations with grownups? In a way it isn't fair play. They're not allowed to hit back. Their hands are tied by the canons of good usage for children, no matter how much their elders themselves may disregard those canons. They must be polite and respectful. An adult may say almost anything to a child, but the child musn't answer back. Why? Because respect must be accorded to age.

That superior age should be the very reason for the possessor of it to show judgment and consideration. The child should not be the only one to handle the situation—the only one to have his self-control put to the test—yet he often is. Do a little impartial observing and see if it isn't so.

Official Contract

By Charles True Adams.

(International bridge authority; author of "Official Contract at Sight.")

Making little ones out of big ones brings to mind rather unpleasant thoughts. To most it would certainly suggest an occupation far more urgent than the manipulation of cards at the bridge table. The skilled bridge player, as a lady kibitzer once remarked while watching a tournament game, often finds it possible "to make such great big tricks out of such little bits of cards."

In yesterday's play-a-problem a little slam was bid and made with an extra trick for good measure. It was the big cards that made this bid possible, but it was the little cards that brought home the bacon. This was the hand:

NORTH
♥—A,Q,J,5,4
♦—8,3,2

WEST
♠—J,10,9,7,4
♥—10,9,3,2
♦—10
♣—10,7,6

EAST
♠—K,8,6,5
♥—K,8,6
♦—K,6,5,4

SOUTH (Dealer)
♠—A,3,2
♥—7
♣—A,K,J,4

South opened with a game invitational bid of two diamonds. West passed. North took out with two hearts. East passed. South, being unable to support the hearts, now showed his second suit with a bid of three clubs. Again West passed and North jumped to five clubs. After East passed, South bid six clubs, which ended the bidding. The bidding, it will be noted, was exact and accurate, but showed no particular brilliance, for none was necessary. It was neat but not gaudy.

West opened the ♠ J, dummy's Q came up, East played the K, South took the trick with the A. South now led the ♠ 2, which dummy trumped with the ♣ 2 and returned the ♦ 2, which declarer took with the J. It should be noted that South was very careful not to lead the ♦ 8 from his dummy, and also that West's 10 dropped on this trick. South now got rid of his last spade, the 3, by leading it and trumping in the dummy with the ♣ 3. Dummy now led the ♣ Q, followed by the ♣ 5, which South took with the J. South then led the ♣ A, clearing the trump suit. The ♥ 7 was led to the eighth trick and was taken by dummy's A. Dummy then led the ♦ 8, East played the 5, and South the 7, West discarding the ♠ 9. Dummy, still in the lead, now led the ♦ 3, East played the 6, and South took with the Q. South now led the ♦ A, dropping East's K, and followed with the now good ♦ 9. For the thirteenth trick South cashed in the K of trumps for his little slam and an extra trick.

South not only took all the tricks but he accomplished this feat without taking a heart finesse. When the ♦ 10 dropped on the third trick, he saw that seven-odd w.s possible because West was plainly marked as out of diamonds, which meant, of course, that East now held the K-6-5. Had South led the ♦ 8 from dummy at this point instead of the ♦ 2, the seven-odd would not have been possible.

While the average player would expect to remember all the honor cards of all four suits, he graduates immediately from that average class the moment he is able to keep all the cards from the lowly deuce to the ace in mind.

PLAY-A-PROBLEM: SOLITAIRE OR PARTNERS

Play this hand tonight at your bridge game. Keep a record of the bid and play in the spaces provided. Numbers in the bidding squares are for successive rounds. Check your results with tomorrow's answer.

To play "Solitaire": Record the bids you think each hand would make in the bidding squares. After the final declaration has been made start the play, leading from the hand at declarer's left. As you play each card cross it off of the diagram and record it in the proper square, as S. 3, H. K, etc. In the last column indicate the hand which won the round and lead from that hand on the next round.

Send your bridge problems to Charles True Adams, The Chicago Tribune; inclose stamped, addressed envelope.

HOW OLD?

He doesn't look a day over fifty.

And feels like forty.

At the age of 62.

That's the happy state of health and pep a man enjoys when he gives his vital organs a little stimulant!

When your system is stagnant and you feel sluggish, headachy, half-alive—don't waste money on "tonics" or "regulators" or similar patent medicines. Stimulate the liver and bowels. Use a famous physician's prescription every drug store keeps. Just ask them for Dr. Caldwell's syrup pepsin.

This appetizing syrup is made from fresh laxative herbs, active senna, and pure pepsin. One dose will clear up almost any case of headache, biliousness, or constipation. But if you want to keep in shape, feel fit the year 'round, take a spoonful of Dr. Caldwell's syrup pepsin every few days. You'll eat better, sleep better and feel better in every way. You will never need to take another laxative.

Give the children a little of this delicious syrup two or three times a week. This gentle, natural stimulant makes them eat and keeps the bowels from clogging. And saves them from so many sick spells and colds.

Have a sound stomach, active liver and strong bowel muscles that expel every bit of waste and poison every day! Just keep a bottle of Dr. Caldwell's syrup pepsin on hand; take a stimulating spoonful every now and then. See if you don't feel new vigor in every way. Remember, it is the tested prescription of a physician—and it isn't expensive.

Indulging in Futile WhatMightHaveBeen Is Big Waste of Time

BY DORIS BLAKE.

The most badly wasted hours in the world are those spent indulging in what-might-have-beens. Considerable of this time profligacy is being indulged in at the moment because of the depression. The might-have-beens and the might-have-dones with that money you had a couple of years ago are not going to get you a step ahead now it is gone. It is on what you are building today that your future happiness is going to rest.

In material things this might-have-been-ing is bad enough, but in affairs of the heart it is worse than useless.

It destroys one's charm for another fling at love. As with "Beulah."

"Beulah" was in love with a young man for a number of years. "Beulah" still boasts of her old-fashioned prejudices that prevented her from giving the man the needed encouragement. Some other girl not so incumbered walked off with him and didn't stop until she got him right up to the altar.

Beulah "feels" the man still cares for her. She knows he is not happy. She can not forget him, though a couple of other men are willing to help her try. It wouldn't be fair to marry either of them, she argues, feeling as she does about No. 1.

Beulah is one of those girls who refuses to face realities. She may go on to her grave mourning the lost love, though there arise around him twelve healthy, stalwart sons and daughters who have no reason to suspect any regret on his part.

Women like to feel that because they have been denied the love they craved the man must be a suffering party also. He rarely ever is, love being in man's life the well known thing apart.

EASTER HATS 1932 WILL BE OF STRAW, NEW YORK'S WORD

New York, Jan. 13.—(AP)—Rain or shine, this year's Easter bonnet will be of rough straw, shaped high in the back and will no doubt have a brim in front.

While berets and snug turbans of felts and other soft fabrics are still high fashion, straw, fashioned into swagger shapes, will lead for spring.

Models will be varied. Crowns generally will be round and shallow, but the hat itself will have a built up effect in the back.

One new model of rough navy blue straw has a brim wider in the back and turned abruptly upward. A fold in the crown and the brim in front gives a pushed down effect over one eye. Another of bright red rough straw has virtually no brim in front but develops one rising upwards on the sides to the back. The front crown is trimmed wtih red grosgrain ruching.

In the felts is a coronet shaped affair trimmed with glazed straw. Picot straw and a bow of felt trims another, a beret style. Brown cire kid is used for a small hat with a rolled brim. It is ornamented with a shining metal buckle.

"My Old Kentucky Home" Author's Memory Honored

Pittsburgh, Pa., Jan. 13.—(AP)—The melodies of Stephen C. Foster echoed along the river fronts of Foster's boyhood home today. From church belfries, the throats of schoolchildren, and theater organs rolled the strains of "Old Black Joe," "My Old Kentucky Home," and others of his compositions. The occasion was the 68th anniversary of Foster's death in New York in 1864. He gained neither fame nor fortune. Now the old Foster home here is maintained as a show place.

Marie Smith, H. Gillette Are Engaged

SUCH a delightful surprise the friends of Miss Marie Clarke Smith had yesterday when they went to tea at the residence of her mother, Mrs. Kinney Smith of 10 East Schiller street, and learned of her engagement to Hyde Gillette! Most of them knew, of course, of young Mr. Gillette's devotion to the attractive Miss Smith but that a formal announcement was forthcoming was not known generally.

Miss Smith, who was introduced to society several years ago, attended Eden Hall near Philadelphia, and Mr. Gillette, who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Fraser Gillette of Pasadena, formerly of Chicago, is a graduate of Princeton, 1928, and of the Harvard school of business administration. He is living in Chicago now. No immediate plans have been made for the wedding. His sisters, Helen and Marietta, made their debuts this winter in Chicago at a tea on Dec. 5, given for them by their father's sister, Mrs. William Shippen Jenks, with whom they have been spending the winter. Mr. and Mrs. Jenks and the Misses Gillette will go to Pasadena early in February.

Alice Bradley Has Some Drawings on Exhibition.

An interesting bit of information came to our ears yesterday about the Herbert E. Bradleys' 16 year old daughter, Alice, who recently returned to Miss Weaver's school at Tarrytown, N. Y., after spending the holidays with her parents. This talented young lady has the distinction of having some of her drawings on exhibition at the Cliff Dwellers and every one who has seen them is entranced with her portrayals in charcoal, color, and pen and ink of the old kings, chiefs, and natives whom she saw on the last African trip she took with her parents. The club hung the exhibition for its annual dinner last Monday and it will stay up this week and next. We also heard that Alice's famous mother, Mary Hastings Bradley, plans to use some of the drawings as illustrations in her new book which now is in the making.

HER BETROTHAL ANNOUNCED

MARIE CLARKE SMITH.

The young Lake Forest matrons who are interested in the camp at Arden Shore are going up to the camp next Tuesday for the annual mending party—wouldn't it be nice if we could have such parties at home?—and after all the mending has been done and the women have had luncheon the boys at the camp will give a performance to entertain their useful guests.

Mrs. Kingman Douglas, chairman of the Lake Forest Arden Shore committee, will be one of those to go; also Mrs. Robert S. Hotz, Mrs. Alexander H. Revell, Mrs. McPherson Holt, Mrs. Edward K. Welles, and Mrs. Maurice Bent, and the entire membership of the Benevolent Society of the Presbyterian church. Mrs. George Richardson, vice president of the Arden Shore board, is in Florida, so her needle will be missed at the mending party.

Dearborn Seminary Alumnae Will Meet on Saturday.

The Dearborn Seminary Alumnae association will hold its 51st annual meeting on Saturday morning preceding a luncheon in the Blackstone ballroom. The program this year will not be so elaborate as that of last January, when the organization met to celebrate the rounding out of half a century of existence, but it will be a very interesting one. The outstanding feature will be an illustrated lecture by Miss Caroline McIlvaine on "New Aspects of Dearborn Seminary." During her years of research work at the Chicago Historical society Miss McIlvaine came upon numerous bits of information and pictures of the old school which have been buried and forgotten for years.

The present officers of the alumnae association include Mrs. Ambrose V. Powell, president; Mrs. Ferdinand W. Peck, Mrs. Hoyne Wells, and Mrs. Richard F. Peyton Jr., vice presidents; Miss Carrie Blair Neely, treasurer, and Mrs. Charles Williamson, who has held the job of secretary for 31 years. Mrs. John McDonald, Mrs. Van Wegenen Alling, and Mrs. Ralph Fassett compose the executive committee.

Invitations to a meeting and tea to be held at the Casino on Monday afternoon are being mailed today to members of the large committee working for the French-American benefit to be given by Chevalier at the Erlanger theater on Jan. 24. There will be numerous luncheons before the performance; among the hostesses will be Mrs. John L. Senior, Mrs. Ralph M. Shaw, Mrs. Maurice Rothschild, Mrs. Waller Borden, Mrs. Byron S. Harvey, Mrs. Arthur Meeker, Mrs. Charles S. Dewey, and Mrs. Augustus Eddy.

The Friday club, whose wish not to be mentioned in the papers we ordinarily respect, is having an open meeting tomorrow morning at which Mme. Claire Dux will sing. We are mentioning it this time because we feel sure the members of this exclusive club would not mind having such a nice party-meeting told about. And for the same reason we mention the Fortnightly's open meeting today when Sir Norman Angell will speak on "Some Illusions of Current Political Thought."

Kinsolving Musical Morning; Mexican Art Discussion

As usual, society will be well represented this morning at the last Kinsolving Musical Morning of the season in the ballroom of the Blackstone. Mario Chamlee, tenor, will give the program. Among those who will have guests are Mrs. Robert McCormick Adams, Mrs. Theodore W. Robinson, Miss Helen V. Drake, Mrs. Frederic W. Upham, and Mrs. Henry Veeder.

Mrs. Nathaniel Owings and Mrs. Walter Paepcke will pour at the tea to follow the lecture on "The Human Background of Mexican Art" by Count Rene d'Harnoncourt on Tuesday at the Petit Gourmet. Proceeds will benefit the Indian Trading Post.

The board of directors of the Art club has cards out for a tea on Tuesday, Jan. 19, from 4 to 6 o'clock, to open three exhibitions—paintings and water colors by Howard A. Patterson, paintings and drawings by Charles Sheeler, and paintings by André Bauchant. In the same envelope came a card announcing that the members of the club were invited to a private view of the recently opened collection of the Oriental Institute of the University of Chicago on Thursday afternoon, Jan. 28, at 3 o'clock.

Mrs. Donald Frost of Boston and her daughter, Miss Mary Frost, are expected to arrive tomorrow for a week's visit with Mrs. Frost's mother, Mrs. Edward L. Ryerson, of 38 Banks street. Miss Frost made her debut last winter in the east.

Mr. and Mrs. George Corson Ellis of Lake Forest will return on Saturday from a week's stay in New York.

MEETING TODAY SEEKS PEACE IN CHECKER STRIKE

Taxicab Drivers' Group, Officials to Confer.

Officials of the Checker Taxicab company will meet this morning with a committee of twelve members representing the 1,700 Checker drivers, in an effort to reach a basis of settlement of the present drivers' strike. The meeting place was kept secret but it will not be in the company offices.

Announcement of the meeting was made last night by Abe Golden, chairman of the strike committee, at a massmeeting in Walsh hall, Noble street and Milwaukee avenue. The drivers, who have organized as the Chicago Taxi Drivers' Protective association, took their cabs off the street Tuesday night in protest against alleged excessive storage and service charges made by the company. The cabs have been placed in private garages.

Police Protect Offices.

Police protection was given the offices and stands of the company yesterday on the request of President Michael Sokoll. The cases of 26 drivers, arrested Tuesday on the complaint of company officials and booked for disorderly conduct, were continued to Jan. 21.

According to the striking drivers they were sold out by the former officers of the company, including Robert McLaughlin, Max Raifman, and Harry Gordon, who, through a stock manipulation, gave control of the association to the Checker Cab Manufacturing company, a Delaware corporation.

Drivers Charge Sellout.

Under a court ruling in a federal suit the Checker Taxicab company was forced to pay $500,000 damages for violation of a contract to buy its cars from the Checker Manufacturing company. The only money in the company treasury, it is said, was $275,000 in escrow representing surety bond money of the drivers. With the aid of Red McLaughlin, a brother of Robert, and later slain by gangsters, it is charged, the drivers were forced to sell their stock to the officials, being paid with their own bond money, representing $150 from each driver. The stock was then turned over to the Checker Manufacturing company to pay the $500,000 judgment.

The chief complaint of the drivers is against storage charges, which are the same now as in better times when the drivers were booking $20 a day in business. The drivers are now, according to their spokesman, booking only $4 to $5 a day. They want double shift storage charges cut from $95.35 to $47.50 and single shift charges cut from $75.35 to $35. They also object to a company ruling forcing them to buy gasoline at the company garages.

Veteran Killed When He Falls Under Train Wheels

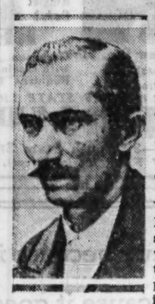
A man believed from war veteran papers found in his pockets to be Julius Joseph Brindzer, 33 years old, of Dwight, Ill., was killed early this morning when he fell beneath the wheels of a North Western freight train at Grand avenue near Wolf road, west of Franklin Park. Morton Grove county highway police believe that he tumbled from the rods while asleep.

POLAND GIVES 10 PILSUDSKI FOES LONG JAIL TERMS

Convicts Ex-Premier, Several Deputies.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WARSAW, Jan. 13.—After a hearing lasting 75 days, Poland's greatest political trial of modern times ended today with prison sentences for ten Polish deputies and former ministers on charges of conspiring to overthrow Dictator Pilsudski's government.



VINCENT VITOS. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

Deputy Vincent Witos, who saved Poland from bolshevism in 1920, who was three times Polish premier, and who in 1930 was leader of the Polish Peasant party, was sentenced to eighteen months' imprisonment at hard labor. Deputies Herman Lieberman and Norbert Barlicki and Ladislas Kiernicki, former minister of interior, were sentenced to thirty months at hard labor.

Five Get Three Years.

Five other deputies, including Dubois, Pagier, and Glolkosz, were each given three years at hard labor, while Deputy Baginski was given two years. One deputy, Adolf Sawicky, was acquitted.

During the trial 330 witnesses were called to testify. There were 62 speeches by 70 leading Polish lawyers for the defense. The sentences created a sensation here because of their severity. The defendants were tried under the old czarist code, still in force.

In view of possible disorders, strong reinforcements of police swarmed about the court and extraordinary guards also patrolled the entire city. Numerous persons were injured and several were arrested in a sharp clash with police outside the court after the verdict was announced. The crowd, demonstrating in favor of the defendants, shouted, "Down with the dictatorship!"

It is regarded as significant that the sentences were pronounced on Jan. 13 at the 13th hour of the day. "Thirteen" is Marshall Pilsudski's favorite number.

Charge Prison Hardships.

The defendants have been confined in the military prison at Brest-Litovsk since their arrest more than 16 months ago. Their supporters charged they were forced to endure severe hardships. Seven of the defendants were elected as members of parliament while in prison.

The defendants were indicted on the following charges:

Organizing a plot to overthrow the Pilsudski government between 1928 and 1930; inciting the public to disobey the government and to withhold taxes; forming revolutionary centers and arming peasants and workmen, creation of a central revolutionary organization which called a convention and demanded President Moscicki's resignation, and mobilization of the masses for a march on Warsaw.

WEALTHY LAWYER STARTS NEW SUIT TO END MARRIAGE

In an amended bill for annulment filed in the Circuit court yesterday, Parke E. Simmons, 73 years old, wealthy retired lawyer and art collector residing in Evanston, charged that the ruse through which he alleges he was tricked into marriage by Mrs. Mary de Diemar Wright Simmons, 53 years old, had been used by her on other men.

He also renewed charges that Mrs. Simmons' statements which he declares led him to the belief that he was about to become a father were false and made with the purpose of entrapping him.

The suit is the third in which the marital affairs of Mr. and Mrs. Simmons have been made public. Last July Simmons filed his original bill for annulment which recently was held invalid by Judge Daniel P. Trude. Later Mrs. Simmons filed a separate maintenance action which still is pending.

The new bill recited the incidents of Simmons' relationship with his wife immediately before their marriage. He charged that the whole affair was planned by her in an effort to force him into marriage.

He declared that not until he had returned to Chicago after their honeymoon in Los Angeles did he become aware that his wife's assertions of her pregnancy were a hoax. The bill also alleged that Mrs. Simmons has a "dangerous and violent" temper, and asserted that his life would be endangered by living with her.

MAGNATES USE SQUEEZE PLAY ON SALARIES

Ball Players Call It Double Steal.

Vergez Gets Raise

ALAMEDA, Cal., Jan. 13.—(AP)—Baseball's tide of player salary slashes has left Johnny Vergez, New York Giants' third baseman, high and dry—and satisfied. The rookie, who went up from the Oakland club of the Coast league last year to become a star in one season, will receive a substantial raise in pay for the 1932 season. Vergez wasn't quite satisied with his contract and sent it back. Charles Stoneham, president of the Giants, telephoned him from New York. Johnny accepted terms and will sign the new contract when it arrives.

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Jan. 13.—The baseball magnates, proprietors of the national game, are not showing much of that fighting, never say die spirit of which they demand so much from their athletes when they conspire to hammer down the salaries and the morale of their players by the use of the boycott as they are doing now.

The conspiracy is an old one, of course, having been written into the rules of the industry and the players' standard form of contract many years ago. But hitherto the conspiracy has been invoked only in individual cases. This year it is being used against the whole body of the players with the conspicuous exceptions of a few individuals who were seriously underpaid last year and whose pay is still short of their turnstile power.

Stoneham Makes Threat.

There has been no more insolent announcement by any employer than the one from Charles M. Stoneham, the owner of the New York Giants, that if his first baseman, Bill Terry, does not accept the salary which he, Mr. Stoneham, offers him, he, Mr. Stoneham, will drive Terry out of baseball, which is Terry's profession. It would be quite all right of Mr. Stoneham to refuse to reëmploy Terry owing to a disagreement on the terms of hire, except for the fact that under the baseball conspiracy Terry cannot obtain a job with any other firm.

This is the industry which has the effrontery to represent itself from time to time as the great, characteristic American sport.

I have visited the automobile show in New York and have noted that the manufacturers of passenger cars, far from curtailing the customers' dollar's worth this year, have decided to woo him with a bigger dollar's worth than ever. There have never been so many comforts and luxuries in the automobiles as there are this year.

This improvement cost them large sums of money and yet there was one car on the second gallery, typical of the enlarged dollar's worth, in which all the expensive new improvements such as shatter proof glass and painless gear shift have been incorporated at a price of about 25 per cent below the price of the same brand in 1928.

Admission Remains Same.

The baseball magnates have not reduced their rates of admission by so much as a dime except to offer synthetic double headers which generally consist of one fairly good ball game and one terrible one, the players being wary in the first half and tired in the second. And they have now undertaken to drive out of baseball all of the star players who refuse to accept reductions arbitrarily decided upon by the magnates themselves.

If Bill Terry, for instance, is driven out of baseball by Mr. Stoneham, and if the salaries of the other players are reduced 40 per cent, the show value of the Giants will be depreciated. The customers will be offered less show value for their money, but at the same price which they were asked to pay when money was plentiful with one and all.

If the automobile industry were given the same amount of free reading matter in the papers the stuff probably would be pretty dull. The automobile publicity would deal with cogs and other mechanical parts. In baseball, however, most of the athletes are just cogs. Mr. Breadon of the St. Louis firm, who is a leader of the low pay movement now in progress, always keeps a large supply of spare parts in his service stations, or branch stores in the minor leagues.

Boy, Bring in a New No. 46.

If a player on the Cardinals grows too expensive or begins to limp, Mr. Breadon gets rid of him as unfeelingly as he would dispose of an undesired part in his own car, and picks another player out of stock to replace him. It is all so mechanical that actually the Cardinals are very much like an average good automobile, and I imagine that a writer with a fancy for mechanical subjects could write as entertainingly about a certain automobile all year long as we sport writers, who happen to be sport fans, write about the ball clubs.

There are so many hundreds of players that most of them have no more individuality than so many automobile parts. Nowadays Mr. Breadon does not deal with and in men. He deals in pitchers, right handed or left handed; in catchers, shortstops, and

BRIDGE "OVEREMPHASIS."

THERE is much talk about football overemphasis. What about contract bridge overemphasis, contract being a development of auction so people would buy more books and take more lessons from the "experts"? The "battle of the century" finished last week. It was advertised to demonstrate the relative superiority of two bidding systems. It did nothing of the sort. After 150 rubbers, one team was 8,980 points in the lead.

What the match did demonstrate to us dubs, who hardly recognize a demand bid if we meet it wandering down the Boul. Mich., is that these experts overbid, underbid, make dumb plays, and lose their tempers just as do those less expert.

Our leading bridge experts are professionals, urged by the money gained by writing books, syndicating newspaper articles, and radio talks. There is nothing wrong about that. But why attribute to them occult powers or omniscience? Pay them the same respect as professionals that we accord Max Schmeling, Bill Tilden—since he found pro tennis more honest than amateur tennis—football players who capitalize their college experience, or any other pros who choose money rather than the often doubtful amateur status.

The Wake deems contract bridge a good game. We wish we had time to "attend" all the conventions with which the experts have surrounded it. Probably we never would be skillful. Yet we have, in a measure, "card sense," for we have played "smear" at 10 cents a game and 5 cents a setback, "hearts" at 5 cents a heart, and 25 cent limit poker where "dealer's choice" might be deuces wild, Borneo, bolshevik, seven card peek, stud with jacks wild, or even low card in your own hand wild. But we haven't time to learn and practice the conventions.

So we respect a good bridge player as we respect Max Schmeling and others, but at heart we fear their skill is actuated not so much by the heralded desire for "mental relaxation" as by commercial possibilities. There are professional poker players, too, but they never have been accorded halos by the general public.

We'll admit our viewpoint may be biased by the fact we are not a good bridge player, yet we never have felt the same way about golf—and we're still the world's worst golfer, despite Westbrook Pegler's two attempts to usurp that honor.

6 LIGHT HEAVIES RETURN TO TITLE HUNT TOMORROW

Maier-Bain Bout Holds Fans' Interest.

BY FRENCH LANE.

From the way the gloves were flying in various loop gymnasiums yesterday, the half dozen light heavyweights who are fighting on toward the world's championship in their division will not let King Levinsky and Paulino Uzcudun steal the show at the Chicago Stadium tomorrow night.

These light heavyweights, who for two months have been fighting through the elimination championship tournament, have as much at stake as either Levinsky or Paulino. And it is possible that one of their bouts may produce more excitement than the heavyweight encounter.

Dave Maier Arrives.

The last of the light heavies to reach town was Dave Maier, the Milwaukee left hander, who arrived in time to do some boxing at Kid Howard's gymnasium. Maier has eight straight victories to his credit and his battle with Abie Bain, Newark's iron man, who fights and looks like King Levinsky, is regarded as one of the most important in the championship tournament.

Maier's last triumph was over Maxie Rosenbloom at Milwaukee on New Year's day, when he gave the former champion a rather complete lacing. This performance made him one of the favorites in the tournament and he is a 7 to 5 choice to whip Bain.

Olin Meets Calmes.

Bob Olin of New York, the Golden Glove tournament graduate ,and Baxter Calmes of Chicago come together in another of the light heavyweight struggles, and this is also expected to be a knockdown and dragout affair. They both can slug hard and often have demonstrated in their earlier battles that they can take it. The other light heavy combat finds George Nichols of Buffalo, another southpaw puncher, paired with Charley Belanger representing Canada in the tournament.

But, despite the whizz and the smack of the punches the light heavies were throwing around in all directions, King Levinsky played to the largest training camp audiences when he warmed up at Trafton's gym.

King's Friends Look on.

A lot of the boys from the fish market traveled into the loop to give the Kingfish an advance reception and every move he made brought a cheer from his admirers. At the same time, Uzcudun was drilling at Kid Howard's. His speed and apparent good condition have impressed many Chicagoans who have made him a 6 to 5 favorite to whip Levinsky. He has won many new followers at each of his training rehearsals.

OCONOMOWOC, HERE THEY COME!

SILVER SKATES GIRLS TO SEEK OLYMPIC PLACES

BY BETTY ECKERSALL.

The honor of representing their country in the Olympic games will be the object of the girls entered in the United States national skating championships at Oconomowoc, Wis., Saturday and Sunday.

Chicago's hopes rest on the flashing speed of Elizabeth Du Bois and Eleanor Thiel, TRIBUNE Silver Skates winners, and Helen Bina, state champion. Miss Du Bois is holder of the national half mile record of 1:32.6, which broke the former record of 1:34.6 held by Loretta Neitzel of Detroit.

Elsie Mueller, North American indoor champion, is New York's outstanding entrant. Miss Mueller recently won the middle Atlantic title at Newburgh, N. Y.

Six to Win Olympic Places.

The six girls to finish with the highest point standing will be selected for the American Olympic team. Crystal Bruce of Milwaukee, Lillian Corke of New York, Faith Schoen of Chicago, Beatrice Slater of St. Louis, Elizabeth Blaisdell of Milwaukee, Priscilla Rickey of Chicago, Marie Fierce of Chicago, and Marie Becker of Chicago are among other leading candidates.

Eddie Stundl, last year's North American intermediate outdoor champion, will make his first official senior start at the meet. During the North American championships Eddie broke the United States record by skating the 440 yard dash in :39 2-5, clipping :01 1-3 seconds from the record held by Howard Speed of Detroit.

Marks to Meet Burnette.

Wilbur Marks of Chicago, the defending indoor intermediate champion, will try his luck outdoors. Marks has been in competition for the last four years, and while he is not noted as a record breaker, he is a consistent winner.

Clayton Burnette of Detroit will be his chief competitor for the intermediate championship. In this race last year he set a world's one mile record of 3:04.5 for skaters less than 16 years old. He also is holder of the half-mile indoor record of 1:27.5.

Gopher Hockey Team Loses in Final Olympic Trial

Boston, Mass., Jan. 13.—(AP)—The Boston-New York hockey team, comprising the east's outstanding players, tonight won the right to represent the United States in next month's Olympic matches at Lake Placid by defeating the University of Minnesota sextet by a 4 to 0 score in the final elimination game. The Gophers will play Harvard tomorrow night in the Boston Garden.

Miami Dropped as Site of Schmeling-Walker Bout

New York, Jan. 13.—[Special.]—The proposed heavyweight championship ring battle between Max Schmeling, the titleholder, and Mickey Walker, former middleweight champion, shunted back and forth for a time in negotiations between Los Angeles and Chicago and finally sidetracked to Miami, today was declared definitely off as a proposed attraction for Miami, and, from indications, will be abandoned for the winter.

Announcement of the cancellation of Miami plans came from Joe Jacobs, manager of Schmeling, today, when it had been expected contracts for the match would be signed. It had been planned to stage the bout for fifteen rounds on Feb. 23.

Lack of Money Cause.

Jacobs said that unfavorable reports of the financial situation in Miami, its possible relation to the bout's gate receipts, and complications encountered in drawing a form of bout contract which would be satisfactory to Schmeling and the Madison Square Garden corporation, under whose auspices the proposed match was scheduled, caused him to abandon plans for the match.

"I received word from my partner, Billy McCarney, by long distance telephone from Miami last night that financial conditions were bad there now," said Jacobs. "Accordingly, on my return here today from North Adams, Mass., I notified Mr. Carey at the Garden that so far as Schmeling was concerned the Miami bout plans were out of the question. He had been having difficulty agreeing on a satisfactory form of contract, anyhow, and we were threatened with an impasse in that direction.

Financial Report Enough.

"I encountered many obstacles in my attempts to arrange this match, and when McCarney told me of conditions in the south I decided it was best to forget about the Walker match, at least for the time being.

"Schmeling will box Walker or Sharkey or Dempsey or anybody else in the world for money, but we must be guaranteed the money. From what McCarney told me we were not going to get much money, if any, fighting in Miami. We would have spoiled a good fight card for nothing. On the other hand, if we wait for a while the same match held elsewhere, I am sure, will draw a big gate. We might even be able to stage the match here for the milk fund in June, and I am sure it will gross $600,000 as an outdoor attraction in New York.

May Accept Match Here.

"I have not decided definitely what Schmeling will do. If the fifteen round rule is adopted in Illinois boxing and the offer of a guarantee for Schmeling is removed by the Chicago Stadium authorities I may accept the match there. It may go to Los Angeles or to Atlantic City. I am not in a position to say just now, but I expect within the next week to make a statement setting forth exactly what Schmeling will do.

"We have some motion picture propositions under consideration, and we can extend our exhibition tour. In a week of exhibitions we have realized $10,000. This shows the popularity in which Schmeling is held by the public, and satisfies me that we can make more in exhibitions right now than we can by fighting Walker in Miami. But when Schmeling defends his title, he will get money for the defense. Otherwise we will not box."

Carey Confirms Move.

William F. Carey, president of the Madison Square Garden corporation here, confirmed Jacobs' announcement of the bout cancellation.

Jack Kearns, manager of Walker, likewise declared he had been informed by Jacobs of the abandonment and added that he plans to keep Walker active. Kearns said he has been assured the heavyweight champion will defend his title against Walker in the next title match, regardless of where it is held.

Tilden Defeats Najuch in Net Exhibition, 7-5, 6-4

Champaign, Ill., Jan. 13.—[Special.]—Bill Tilden defeated Roman Najuch, Polish tennis player, in straight sets, 7-5, 6-4, in an exhibition at the University of Illinois tonight. Emmett Pare lost to Albert Burke, Irish player, 3-6, 2-6, in the other singles match. Tilden, playing with Pare, defeated Hans Nusslein, German star, and Najuch, 6-3 and 6-3, in the doubles match. Approximately 4,300 watched the matches.

MORRISON'S 69 LEADS PLAY AT AGUA CALIENTE

AGUA CALIENTE, Mexico, Jan. 13.—(AP)—Par, reinforced by rain and wind, was bested by three strokes over the long Agua Caliente course today by Fred Morrison, Culver City, Cal., professional, who shot 69 to lead the field in the first round of the $15,000 Agua Caliente open tournament.

Leo Diegel, home pro and former P. G. A. champion, and Gene Sarazen, New York, who won the first Agua Caliente open championship in 1930, tied for second, 70. Charles Sommers, youthful professional from Los Angeles and present holder of the Southern California caddy championship, and Charley Guest of Deal, N. J., had 71.

Cooper, Kirkwood Shoot Par.

Harry Cooper of Chicago and Joe Kirkwood of Philadelphia duplicated each other's scores to get 37s out and 35s in for par 72, which put them in sixth place.

Charles Lacey of New York might have been in the 71 bracket, except for an unfortunate incident at the 16th tee. With a 34 on the out nine, two under par, Lacey dubbed his tee shot on the par four, 390 yard 16th. The drive hit the upright pipe of a sprinkler and bounded back of the tee. Lacey played the ball and got a six, but he made a four with a provisional ball on the hole, which would have given him a 71.

Well up in the list appeared two of the 27 amateurs, Johnny Dawson, of Chicago, and Joe Hunter of Pasadena, Cal., who finished the 6,838 yards with 73.

Mac Smith Takes 78.

MacDonald Smith, New York pro who won the $7,500 Los Angeles open, took 78. Craig Wood of Hollywood, N. J., and Tony Manero, New York, had 82s. Tom Creavy, P. G. A. champion, of Albany, N. Y., took 77, while Whiffy Cox of Brooklyn had a 76.

Johnny Farrell of New York, one time open champion, made a sparkling 34 going out, but blew up coming in to take a 76. Walter Hagen had 39 going out and 35 coming in for 74.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

Les World Champion Canadiens, who haven't been behaving like champions these recent nights, got back in stroke last evening at the Chicago Stadium and as a consequence administered a 2 to 1 defeat to the Blackhawks.

It was the first victory for the Canadiens in four games and the first defeat for the Hawks in six—the latter having refrained from taking a spanking since Dec. 27, when the irrepressible Rangers did it to 'em in New York, 3 to 1.

Winning Goal Tainted.

The visitors' triumph was orthodox in that the margin of victory was registered by the superb Howie Morenz in one of his magnificent glides down the length of the rink.

While Howie's effort was thrilling, the score was slightly tainted, the rubber having been assisted to its nesting place by a Hawk player. They're still debating as to whether Chuck Gardiner or Taffy Abel gave succor to Howie, but Chuck conceded that the puck caromed off Taffy's stick, and Taffy graciously opined that Chuck either kicked or swished it in. Anyhow, Morenz gets the credit in the record books.

The Hawks—Mr. Cook, to be specific—registered the first counter in 10:40 of the first period, but the advantage prevailed for 1 minute and 10 seconds till Mr. Gagnon tied it up. The aforementioned Morenz act came in 8:45 of the second period.

No Coasting for Canadiens.

The Canadiens did not ease up as per current custom upon seizing the lead. They did a little golfing in the third period, but not enough to give the rule kibitzers an opportunity to get out their music rolls for their popular torch song.

It was apparent after the opening faceoff that the first period was going to be right rapid, for both sides immediately revealed great zeal in taking the offensive. The two goals were scored within a minute and ten seconds of each other on attacks that were not dissimilar.

Cook Scores First.

Cook scored the first run of the game following a faceoff in the neutral zone. To all appearances it was a beautiful solo dash down the left ice which carried Tommy past S. Mantha and Burke to the brink of the cage, whence the puck was lifted over Hainsworth's toes.

March followed up Tommy in the productive maneuver and after a conference the scorers decided to give Mush an assist for his moral support. The time of the goal was 10:40.

In 11:50 Gagnon tied the score on a swoop which pulled Gardiner out of his position. Morenz was credited with an assist, made some time before the scoring effort actually was launched.

The customers who think Morenz is the greatest hockey player in the world received some support for their belief in the second period when Howie gave the champions the lead with one of those thunderous rushes which are his outstanding specialty.

Lowery, Thompson, and Ingram had stirred up a sizable ruckus in the region of the visitors' net, but when the foray died down Morenz took the puck from behind his own cage and started down middle ice. As he passed the center he swerved to his right and took a 20 foot shot which landed in the net outside the cage.

Morenz Just Misses.

Without the slightest slackening of his terrific speed, Howie followed up the shot and took a second swish from an almost impossible angle. The rubber was steered in by the stick of Abel or Gardiner—the players, officials, and authors disagreed as to which—but Morenz thanked Abel.

Graham, Couture and Adams took the puck down to the Montreal goal in a furious charge that gave Hainsworth some anxious moments late in the third period.

Shortly after Leduc drew a penalty and the Hawks were playing all five men down in Canadien territory, Morenz recovered the puck from a scrimmage and with the Blackhawk territory clear before him took the puck down and missed from about ten feet out, the puck slipping off his stick just as he was ready to shoot.

62 PLAYGROUND ENTRANTS SEEK SILVER SKATES

Horan Group Competes in All Divisions.

Paul Staff, director of the Horan playground, 3035 West Van Buren street, yesterday submitted the list of skaters who will compete in the sixteenth annual Silver Skates Derbies Jan. 23 and 24 at Garfield park. Sixty-two boys and girls will seek the 35 awards offered by THE TRIBUNE. The entries are distributed among the seven age classifications.

Horan playground has won a number of championships in various sports, and Director Staff, who, incidentally, is one of the veterans of THE TRIBUNE Athletic association, always has a group of ambitious skaters in the Silver Skates Derbies. The Horan entry list is divided as follows: Men's senior, 11; boys' intermediate, 16; boys' junior, 12; boys' juvenile, 6; boys' midget, 2; girls' senior, 4, and girls' junior, 11.

Maypole Club Enters 53.

The Maypole Tigers Athletic club yesterday sent in the names of 53 contestants for Silver Skates. The entry is divided among all seven races and the club hopes to be in the running for the Walter Eckersall Memorial trophy, emblematic of the team championship. It was won last year by the German-American club. It will become the permanent possession of the organization which wins it three times.

The Maypole club has headquarters at 3857 Maypole avenue. Charles Stratton is the manager of the skating team.

Three More from Iowa.

Three more boys from Cedar Rapids, Ia., have announced their intention to compete for the senior Silver Skates. The Iowa boys are Cowan L. MacGregor, Jack Stillions, and George S. Liggett. The entry was made by Louis D. Dennis.

"Watch Buckey, Kennedy, Husfield, and Cleland." So writes Manager Al Furlong of the Buckley A. C., who has entered a neighborhood team in the Silver Skates. All the boys are eligible for the midgets' championship for boys under 12 years of age.

Entries close next Sunday at midnight.

DE PAUL DRILLS FOR ST. VIATOR MINUS 3 STARS

De Paul university and St. Viator basketball teams will meet tomorrow night at De Paul gym. St. Viator scored two one-point victories over the Blue Demons last season in late rallies. In their first meeting this year De Paul triumphed by a scant margin after making a comeback in the last half.

The Saints have won four straight games since losing to De Paul. They whipped Elmhurst, St. Thomas, Illinois Wesleyan, and De Kalb.

Coach Jim Kelly of De Paul was drilling a reserve team yesterday with prospects still dim as to the ability of three regulars to start. Heine Coan suffered a wrenched shoulder in the St. Thomas game. Capt. Joe O'Connor and Tony Lauritus, guards, have been out most of the week with influenza.

Kelly is using Jim Gorsky and Mike Rondinella at forwards. Pete Barskis is at center and El Weston, regular center, at guard with Jim Doody.

St. Andrew Girls Beat Queen of Angels, 24 to 0

St. Andrew shut out Queen of Angels, 24 to 0, in the opening north section basketball games of the girls' division of the Catholic Youth organization at St. Andrew's gymnasium, Addison street and Hermitage avenue, last night. In other games Lady of Mercy defeated Mount Carmel, 26 to 4, and St. Edward beat Lady of Victory, 6 to 4.

FROEBEL BEATS WASHINGTON.

Gary, Ind., Jan. 13.—[Special.]—Froebel High school of Gary defeated Washington of East Chicago here tonight, 31 to 28. Froebel led at the half, 18 to 9.

Magnates Use Squeeze Play on Salaries

so on, just as an automobile man deals in pistons, pinion gears and hub caps.

The baseball business is so nonessential and it contributes so little to the industrial turnover of the community that I should think the magnates would sometimes consider what a special advantage they enjoy over industries which yield a far greater return in general prosperity. The automobile industry employs a thousand men to every one employed in baseball, and with the same publicity would employ thousands more. But the baseball magnates have cut their personnel about 12 per cent and are reducing the pay of the survivors even more, all to the detriment of the customers' dollar's worth.

Far from installing free wheeling, they are planning to take out the self-starter and hand the patron a crank.

FITZSIMMONS DISSATISFIED

New York, Jan. 13.—[Special.]—Likelihood that the Giants, already involved in salary disputes with Bill Terry and Mel Ott, will have trouble signing Fred Fitzsimmons was indicated today. The knuckle ball pitcher, best right hander on the Giant staff and one of the best in either league, served notice in a wire here that he had joined the rapidly growing holdout brigade.

"Not satisfied with contract," was the message received from Fitzsimmons, who is wintering in Arcadia, Cal., near Los Angeles.

Whether or not his salary had been cut he did not say. It is conceivable that he would be dissatisfied even if it were not, since he was the only dependable right hander on the team last year and may have counted on having his remuneration materially increased.

Unlike Terry, whose rejection of a contract calling for a 40 per cent reduction, precipitated possibly the most widespread uprising of Giant players the club ever has had to contend with, neither Ott nor Fitzsimmons is a chronic holdout. This is the first time Ott ever has balked at terms offered to him and Fitzsimmons seldoms has had any complaint to make.

Bob O'Farrell, Giants' catcher, who lives in Waukegan, has received his 1932 contract, but still is undecided about signing. He received a cut in salary. He may remain in Waukegan to direct his bowling parlors there.

Rudolph Wins Twice; Leads Ponzi, 737-601

New York, Jan. 13.—(AP)—Erwin Rudolph of Chicago won both of today's blocks in his pocket billiards match with Andrew Ponzi of Philadelphia. Rudolph now leads, five blocks to one and 737 points to 601. Rudolph took the afternoon block, 125 to 94 in 15 innings, and the evening encounter, 125 to 96 in ten innings.

If You Can't Hit Duck, Feed Him Bullets

BY BOB BECKER.

Although many duck hunters are inclined to scoff at the theory that wild ducks die from lead poisoning caused by swallowing shotgun pellets which have lodged in the mud of lakes and sloughs, scientists have been accumulating indisputable evidence on this point.

The latest study to reach our hands comes from the pen of Dr. T. B. Magath, section of clinical pathology of the Mayo clinic, Rochester, Minn. It is a short study [as far as words are concerned], but packed full of facts.

Gizzards Can't Grind It.

Dr. Magath, in reviewing the history of lead poisoning among ducks, says that although the disease has been known since 1901, it was not until 1919 that the first and only scientific report of the condition was published by Alexander Wetmore.

This was a study of ducks dying in the northern end of the Salt Lake marshes. These birds had swallowed shot pellets, picked up when they mucked around in small feeding holes. Wetmore sifted a lot of the mud and found from one to twelve shot in each quart of silt.

In understanding what happens to lead shot when swallowed by ducks, it must be remembered that the shot goes into the duck's gizzard, the opening of which lies at the top. Solid material must remain in the gizzard until completely ground up, and then it can overflow from the top. Therefore, when a bird ingests a shot it must remain until ground up.

Finds Many Dead, Dying.

Dr. Magath's recent investigations of lead poisoning center around Bear lake, Minn., a lake southwest of Albert Lea. The Izaak Walton league called his attention to the large number of waterfowl dying on that lake. Due to the drought the water in the lake was not more than 2 or 3 feet deep. Ducks piled in there by the thousand during the migration. After feeding on the lake for a week or ten days they began to die.

Dr. Magath obtained some of the dead ducks and some that were alive but very sick. Examining the dead birds he found a condition of extreme emaciation and the gizzard of each bird contained from 10 to 70 shot. The live but sick birds were almost paralyzed and could hardly walk. Analyses for lead conducted by Dr. A. E. Osterberg showed the presence of this poison in 1 to 2,500 parts in the livers of the mallards.

100 Tons of Lead in Lake.

A conservative estimate would indicate, says Dr. Magath, that there is about 100 tons of lead in Bear lake today. Coming to Illinois' famous shooting grounds, we are wondering if there are not a number of famous old shooting holes down there which are so sprinkled with lead that they might be a menace to the puddler ducks.

MILWAUKEE PRO QUINTET MEETS BRUINS TONIGHT

Former Marquette Stars on Visiting Team.

The Milwaukee Badgers, with 22 straight wins to their credit, will meet the Chicago Bruins tonight at the Rainbo Garden, Clark street and Lawrence avenue.

The battle will furnish the windup of the evening's sport at 9 o'clock, a match at 8 between the O'Grady Boosters and the Continental-Illinois Bank five being the opener.

Badgers Promise Trouble.

The Badgers are figured to give the Bruins plenty of competition because they represent some of the finest talent developed in Wisconsin colleges in recent years. Three of the players are former Marquette university stars.

One of the standouts on the visiting five is Joe King, who was developed by Paddy Driscoll at St. Mel High school. Playing opposite King will be another St. Mel product, Art Bramhall, who will be at forward for the Bruins. The entire St. Mel basketball squad will turn out tonight to pay tribute to the players.

O'Donnell Is Sharpshooter.

Other Marquette men on the team are Larry Bugge and Jimmy O'Donnell. The latter has averaged 12 points a game this season. The Badgers are coached and managed by Johnny Bryant, who played at the University of Chicago several seasons ago. The lineup:

Should she have been frank?

THIS is a case where a woman paid a high price for silence. Like so many other commendable people she kept small irritations to herself. It was hard for her to speak out—even though a frank discussion might have smoothed trouble away.

Little things continually cropped up to mar her happiness. Possibly she should have overlooked them entirely. Certainly it was a grave mistake to harbor bitter thoughts. She allowed petty annoyances to pile up until her patience was almost exhausted. Then her husband grew a bit careless in his appearance—even failed to shave as often or as carefully as he should. She called this the "last straw" and left him.

• • •

Is a woman correct in assuming a man is losing respect for her or himself when he becomes careless about shaving? We think not—discomfort is a more likely reason—although stubble is a handicap in almost every business or social contact. May we suggest today's Gillette blade is the answer in cases like this.

This blade is far keener and smoother—invites frequent, close shaving. Once or twice daily use will not irritate the tenderest skin. We urge you to try this remarkable blade on our positive money-back guarantee. If you don't agree every shave is by far the cleanest and smoothest you have ever enjoyed—return the package to your dealer and he'll refund the purchase price.

HIALEAH OPENS TODAY FOR 39 DAYS OF RACING

Inaugural Handicap Is the Feature Event.

Miami, Fla., Jan. 13.—[Special.]—Hialeah Park, rebuilt and converted into one of the most beautiful winter race tracks in the world, is ready for the opening tomorrow of 39 days of racing. Outstanding among the improvements is the installation of the million dollar Australian totalizator, an innovation in America.

That there are horses on hand for the filling of all races and some to spare is shown by the entries for the opening card of seven races, featured by the Inaugural handicap, $1,500 added. The sixth race, the seventh, and the first have $1,000 purses; second, $1,300; third, $1,300; fourth, $1,500; and fifth, $1,500 added.

Weather Man Helps.

Post time for the first race is 2:15. Indications are clear weather and a fast track.

Thirteen horses, 3 year olds and up, are to start in the featured fifth race, the Inaugural handicap, at six furlongs. In the second race, for maiden 2 year olds, there are 23 baby racers for the dash of two furlongs, representing the largest eastern and western stables. They are colts and geldings.

Fast Races Assured.

Class is indicated in several of the races. In the Inaugural are Mabla, Vanderpool, Judge Schilling, which met at Bowie, Mabla giving the first taste of defeat to the then unbeaten Vanderpool, which had equaled the record made by Colin of 15 victories. Don Leon also will be a starter, as will Sonnelli, Flying Heels, Peto, Leros, Panetian, and Calf Roper, all high class sprinters.

FELAXE WINS AT TROPICAL

Miami, Fla., Jan. 13.—[Special.]—A large crowd witnessed a fitting close for the first meeting of the Gables Racing association at Tropical Park today as Jockey Hank Mills, whose riding has been the sensation of the meeting, brought Joseph H. Johnson's 3 year old gelding Felaxe home first in the feature race, the Coconut Grove purse. The race was at seven furlongs for 3 year olds, and Felaxe covered the distance in 1:26 4-5.

Mills' victory astride Felaxe was his twenty-seventh of the meeting. He was the leading jockey here.

Captain Ed, which ran a steady race although never in the lead, finished second, a bare head in front of Mrs. Frank A. Carreaud's Ever Faithful. Lady Blue was the favorite but she found herself unable to cope with the challenges of her opposition through the stretch and was forced to be content with fourth place.

Felaxe returned $9.80, $5.90, and $3.50 in the mutuels, Captain Ed paid $6 for place and Ever Faithful $4.50 for show.

LAKE FOREST QUINTET BEATS ELMHURST, 28-19

Lake Forest led at the end of the first half, 15 to 2. In the middle of the second half, with the score 23 to 6 in favor of the Foresters, Elmhurst rallied and brought the count to 23 to 17 before Lake Forest could score.

Set June 4 for National Prep Track Tourney

Announcement was made last night by Director A. A. Stagg that the University of Chicago would stage the 28th annual national interscholastic track and field meet on June 4. The Stagg meet, which has long been the most important track event in the country for high school athletes, will be practically the only interscholastic held this year, for most colleges and universities which had sectional meets have abandoned them this year.

Director Stagg was anxious to continue his meet for this reason, despite the pressing financial situation. A profit made in the Christmas week basketball tournament will cover a large share of the interscholastic expense.

In last year's meet there were 520 individual entries from 144 schools in 24 states. The meet is confined to high schools, the academy section having been discontinued. Maine Township High of Des Plaines, Ill., with a two man team consisting of Kennicott and Miller, won the 1931 meet, scoring 31 points. Du Pont Manual Training High school of Louisville, Ky., was second; Roosevelt High of Dayton, O., was third, and Maplewood, Mo., was fourth.

Added interest will be given this year's interscholastic because the meet probably will be designated as an Olympic trial, entitling those who make outstanding records to compete in the final trials.

SNOW TOMORROW: BY RAIL FOR SKI TOURNEY SUNDAY

The six carloads of snow ordered by the Norge Ski club for its annual tournament at Cary Hill Sunday afternoon, will arrive from Escanaba, Mich., tomorrow. Two more carloads were ordered by the Norge club officials yesterday.

Officials also announced that Harold Sorenson, New York, who has competed for the Norge championship for three years, will not take part in the tournament this year.

Many of the skiers entered in the tournament will reach the scene tomorrow afternoon and will practice for the meet.

Central A. A. U. to Hold Weight Lifting Meet

The second annual weight lifting tournament of the Central A. A. U. will be held at Kimball hall on Jan. 30, under the auspices of the Postl Health club.

Jake Schaefer to Seek 3 Cushion Cue Title Again

[This is the second of a series of articles on leading contenders for the world's three cushion billiards championship.]

The world's greatest billiard player will make his title debut at a new style of the billiard game. Young Jake Schaefer, holder of the world's 18-2 balkline championship and virtually every balkline record, will come back to Chicago, his birthplace and the scene of his first title conquest, to compete in the world's championship three cushion tournament which opens at Mussey's, 131 South Wabash avenue, Monday night.

JAKE SCHAEFER.

In the world's title tournament, played at Orchestra hall in November of 1921, Schaefer and Hoppe finished in a tie for first place and Jake won the playoff, 500 to 346, in six innings for an average of 83 2-6. He had a grand average of 51.33. In the final tourney game he defeated Hoppe 400 to 26 to gain the tie.

But it was in the championship tournament in 1925 that Schaefer rose to new heights. He defeated Eric Hagenlacher 400 to 0 in one game, running out from the spot. In that same tournament he defeated Welker Cochran by 400 to 50 in two innings. His grand average was 57.14. Later he defeated Edouard Horemans of Belgium in a challenge match, having a grand average of 93 for 1,500 points. In a previous match against Horemans he had a high run of 431

TULSA INVADES SHAMROCK RINK AGAIN TONIGHT

Chicago Sextet Fights to Retain Third Place.

The champion Tulsa Oilers and the Shamrocks will meet tonight for the second time within less than a week at the Chicago Stadium in an American league hockey game. The Oilers will be seeking a tie for third place with the St. Louis Fliers and the Shamrocks will be trying to hold their second place lead of two points over the Fliers.

The Shamrocks have had three long drills this week, calculated to add punch to their offense and to stiffen their defense in front of young Mike Karakas. Paddy Byrne, leading goalie of the league last year, is on his way to join the Shamrocks, and is expected to arrive here in time for Saturday night's game with Buffalo, but in the meantime Mike will be at his own post.

Dye Shifts Wings.

Three practice sessions since their last game have put the Shamrocks into good physical shape, and have eliminated some of the faults due to over-confidence. Two new forward combinations will skate together for the first time. McFadyen and Burns have traded places, so that Donnie now lines up with Johnson and Brydson, and Bobby plays with MacKenzie and O'Neill.

One of the Oilers whom the Shamrocks regard with particular respect is Emil Hanson. Hanson scored no goals last Saturday night, but he threatened frequently, and his fast starting and swift skating making him dangerous. In a puck carrying race before the game Hanson beat the Chicagoan's fastest skater, Bobby Burns.

Shamrocks May Slip.

If they lose the Shamrocks may slip back into a tie for second place with the St. Louis Fliers, who have

AUDITOR NELSON WINS SEPARATE BANK CASE TRIAL

His Plea for Early Hearing Denied.

State Auditor Oscar Nelson was granted a separate trial yesterday by Circuit Judge Edward D. Shurtleff at Woodstock on a charge of conspiracy in connection with the failure of the Waukegan State bank last June 17. The auditor lost his plea for an early trial after heated argument.

State's Attorney A. V. Smith of Lake county elected to try Norman O. Geyer, former president of the defunct bank, and George Woodruff, former chairman of the National Bank of the Republic of Chicago, before Nelson is arraigned. Geyer and Woodruff were scheduled to go on trial Monday, after a plea for severance in behalf of Woodruff was denied.

Indictments Charge Fraud.

The indictments against Nelson, Geyer, and Woodruff charge conspiracy to defraud in connection with the failure of the bank. At the bank's closing there were deposits of $1,224,000 and only $38,000 in cash on hand, Prosecutor Smith has charged. Two others named at the same time are to have separate trials. William H. Miller, former vice president of the Chicago bank, is to be tried in Lake county by Judge Shurtleff, and John Murray Connors, former vice president of the Waukegan bank, is to be tried in Lake county by Circuit Judge Ralph J. Dady.

Attorney David Joslyn, representing Nelson, asked that Nelson be tried first since he is a candidate for reelection and the trial of Woodruff and Geyer may not end until after the primaries. He predicted three months will be spent in attempting to prove the insolvency of the Waukegan bank before its actual closing, as charged by the state. Smith refused to change his decision to try the state auditor last.

Denies Politics in Trial.

"Of course, you know this insolvency applies to politics as well as other things," the judge said.

"Well, then," said Joslyn, "we are busted. We're insolvent."

Smith leaped to his feet to deny that there was politics in his selection. Joslyn affirmed his charge that there was politics in the case.

The judge smoothed over the dispute. Attorney George T. Buckingham, representing Woodruff, made a plea for severance in behalf of his client, which was denied.

Expect Sheridan Dividend.

Floyd E. Britton, attorney for the receiver of the defunct Sheridan Trust and Savings bank, reported almost $1,000,000 in cash and securities will soon be available for the bank's depositors. He made his report before Circuit Judge Michael Feinberg, who is seeking to uncover assets hidden from the bank's receiver.

Britton discussed in detail transactions between the Foreman-State National bank and the Sheridan Trust and Savings bank, spiking rumors that approximately $2,500,000 in securities had been moved from the latter bank after its closing. He said securities, given as collateral under a trust deed to cover a loan of $1,780,000, were moved after the closing as the deed required delivery.

Securities Up for Sale.

Of the securities $442,391 is now available for sale to aid depositors. In addition, he said, there is $530,000 in cash on deposit with the Continental-Illinois Bank and Trust company.

In the afternoon the judge questioned Mrs. Hannah Zuker, 5329 Kenmore avenue, who is indebted to the bank for $5,710. Several years ago Mrs. Zuker was known as Chicago's Hetty Green, when she was reputed to have real estate holdings between four and five million dollars. She told the judge she was in default on all her properties and was dependent on her sons for support, and that she now lives on $20 a week. The judge ordered her to return this morning with her sons.

FARMERS TOLD OF THREE WAYS TO BETTER PRICES

"Market Not Due to Overproduction."

BY PAUL POTTER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Urbana, Ill., Jan. 13.—[Special.]—The farmers who produce the nation's food and fiber supply may not be able as individuals to control economic factors affecting national or world markets, but they have three ways of obtaining more satisfactory prices.

These were described to more than two thousand Illinois farmers attending the University of Illinois farm and home week this morning by Dr. G. F. Warren, economist of Cornell university, in his address characterizing the present market situation as not due to overproduction, but to a collapse of the price structure.

Up to Tiller Himself.

"The individual farmer has it within his power to find ways of producing farm products with less hours of labor, to reduce costs of distribution, and for certain products to increase quality to meet new demands for quality from workers who have a high buying power," Dr. Warren said.

During the third day's short course for farmers and their wives, conducted by the state college of agriculture, production and marketing problems were under discussion, with gray haired scholars from nearly every county in the state in the class rooms and assemblies. They evinced most interest in methods of improving production of dairy, poultry, and live stock products.

R. W. Balderston of the National Dairy council in Chicago declared in one conference that a recent survey had divulged that parents fail to apply the food habits they teach their children. While 88 per cent of children up to five years of age drink milk, nearly two-thirds of their parents drink no milk at all.

Increased Farm Credit.

Joseph R. Cosgrove, manager of the Federal Intermediate Credit bank of St. Louis, today reported that farm credit corporations transacted more business in 1931 than in any year since they were authorized in 1923.

He declared that bankers were convinced such corporations offer a means of overcoming some of the present rural financing difficulties.

Of unusual interest at this year's farmer's week is a five day conference on agricultural organizations and the rural church, in which Dean H. W. Mumford spoke briefly this morning.

POLICE UPHOLD CONFESSION IN SLAYING TRIAL

CRIMINAL COURT.

Edward Barron, larceny, sentenced to 1 to 10 years in the penitentiary; John Patrick, manslaughter, sentenced to 1 to 14 years in the penitentiary; Harry J. Mapp, confidence game, sentenced to 1 year in the Bridewell, by Judge George Fred Rush.

An alleged confession of Vernon Royals, 17 years old, on trial before Judge Walter Stanton for the murder of Mrs. Agnes Lavander, was read to the jury shortly before 6 o'clock last evening.

The statement was admitted as evidence after a losing battle on the part of the defense, led by Attorney W. W. O'Brien. Royals has charged that he was struck more than 100 times by police of the Irving Park station. His accusations were denied in detail by Sergt. Thomas Harrison and Policemen John Cilke and Philip Doherty. Harrison testified that Royals wept on his shoulder and said he wanted to clear his conscience. The confession was voluntary, the sergeant said.

An effort by the defense to uphold Royals' charge that he was beaten will be made this morning. Dr. Francis McNamara, who examined the youth in the county jail, will be asked to testify whether he saw any bruises on Royals' body.

The murder for which Royals is on trial was committed on Feb. 17, 1930, near the Forest Glen railroad station. Royals was arrested last October on a charge of annoying another woman in the same vicinity and at that time, the police say, confessed the Lavander slaying.

DENTISTS PLEAD FOR GOLD TO FILL AUSTRIAN TEETH

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

VIENNA, Jan. 13.—Vienna's dentists solemnly appealed to the national bank today to help them get some gold to fill people's teeth around here. The union of "tooth technicians" joined in the appeal.

Tooth technicians in Austria are men who make and fill teeth but cannot be called dentists because they possess no doctor's degree from a university. They told the bewildered bank directors that the new currency restrictions have so depleted their gold stocks that they will have to fill teeth with cement or asphalt if something is not done.

The dentists, more dignified, merely requested the bank to exempt gold for dental purposes from the new financial decrees which prevent importation or exportation of gold. Since the importation of platinum is also prohibited, the dentists asked exemption from this also. Gold workers and alloy companies catering to the dental trade also joined in the appeal. The bankers went into a huddle tonight to consider the situation.

DANIELS, FORMER NAVY SECRETARY, INJURED IN CRASH

Atlanta, Ga., Jan. 13.—(AP)—Josephus Daniels, publisher of the Raleigh, N. C., News and Observer and former secretary of the navy, suffered a severely lacerated scalp and a fracture of the left wrist in an automobile accident here tonight.

After Mr. Daniels' apparent injuries had been dressed in the operating room of St. Joseph's hospital he was removed to the X-ray room for a further examination. Mr. Daniels appeared in fine spirits and greeted newspaper men as he was wheeled down the corridor.

Dr. Leroy Childs, attending physician, said Mr. Daniels would not be permitted to leave the hospital for several days.

The former secretary of the navy in President Wilson's cabinet was hurt when an automobile belonging to Robert C. Alston of Atlanta, in which he was riding, was sideswiped by a smaller car on Pace's Ferry road. The Alston car left the highway and struck a tree.

WOMAN DENIES STORY IN DIARY OF KILLING MAN

Rock Island, Ill., Jan. 13.—[Special.]—On whether there were two men by the name of Otto Swan in Kewanee, Ill., one of whom is known to have died a year ago under mysterious circumstances, may hinge a murder charge against Mrs. Eula Earle Eastin, 34, half breed Indian, held here.

Authorities who arrested Mrs. Eastin on a minor charge found a diary in which she had a notation that she killed Otto Swan in Kewanee. Otto Swan, an electrician, died suddenly Jan. 11, 1931. A coroner's jury returned a verdict of death from heart failure.

Mrs. Eastin denies that she killed Otto Swan, a junk dealer, who she says wronged her, but admits placing the notation in the diary because she had an intense desire to kill the man. Kewanee authorities were attempting to locate a junk dealer by that name today.

BANKING HEADS PAVE ROAD FOR EASIER CREDITS

Mild Inflation Seen as New Policy.

BY O. A. MATHER.

According to all signs yesterday, the United States government and the federal reserve system have embarked on a policy of mild inflation as a remedy for depression. With the formation of the government reconstruction corporation by congressional action practically assured, the federal reserve authorities and the heads of the country's big banks have begun to pave the way for credit expansion.

The government's corporation will require somewhere between 500 million and 2 billion dollars. It is intended that the federal treasury will find the initial capital and then it is hoped the balance may be raised by selling the corporation's debentures to investors. Otherwise, the treasury will have to find additional money through the sale of government securities.

In preparation for such large financing it has been deemed advisable to create a better feeling toward all securities, particularly government obligations, and also to create a better public psychology toward trade and industry. Easy money rates and credit inflation are relied on to improve sentiment.

New York Reduces Rates.

The New York federal reserve bank started the ball rolling yesterday by reducing its buying rates on bankers' acceptances, making the new rates range from 2¾ to 2⅞ per cent, according to maturities. It is not unlikely this initial move toward easy money will be followed up by the New York bank reducing its rediscount rate from the present 3½ per cent level and the other reserve banks following suit.

Accompanying yesterday's move by the New York reserve bank, the bond market scored one of the sharpest advances in recent months. Government bonds were particularly strong. The upturn followed a meeting of the government of the various federal reserve banks in Washington, and there also were reports in La Salle street that the bond market is being given a little expert guidance as the result of a meeting of bankers in New York last week.

It is no secret that financiers a week or so ago had grave doubts whether the impending governmental financing could be accomplished without imposing interest rates of 4½ to 5 per cent. This was because the older obligations were selling at such low prices. Moreover, higher rates on new bonds would tend to depress the older issues still further. But with the price of the last few or two in government bonds it is hoped that the new financing may be accomplished successfully at moderate rates.

Would Encourage Purchases.

Any general lowering of rediscount rates by the federal reserve banks would tend to encourage the purchase of government obligations by banks, which then could use the securities as collateral for borrowing at the reserve banks at a lower interest rate than the obligations would pay.

There have been various suggestions, both in congress and by bankers, that mild inflation might prove beneficial in getting trade and industry started again. Many leading bankers, including Charles E. Mitchell, chairman of the National City bank of New York, have identified this view by arguing that depression has unduly deflated credit and that the reserve banks should stimulate a return flow into banking and business channels. There have been other arguments in congress that a mild inflation should be effected by broadening the basis of rediscounting at the reserve banks.

At all events, the banking authorities and the government now are committed to more or less inflation. A year or two ago the reserve system tried cut an easy money policy in the hope of stemming depression, but it proved unsuccessful. What a renewal of that policy will accomplish remains to be seen, although it may have a better chance for success because deflation has been more thorough.

Board of Trade Reports 1,556 Memberships on Roll

Membership in the Chicago Board of Trade on Jan. 4 this year was 1,556, as compared with 1,567 a year ago. Twelve memberships were retired during the year, and 19 members died. The last sale was at $7,500. The treasurer's report showed a balance on Jan. 4 of $558,623.

The weighing department of the Board of Trade handled 146,190 cars of grain during the year. The average contents of cars was: Wheat, 1,529 bushels; corn, 1,541 bushels; oats, 2,040 bushels; rye, 1,509 bushels, and barley, 1,642 bushels.

Ask Financial Advertisers to Hold Convention Here

Members of the Chicago Financial Advertisers, local chapter of the Financial Advertisers' association, yesterday voted to invite the association to hold its 1932 annual convention next September in Chicago. The invitation will be extended at the annual meeting of the board of directors in New York on Feb. 13 and Feb. 14.

Underwood Elliott Sales Reported in Increase

Sales of Underwood Elliott Fisher Co. increased consistently during the last three months of 1931, billings of December being more than $350,000 over November, or nearly three times the increase in December, 1930, billings over its preceding month, Philip D. Wagoner, president, told a conference of executives yesterday.

Ice Tonnage Gains 6 Pct. During 1931

BY SCRUTATOR.

The ice business in the United States last year was better than ever before. The National Association of Ice Industries estimates that operations in 1931 resulted in a tonnage gain of about 6 per cent over 1930, which was a record year. Consumption in Chicago was up 10 per cent.

Thus for the second consecutive year poor general business conditions failed to arrest the upward trend which began five years ago.

A. J. Authenrieth, vice president of Middle West Utilities company, and E. L. Bennett, president of the national association, at a recent meeting predicted that the market for ice would be doubled in a few years by the development of additional uses for this product in cooling homes, offices, stores, and passenger trains.

Will Concentrate Efforts.

So enthusiastic are the ice people about the prospect of increasing sales in this way that they have decided to concentrate the efforts of their national association in this field.

The manufacturers of equipment are likewise awnre of this potential demand. The American Foundry and Furnace company at Bloomington and the Moncrief Furnace company at Atlanta have started to make furnaces that will cool the home in summer as well as heat it in the winter. Other concerns are experimenting with similar equipment.

Smaller cooling units for individual rooms or small offices are also on the market. Some of these are ice boxes built to resemble radio cabinets, with an electric fan to blow cool air into warm rooms.

The idea of air conditioning on passenger cars seems to be taking hold. The Pullman company has tested various types, including refrigeration with mechanical devices and with ice, in addition to a water spray system.

Makes Experiment.

In September the Boston and Maine railroad placed in operation an ice cooled single sashed passenger coach. On its initial run the temperature of the air in this car was maintained 14 to 19 degrees cooler than the air in other cars in the same train and 12 to 14 degrees cooler than the air outside. A slight positive air pressure kept dirt and dust from entering the coach. Less energy was used by the water pump and fan than was required to run two electric fans in the ordinary passenger car.

The Baltimore and Ohio and Pennsylvania railroads have been experimenting with air conditioning. The latter now has ice cooled dining cars on several eastern runs. Several other lines are considering trying out various types of air cooling apparatus with the hope of making passenger trains cleaner and more comfortable.

On the Pennsylvania ice is placed in compartments under the car and cold water is pumped from these compartments through a coil above the ceiling of the car. A small fan throws filtered air through the coil and into the car. The windows are kept tightly closed.

Quote Monthly Rates.

Some ice companies have boosted their profits considerably by adopting more economical delivery methods. One western concern quotes its domestic consumers a flat monthly rate of $3.50 for keeping their refrigerators filled. In this way it finds use for odd pieces of ice and saves the time formerly consumed in weighing.

An ice company in Georgia stimulates new business by offering its customers a flat monthly rate of $7.70 on two year contracts, this price to include time payments on a refrigerator.

Bunte Brothers Vote Larger Dividend Payment

Bunte Brothers yesterday declared a dividend of $1 a share on the common stock. In August a 50 cent payment was made on this issue and in February, 1931, $1 a share was paid. The regular quarterly dividend of $1.75 a share also was declared on the preferred stock.

WILLIAMSON TO PRESIDE ALONE OVER N. Y. C. R. R.

Dual Management Is Abandoned.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Jan. 13.—F. E. Williamson, recently elected president of the New York Central lines, presided for the first time today at the regular monthly meeting of the company's board of directors.

F. E. WILLIAMSON.

The Central now has a single chief executive, with Mr. Williamson filling the position in his capacity as president. Formerly a dual management existed, with a chairman of the executive committee wielding some of the authority usually delegated to the president.

Abolish Office.

The office of chairman of the executive committee, held by the late A. H. Harris, has been abolished through a change in the company's bylaws. The office of chairman of the executive committee was created after the death of a former president, A. H. Smith, when Patrick E. Crowley was elected president and Mr. Harris elevated to the head of the executive committee.

Mr. Williamson was elected a director of the Big Four, to fill the vacancy caused by Mr. Harris' death, and elected president in place of Mr. Crowley. The same changes were also made in the case of the West Shore and the Cincinnati Northern.

Other Elections.

R. D. Starbuck was elected executive vice president of the Big Four, West Shore, and Cincinnati Northern, while C. C. Paulding was elected a vice president of the West Shore and the Cincinnati Northern. No action was taken for filling the office of vice president of the Central lines, formerly held by Mr. Harris.

BOND MARKET MOVES TO NEW HIGHS WHEN U. S. ISSUES RECOVER

New York, Jan. 13.—(AP)—Bond prices climbed to new high levels for 1932 today in a buoyant movement which brought an exceptional recovery to United States government issues and added numerous and substantial gains to the vigorous railway list.

While all government bonds were up from fractions to three points at one time during today's sessions, there was an increase in offerings near the close and prices reacted somewhat from the highs. The entire treasury list, however, ended the day from 1.12 to 2.1 points higher, and the Liberties were not far behind.

Most of the rails added from fractions to 9 points to their gains of the last week, and any number were from 4 to 5 points higher. Chicago and Northwestern registered debenture 5s took on the 9 point advance. The low priced convertibles were among the favorites.

Some bonds of Baltimore and Ohio, Chicago and Northwestern, Rock Island, Denver and Rio Grande, Erie, Great Northern, Illinois Central, Missouri Pacific, New York Central, New Haven, Northern Pacific, Nickel Plate, St. Louis and San Francisco, Southern Railway, and Southern Pacific made spectacular advances.

German obligations of various descriptions were the center of interest in the foreign list. German government 5½s gained 2⅝ and the 7s three points. South Americans were strong. Japanese 6½s sagged, but the 5½s were up slightly.

NORTH WESTERN DECEMBER NET ABOUT $200,000

Net operating income of Chicago and North Western for December should be about $200,000, according to a statement by Fred W. Sargent, president.

This would represent an increase of about $800,000 over the November showing, but would still be short of the monthly proportion of fixed charges.

Prospects are somewhat better.

"At the present time we have the best crop prospects we have had in the last six years," Mr. Sargent said.

"It is our belief that the present abnormally low level of traffic cannot long continue."

AMERICAN SUGAR CUTS DIVIDEND TO DOLLAR A SHARE

Foresees a Deficit of $1,250,000.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Jan. 13.—Directors of the American Sugar Refining company announced today a quarterly dividend of $1 a share on the common stock, compared with $1.25 quarterly, heretofore, and at the same time voted the regular quarterly dividend of $1.75 a share on the preferred. The $5 annual rate on the common had been in force since July, 1929.

Earl D. Babst, chairman of the board, estimated that, after all expenses, bond interest and charges, dividends and depreciation, the company will show a deficit of approximately $1,250,000 for last year. He also informed stockholders the company is in a strong financial position, with its properties both in the United States and Cuba fully maintained and highly efficient.

The entire personnel is cooperating by accepting salary and wage adjustments to meet changed conditions, he said.

Hit by U. S. Action.

"The sugar industry, both raw and refined, continues seriously affected by governmental action here and in Cuba. Of immediate concern, is the opening up by the recent tariff of the domestic market to foreign refiners and the federal suit under the Sherman act against the entire domestic refining industry. The former, naturally, results in smaller volume, increased costs, and lessened employment, while the latter challenges the efforts of the industry to apply proper self-regulation as an alternative to unfair competition.

"The company earned its way, including deprecation, for the first nine months of 1931. However, in the last quarter results were reversed."

To Pay Dividend on Stock.

Following recent action by stockholders of Columbia Phonograph Company, Inc., in reducing capital of the company to $1,700,000, directors have declared a dividend of $15 a share on the capital stock, payable in cash, it was announced today.

Accordingly, voting trustees will distribute the net proceeds from this declaration after deduction of all expenses under voting trust agreement dated June 30, 1931.

Sinclair Oil, Prairie Firms in Big Merger

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Jan. 13.—Negotiations for a merger of the Sinclair Consolidated Oil corporation, the Prairie Oil and Gas company, and the Prairie Pipe Line company, which began more than a year ago, culminated today in a joint announcement that the directors of the three companies have approved a plan for the union.

H. F. SINCLAIR.

The plan will be submitted to the stockholders of the several companies for their approval at special meetings to be held March 1. The combined assets of the merged companies, after giving effect to adjustments necessary to properly reflect the relative values of their properties, total $532,516,622.

Will Absorb Others.

The agreement contemplates that the Sinclair Consolidated Oil corporation shall absorb the other two companies. The first step to accomplish that result will be for the Sinclair company to change its name to the consolidated Oil corporation.

The Sinclair company will amend its charter to change the number of directors so as to admit representatives of the other two companies, and also to give holders of the Sinclair Consolidated common stock or other securities convertible into common stock the prior right to subscribe for additional shares of common stock that may be sold for cash, and to make certain adjustments in its capital structure.

Basis of Deal.

The next step will be the transfer by the Prairie Oil and Gas company and the Prairie Pipe Line company of all of their properties, assets, business and good will to the Consolidated Oil corporation, subject to all liabilities of the two Prairie companies, which will be assumed by the Consolidated company. In consideration of such transfer common stock of the Consolidated Oil corporation will be issued to stockholders of the Prairie companies on the following basis:

One share of Consolidated common stock without par value for each $25 par value of common stock of the Prairie Oil and Gas company now outstanding.

One and four-tenths shares of Consolidated common stock without par value for each $25 par value stock of the Prairie Pipe Line company now outstanding.

Common stock of the Sinclair Consolidated Oil corporation will be exchanged for stock of the Consolidated Oil corporation on the basis of share for share.

Officials of Combine.

It is contemplated that when the board of directors of the Consolidated Oil corporation is organized the following officials of the new corporation will be elected: Harry F. Sinclair, chairman of the executive committee; W. S. Fitzpatrick, vice chairman of the executive committee; Earl W. Sinclair, chairman of the finance committee; H. R. Gallagher, president.

Harry F. Sinclair is at present chairman of the board of the Sinclair Consolidated and Earl W. Sinclair is its president, while W. S. Fitzpatrick is chairman of the Prairie Oil and Gas company. H. R. Gallagher is vice president of the Shell Oil Company of California in charge of marketing.

It is expected that the ratification of the plan by the stockohlders of the respective companies will be a mere formality.

Fight Plan for Mexican Mortgage Moratorium

MEXICO CITY, Jan. 13.—(AP)—Mortgage creditors representing a 40,000,000 peso investment have organized a league for mutual defense against the plans of mortgage debtors to try to induce the government to declare a three year moratorium on payment of interest and principal on all mortgages. The debtors have declared that payments are impossible and it would be good for business to declare the moratorium.

BY FRED HARVEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Jan. 13.—The spectacle of United States government bonds going into handsprings inspired the share market to a vigorous renewal of its so-called January recovery movement today. With pivotal industrials and high grade rails vying for the leadership the whole list swept forward on a broad plane, scoring gains of from 1 to 5 points or more.

Buying gained momentum steadily toward the close and final prices were generally the best of the day. Volume continued small, however, judged by the standards of olden days, barely crossing the 2,100,000 share mark. Obviously dealings were confined largely to the professional element.

See Better Sentiment.

Business statistics were no more stimulating on the whole than they have been for weeks and the sudden renewal of the advance for a time had the shorts guessing. Some observers had difficulty in ascribing the turnabout entirely to the upturn in government bonds, but since this was the only bullish development of any account in the picture it was made to serve as the moving cause of it all.

However, constructive sentiment really is gaining among the speculative fraternity as some of the professional commentators insist. And maybe if the thing goes far enough some of them really will get back into the market—instead of leaving it entirely to professional whoopee makers.

Rail Shares Gain.

Railroad shares got a little fresh push during the course of the day from a story emanating from Chicago to the effect that the brotherhood leaders had already agreed to the 10 per cent cut in wages proposed by the executives and that tomorrow's conference would amount to little more than public ratification and formal announcement of the settlement of this all important problem. There have been rumors during the last day or two that the labor delegates were disposed to put up a fight, but apparently followers of the carrier shares have not been greatly alarmed over the situation. Certainly they did not carry any anxiety they may have entertained over in today's proceedings.

At any rate most of the active issues of the department were carried to new high levels for the recovery on gains of from 2 to 4 or 5 points. Atchison, New York Central, Baltimore and Ohio, New Haven, Union Pacific, Norfolk and Western, Lackawanna and others were strong and Curtiss-Wright Corp.

Will you please give me a rating and advice as to investment merits of Curtiss-Wright corporation?—C. F. B.

Curtiss-Wright corporation, a holding company, was incorporated in 1929. It is the world's largest aviation manufacturing enterprise and, through subsidiaries, engages in every phase of the industry except operation of transport lines.

Production capacity in the aviation industry is in excess of demand. In 1930 inventory of airplanes of this company was reduced from 585 to 151 and production was geared to actual sales. The company has yet to show substantial earning power.

Net loss for the first nine months of 1931 was $2,139,000, against loss of $7,159,000, after $1,100,000 deduction for nonrecurring charges, for the corresponding 1930 period. Loss for 1930 was $9,013,000 and deficit for the year, after provision for contingencies, was $14,972,000. For 1929 net loss, including predecessor companies, was $669,000.

In 1930 and the early part of 1931 the Buffalo and Paterson plants were consolidated. Chairman Hoyt stated that this move will reduce expenses and increase productive capacity.

On Dec. 31, 1930, current assets were $13,956,000, and current liabilities were $4,954,000. Cash was $1,258,000, and notes payable were $2,475,000. Working capital declined from $17,656,000 at the beginning of 1930 to $9,002,000 at the close of the year.

Profit and loss deficit was $18,180,000, and capital surplus was $16,007,000. There were outstanding 1,137,997 class A shares and 6,299,271 common shares.

Unfilled orders on Sept. 1, 1931, were $11,138,000, against $8,900,000 the year before.

Air mail business has not reached its limits. There are possibilities of growth not only in new routes but in the transportation of packages.

Some divisions of the company, including airports, will have to be built up to show a profit. The company has good engineering talent and should be in a position to get its share of the business when conditions in the industry improve.

For the first half of 1931 about 60 per cent of its sales were to the government.

No dividends have ever been paid on the company's stock.

Both the class A and common shares are highly speculative.

McKesson & Robbins.

I am enclosing a self-addressed envelope. Please give me your opinion of McKesson & Robbins, Inc., 5½ per cent debentures due 1950.—S. P. S.

They are somewhat speculative.

INSULL ISSUES OUT IN FRONT OF ADVANCE HERE

Chicago Trade Featured by Utilities.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

With the Insull securities out in front, the Chicago market moved forward yesterday on spirited buying apparently inspired by the prospect of easier credit conditions in the coming months.

The rising tide carried up nearly all classes of securities, but it was the senior obligations of the utility companies which proved the feature of the market here. Most spectacular was the advance in the price of Insull Utility debentures. At the close of the day these obligations were commanding a price of 35¾, a net improvement of more than 5 points for the day. Middle West Utilities preferred found buyers as high as 53½ and finished the period with a gain of over 3 points.

All Close Higher.

The junior issues trailed along, but all closed the day at better prices. The brisk advance in Middle West notes on the New York Curb continued, and these issues wound up the day with gains ranging from 3 to 5 points. This inspired confidence and attracted buyers in the Insull stocks here. Commonwealth Edison was bid up over 3 points.

While the utilities occupied the center of the stage, other stocks were not ignored by buyers. Motor accessory shares made creditable showings, and good buying appeared in a number of specialty issues. United States Gypsum was quoted 1½ higher. A liberal supply of moderate gains was shown by final quotations in all sections of the list from Abbott Laboratories to Zenith Radio.

Governors of the exchange after the close of the market yesterday approved the listing of an additional 300,000 shares of class A common stock of Merchants and Manufacturers Securities company, bringing the total listed stock to 600,000 shares.

Hear of Expansion Plans.

Proceeds from the sale of the new stock, it is understood, will be used in the acquisition of additional properties. While the plans of the company were not made public, it is understood that the acquisition of a number of small loan companies is planned.

Also approved was the listing of an additional 27,103 shares of Grigsby-Grunow stock. The exchange permitted a change in the authorized purpose of 330,000 shares already listed but not issued. This stock and the additional shares listed will be used in consummating the purchase of Columbia Phonograph company.

U. S. LIENS START GENERAL UPTURN IN STOCK MARKET

Whole List Advances from 1 to 5 Points.

Steel Forges Ahead.

United States Steel was an important factor in the advance. The announcement that James A. Farrell, president of the company, was preparing to retire in April had no ill effect on sentiment affecting the old bellwether so far as the results showed. The close found the issue at a new high for the movement of 44⅝c, up 3 points on the day.

Other leaders trailed U. S. Steel with alacrity. American Can and Allied Chemical and Dye rose 4 points each, Eastman Kodak jumped ahead 5 points, and various other first division notables, including Consolidated Gas, Western Union and Westinghouse, did their bits to the tune of 2 points fillips or better.

Tobacco shares provided one of the bright spots of the day, American Tobacco, Liggett & Myers and Reynolds B all scoring sharp advances. Feeling toward these issues was helped no doubt by the splendid showing of the 1931 figures of the Reynolds company, the earnings of the corporation being comfortably ahead of those for 1930.

Rumors of Auto Mergers.

Rumors of merger negotiations involving Hudson, Nash and Packard in the motor field stimulated some buying in all three issues. Auburn Auto outdid all the rest as usual when there is anything doing by shooting ahead more than 10 points.

Reassurances from apparently reliable sources that the American Telephone and Telegram company's $9 dividend rate would be maintained at the next meeting stimulated this old reliable of the utility division to a jump of nearly 6 points.

Sinclair Oil preferred scored the biggest individual gain of the day, rising 19 points, following the announcement that the corporation's merger deal with the Prairie had been dealt consummated.

GRAIN MARKETS FAIL TO MAINTAIN PACE OF STOCKS

Trade Moves Up and Down to Close a Bit Higher.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Grain markets yesterday made a poor response to the strength in stocks and to the more favorable character of the news from Washington. There was a moderate dip early which was checked by buying against bids, and later a rally of 1c carried wheat into the offers.

Selling against the latter checked the upturn, with the finish at net gains of ¼@½c. March wheat closed at 55¼@55⅝c; May, 56⅞c, and July, 56¾c.

There was not the activity and broad interest in the wheat market which has developed of late when the stock market turned strong. The general idea that an era of price inflation might follow the federal reserve bank's scheme of making credit easier fell practically flat as a price making influence. The upturn was due almost entirely to local and scattered commission house buying. It took little selling to check the bulge.

Argentine Pressure Increasing.

The wheat trade is torn between conflicting influences. On one hand operators see determined efforts being made to advance prices of commodities and stocks by legislative efforts, and on the other is the increasing pressure of Argentine wheat on the world's markets, with offerings at a good discount as compared with American. If the domestic market advances it would put this country further out of line in comparison with both Argentina and Canada and there is a tremendous amount of wheat on hand that should be exported.

According to Washington reports foreign governments are inquiring for around 35,000,000 bu of farm board wheat, some undisclosed country being in the market for 25,000,000 bu, while Greece recently was reported as having made tentative overtures for 10,000,000 bu. Canadian officials were quoted in press reports as denying rumors France had agreed to take 20,000,000 bu Manitobas.

Liverpool Feels Pressure.

Hedging pressure from Argentina is making itself felt in the Liverpool wheat market and the latter closed ¼@½c per bu lower, with May quoted at 55¾c, with sterling at $3.41. Winnipeg gained ⅛@¼c in sympathy with Chicago, the May being 63c in Canadian funds which were around 15⅜ per cent discount. Buenos Aires was strong on scattered rains in Argentina, which may delay the movement, and closed ¼@⅜c higher.

Aside from scattered sales of Manitoba wheats, with an aggregate in all positions of around 400,000 bu, the foreign demand for North American grain was not aggressive. According to London cables English millers and others have approved the quota system to the extent that 15 per cent of home grown grain may be ground, but the question of the percentage of British empire and other wheats has not been settled and it is expected it will be some months before it is. In the meantime Argentina is reported as pressing sales, with the idea of disposing of as much of its wheat as possible before the quota system can be put into effect.

Corn Rallies After Break.

Corn was easy early on scattered selling, with the May dropping ½c to 39⅝@39¾c, a new low since Dec. 14. Under 40c, however, there was support from commission houses and also holders of bids and a rally of ¾c followed, with the finish at net gains of ⅛@¼c, the strength in wheat and in the stock market having considerable influence on pit sentiment. March finished at 38½c, May at 40¼@40⅜c, and July at 41⅞c.

A little improvement was shown in the shipping demand for cash corn, with sales of 23,000 bu, while country offerings were generally held above the market. Purchases of 10,000 bu were made to arrive. Buenos Aires finished ¼c lower to ¼c higher.

Oats showed independent weakness due to scattered selling and closed unchanged to ⅛c lower with May at 25¾c, and July at 25⅝@25½c. Rye was up ½c at the last, largely in sympathy with wheat. May finishing at 46½c, and July at 46⅜c.

BUTTER AND EGGS FIRM

A slightly better movement of storage stocks than expected during December, as revealed in the monthly storage report, firmed butter and egg futures on the Chicago mercantile exchange yesterday. Butter gained ⅜@½c, and eggs, ⅛@⅛c. Potato futures were unchanged to 2c lower. There was little if any improvement in the daily storage reports and butter production reports continued bearish. However, covering was fair and new buying increased. Eggs were rather quiet. February fresh graded opened at 13⅞c, the lowest level at which that delivery has opened in years. Sales: Butter, 91 cars; eggs, 15 cars; potatoes, 8 cars. Deliveries: Butter, 1 car; eggs, 4 cars. Prices follow:

WORLD'S GRAIN MARKET NEWS

Sentiment in the wheat trade was more two-sided at the close, due largely to the lightest selling pressure and a steady absorption of offerings on all breaks. It would be a decided help to the wheat trade were export purchases of American wheat largely increased, but, with Argentina and Australia filling up the foreign trade, this is not regarded as possible under present conditions. A more active demand for "offers" after the close was taken as indicating a possible short pit condition, and suggested a likelihood of a fair advance, should cables come higher and buying power increase.

Uneasiness as to severe damage to the wheat crop where it is abnormally advanced in some sections and in Kentucky and Tennessee in the jointed stage by a drop of 15 to 20 degrees in temperatures was noticeable in the wheat trade and was the basis for short covering and a little new buying.

Argentine shippers are offering freely in an endeavor to dispose of as much wheat as possible before proposed British quota goes into effect, says Broomhall. Australia is rather inclined to press sales. This wheat is affecting Liverpool market where all this grain is tenderable and the market reflects the true price of international wheat, Russian excepted, he says.

"As the season progresses it becomes more imperative that the foreign demand improve, or positive crop impairment develop to change the situation and sentiment," says J. F. Jackson of Norris Grain company. "The low price of wheat makes it very sensitive to constructive developments," he says.

British millers and others are said to be dissatisfied with the quota decided on for operation of British mills. Great Britain has been importing 55.7 per cent of foreign wheat and 44.3 per cent of dominion wheat. Proposals are to import 70 per cent dominion, 15 per cent foreign and 15 per cent home grown are not satisfactory to the English milling industry, as it is claimed that millers will have to pay higher prices for colonial wheat than the continent has to pay for its imports of foreign wheat.

MILLS BUY COTTON; PRICES MOVE UPWARD

Surroundings in the cotton trade are improving. Mills are making fair purchases of cotton, and cloth markets are said to be firmed with indications of further improvement. Selling pressure was limited yesterday until the highest prices were attained, causing a moderate reaction from the top, with a close at net gains of 9@18 points on futures in Chicago and 7@16 points in other markets, mostly 12@15 points. Spots were up 15 points in New York to 6.70c, with New Orleans gaining 10 points to 6.50c. Galveston was the same as New Orleans at 6.50c and Houston 6.45c. Liverpool closed 2 points net lower.

First hand offerings of cotton are said to be decreasing yet interior stocks are the largest on record. A substantial movement of goods was reported in Worth street with prices higher. European countries have taken about 36 per cent less American cotton than last year, while the far east takings have doubled. Weather over the cotton belt was wet and delayed movement. Prices follow:

LARD TRADE LARGER

An increase in the buying of lard by commission houses, particularly for May delivery, combined with the advance in the stock market and the steadiness in hog values and lighter receipts in the west than a year ago was largely responsible yesterday for an advance of 15@17½c in lard futures with the close at the top. At the same time, bellies were up 15c, with more trading. Selling of product was largely by warehousemen. Liverpool lard was unchanged, except for January, which dropped 3d. Export clearances of lard were 720,836 lbs.

Stocks of lard in cold storage on Jan. 1 were 50,819,000 lbs, an increase of 15,995 lbs last month. Stocks last year were 51,434,000 lbs. Cash trade in lard and meats was fair. Prices follow:

NEWS OF THE CROPS

In the eastern and central parts of the belt winter wheat is still in a satisfactory condition, says the government weekly crop report. In part of the Ohio valley there was some injury from heaving, while in other parts colder weather was beneficial in checking premature growth.

Broomhall reports general light rains throughout the grain belt of Argentina, which will further delay the movement of new crops.

Top yesterday, $6.60; average, $5.75.

Estimated receipts at Chicago today: cattle, 7,000; hogs, 35,000; sheep, 17,000.

It was a weather market for live stock yesterday, in which cattle and hogs suffered drastic price cuts. Buyers are unusually wary, pending developments in the wholesale trade for fresh meat, which the unseasonably warm spell has subjected to severe reverses. Holdovers in the hog yards were largest in many months and promised to make up the difference in today's receipts which are estimated smaller.

The stagnant wholesale trade for fresh pork was reflected in the precautionary buying by city butchers and smaller houses in the hog market yesterday. Larger houses also carried limited orders, being unwilling to load up in spite of the cold wave that is due.

Hog Prices Slip.

The general average price of hogs slipped down 10c to $4.00, equaling the previous 32 year low established about a month ago. Only a scattering of exceptionally choice lightweights reached $4.30, the top, the best later going at $4.20 and below. Little support was forthcoming from the speculative element when eastern interest in lightweights died down soon after the start and only 4,000 head were shipped, against 10,430 the previous Wednesday.

Conditions were similar at outside points, though the receding of wholesale pork prices was less marked east of here. Since Monday pork loins have dropped 2@3c and closed yesterday at 8@10c.

March Hogs Bid Up.

Contracts for March medium weight hogs were bid up to $5.00 on an otherwise lifeless futures trade yesterday. February hogs carried bids of $4.25. No offers to sell were made.

Yesterday's 12,000 cattle met the slowest trade since the holidays and additional price cuts were made in all but the small number selling at $10.00 and above. Local houses were among the leading competitors for the top classes. Swift paid the $11.00 top for 51 Illinois yearlings averaging 1,067 lbs for eastern trade. Few others passed $9.50 and the rank and file of plain to choice steers and yearlings sold within a range of $5.25@8.75.

Poorer grades shared in the reduction of 25c and some of the poorest of beef merit was bought as low as $4.50. Butcher stock ruled weak to 25c lower, lightweight heifers showing the least weakness.

Lambs Higher Again.

The lamb market yesterday behaved well in face of a declining wholesale trade for the dressed carcass. A rise of 25@50c featured the closing rounds and the top late went up to $6.60, within 30c of the highest paid here since middle of last October. Packers were buying eagerly in anticipation of the cold wave improving the demand for lamb later in the week.

Although fresh lamb is selling lower, conditions are not so distressing as in pork, and some of the leaders admit that the consuming channels are absorbing the record supplies of the last week in better shape than they had expected. The advance spread to yearlings and matured stock. Top ewes reached $3.25, equaling last month's high point.

NEW BUILDING PLANNED FOR WEST MADISON

Rented to Gotham Machine Corporation.

Plans have been completed and work is scheduled to start as soon as the present five story building can be wrecked, on a two story marble front modern, fireproof structure, at 231-35 West Madison street, by the Jessie S. Landon estate. The new building has been leased for ten years at a term rental of approximately $200,000 to the International Business Machines corporation. The lessee will take possession on May 1st. Thomas H. Willis, formerly H. H. Walker & Co., and agent for the Landon estate, negotiated the lease.

The new building will be used by the leasing corporation and its subsidiaries, the Dayton Scale company, the International Time Recording company, and the Tabulating Machine company for offices and display for the Chicago area. A feature of the new structure will be a three face clock over the main entrance. N. Max Dunning is architect of the building, which it is stated will cost in the neighborhood of $90,000. The site is 45x189.

Headquarters in Gotham.

The lessees are now at 323 West Madison street. The main offices are in New York. Samuel H. Hastings, an officer of the company and a director of the Central Republic Bank and Trust company, is in charge of the Chicago operations of the International Business Machines corporation. The heirs of the Landon estate are Jesse Spalding, Vaughn C. Spalding, Adele Harris Whiting, and Bertrande Spalding Coleman.

Frank J. Birk of Birk Brothers, ice manufacturers, has bought the apartment hotel property at 3711-13 Pine Grove avenue, lot 50x125, from Ida Siavitt for an undisclosed consideration. The building contains nineteen furnished suites and is under lease to Mrs. Mabel Allen, who operates it as an apartment hotel.

A. & P. Lease.

The county records yesterday disclosed an interesting lease renewal made by the Chicago Junction Terminal Building company to the Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea company for 190,380 square feet of warehouse space in the building at the southwest corner of Pershing road and South Canal street. The new lease starts on Oct. 1, 1932, and is for three years at a monthly rental of $5,314.75.

The Bosworth Economic institute and the Harry J. Bosworth Co. have leased from the Messenger corporation, the two story building at the southwest corner of 59th place and Wentworth avenue, through Edward M. Levin, of the Fantus Factory Locating Service, who was broker for both lessor and lessee.

The building has 20,000 square feet of floor space and was erected a few years ago. It has been occupied by the Messenger corporation, which has outgrown its quarters and is moving to a larger plant of one of its subsidiaries.

Why pay more than Household's low rate?

The nationally known Household Loan Plan offers cash loans of $50 to $300 to husbands and wives at reasonable rates.

Household's rate on all loans above $100 is almost one-third lower than the maximum permitted by the small loan law. We voluntarily established this low rate in 1928 and our customers have benefited ever since. This rate remains the same until the loan is paid off. It does not increase as the unpaid balance decreases.

FOR EXAMPLE:
The average monthly cost of a $200 loan repaid in 20 equal monthly payments is $2.63. This is the lowest cost in Chicago.

Get the Cost in DOLLARS Before You Borrow.

Strictly confidential. Husband and wife only need sign. No endorsers. 20 months to repay. Quick service.

Commonwealth Customers Pay LESS for LOANS

$2.93 is the average Monthly Cost of a $225 loan under COMMONWEALTH'S Reduced Rate. This allows 25 months for repayment. There is no lower cost than this in Chicago.

COMMONWEALTH'S rate on amounts above $100 is substantially lower than the lawful rate usually charged.

THE personal property which nearly every family owns and the signature of husband and wife enable one to secure any amount up to $300 quickly and easily.

THERE ARE NO fees or deductions. You may take 25 months or pay all or part sooner. Interest at the Reduced Rate is charged only while you keep the money.
